STILL HOPE BERLIN WILL YIELD TO US AND AVOID BREAK

Cabinet, However, Reaffirms Purpose to Bring U-Boat Situation to an Issue.

NOTE IS ALREADY DRAFTED

President and His Advisers Are Agreed, but He Pledges All of Them to Secrecy.

GERMANS PRAISE THEIR NOTE

Sussex Evidence Arrives on the Steamer St. Paul

A leather pouch containing the Sussex evidence and bearing the seal of the United States Embassy in London, which was kept in the strong room on the steamer St. Paul, was taken off at Quarantine when the liner arrived here yesterday and sent to Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—When the Cabinet adjourned today after an unusually long discussion devoted entirely to the considering the German and Mexican situations, an impression got about that some high officials entertained a hope that the next few days might bring some expression from Germany regarding the recent developments of the submarine war that would help clear up the situation. However this hope is not based upon any hint from Berlin. Indeed, it seems to arise chiefly from the inability of officials to believe that the German Foreign Office will stand indefinitely on the contentions of its note regarding the attack on the Sussex.

Every particle of evidence as it is added to the already formidable heap on the desks of President Wilson and Mr. Lansing further strengthens the view of the American Government that the Sussex was attacked without warning by a German submarine. The only evidence Germany has been able to submit in support of its expressed conclusion that the ship torpedoed at the time and place of the Sussex explosion is that a sketch made by the submarine commander did not agree with a photograph of the Sussex printed in a London publication. Press dispatches from France today say, however, that the German note's verbal description of the torpedoed ship corresponds in essential details with descriptions of the Sussex.

It is unheard of that one great Government should send to another as evidance a periodical's photograph as compared with a free-hand drawing by an interested person.

These illustrations, of course, are being forwarded by mail and the belief here is that the sole reason for this extraordinary course is that Germany hopes to gain the difference in time between cable and mail transmission.

While the Administration wishes to be absolutely sure of its ground before taking an irrevocable step, the indications today are that it will not wait for the pictures before making known its purpose. Additional affidavits, which are understood to support the conviction that the Sussex was torpedoed in direct violation of German pledges, are expected here tomorrow. But nearly three weeks will elapse before the arrival of the pictures, and their evidence is not regarded as worthy of consideration.

When the Cabinet met this morning it had before it a draft of the proposed communication to Germany. Officials are extremely reticent as to this communication's form and substance. It is said, however, by officials that it will be final, and that it will contain pointed references to far more incidents than the five referred to in the latest German note. It is described as a sort of blanket indictment running back over the many German offenses of the past few months.

This communication, it is now believed, will not be sent to Berlin before some time next week. This will give time at least for the inclusion of any reference that may be made to the latest German note, as well as to the inclusion of points supported by the affidavits expected tomorrow.

The hope that before this communication is put on the wires Germany will do something to relieve the tension between the two Governments does not seem to approach a definite expectation. Indeed, Germany could scarcely retract or modify her note, which ostensibly at least was drafted from all the information at her disposal. Perhaps the real significance of the vague hopefulness here today is the universal astonishment that Germany should present for serious consideration such a case as her note set forth.

Before the American communication goes to Berlin, it is expected that the President will either read it to the members of the Committees on Foreign Affairs or outline its contents to them. This has been the understanding with Congressional leaders since the crisis over armed merchantmen. It is not believed that the President will ask advice in the sense of putting himself in the position of being controlled by it, but rather that he will outline the note, or read it, and explain the general situation to he committees that would be called upon later to consider future eventualities.

Know the U-Boat's Number.

Not only is the Government convinced that the evidence it possesses is sufficient to show that the Sussex was torpedoed, but the State Department is also in possession of information identifying both the number of the U-boat and the name of its commander, that is believed to have made the attack.

This information came in a cablegram

Mercier Defiant to von Bissing's Threat; Can't Allow Him to Bind Prelate's Conscience

BRUSSELS, April 14.—Cardinal Mercier, Primate of Belgium, has sent a reply to the letter of General von Bissing, Governor General in the occupied portions of Belgium, protesting against statements in the Lenten pastoral of the Cardinal and warning the prelate that he must cease his alleged political activity. The Cardinal's letter says:

"It behooves us, Excellency, in answering the letter it pleased you to address us, to render homage to the courtesy you have shown to the venerated head of our Church.

"The faithful servant of our Lord Jesus Christ, we obeyed the summons of His representative on earth. But, you know, Excellency, that it was not we who solicited the great honor of laying our homage at the feet of his Holiness. Allow us, then, even smitten as we are by admiration before the warlike pomp surrounding you and the brilliant staff which, like King Saul, you have attached to your person, to retain, nevertheless, our full liberty of judgment.

"That liberty in the troubled hours through which our country is passing we cannot and will not relinquish. In doing so we remain faithful shepherd of that flock for which our Lord has given His life.

"We shall follow the teaching of the noble success of St. Peter, his Holiness Leo XIII. In his encyclical he instructed us as to obeying the civil authorities when they give orders manifestly contrary to the natural divine law: 'If any one distinctly finds himself faced with the alternative of breaking the commands of God or those of a Prince, he must follow the precepts of Jesus Christ and answer as did the apostle. It is better to obey God than man.'

"To act thus is not to merit reproach for disobedience, for Princes, when their will is in opposition to the divine will and law, exceed their power and corrupt justice. Hence their authority is not binding, because when it is not just it ceases.

"Excellency, your authority cannot then be exercised except in accordance with justice. Ecce in justitia regnabit Rex. (Behold, in justice the King will reign.)

"When a Prince casts aside justice we no longer owe him either obedience, respect, or loyalty. Placed by the will of God on the Archiepiscopal Throne of Malines we are only answerable to our conscience, and, if in the discharge of our holy office we are obliged to raise our voice, we believe ourselves to be following the teachings of our Divine Master.

"We 'render unto Caesar those things which are Caesar's,' for we pay you the silent homage due to strength, but we keep closed to your encroachments the sacred domain of our conscience, the last refuge of the rightful oppressed.

"It was not, your Excellency may be sure, without deep reflection that we denounced to the world the evils with which our brothers and sisters are overwhelmed—frightful evils, indeed atrocious crimes, the tragic horror of which cold reason refuses to admit.

"But had we not done so we should not have felt ourselves worthy to be the successor of the Apostles who converted the Belgian Gaul, nor the spiritual son of those who by their labors made illustrious the See of Malines, of which the Library of Louvain formed the purest jewel, the inestimable priceless treasure.

"In the almost fatal position in which our people are plunged we made our voice heard and hoped that our thoughts would be pondered on by you But a Prince shall have thoughts worthy of a Prince and shall keep his authority over the chiefs of his people.

"Belgian, we have heard the cries of sorrow of our people; patriot, we have sought to heal the wounds of our country; bishop, we have denounced crimes committed against our innocent priests.

"Excellency, we have the honor, &c."

STILL HAS AMPLE FUNDS

Government's Agent Tells of American Securities and Proceeds of Last Loan Now in Hand.

The French Government is negotiating with J. P. Morgan & Co. and associated bankers for placing in this country a comprehensive new loan, out of the proceeds of which payment will be made for both Government and commercial purchases. Gossip in the financial district has it that discussions are turning on a credit of about $200,000,000, but no amount has been agreed upon nor has the form which the loan will take been decided.

Octave Homberg, the financial representative of the French Government in this country, said yesterday that it was true, as he said some weeks ago, that no negotiations had then been entered into, and that there had accordingly been no delays in the matter. He said the French Government's finances, as regards obligations due in the United States, had always been in a comfortable position, and that there was no haste necessary now in agreeing upon terms. From the French Government's share of the $480,000,000 raised by means of the Anglo-French loan there remains unexpended between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000, and Mr. Homberg said that his Government had various other means for providing cash in the United States as it is needed. Most important among these is the sale of American securities owned in France, which has been going on steadily for a long time.

He also said that his Government had at no time been concerned in the movements of exchange on Paris and had used no artificial means to keep the price of francs up. The recent weakness was due entirely, he thought, to the break in the rate of French exchange on London, which directly effects a similar reduction at this centre. London has been calling gold from France. Mr. Homberg's statement follows:

"The last call on the Anglo-French Loan seems to have created in the financial district of New York an impression that the French Government was about to find itself short of dollars for its payment here, unless a new credit was immediately arranged. Therefore a certain feeling of nervousness has manifested itself on the Exchange market, and perhaps also a certain amount of speculation has been undertaken, which has caused the rate of francs to rise quickly to a very high quotation.

As was pointed out several weeks ago, the French Government has several distinct means of securing credits in dollars. As long as the French Government has at its disposal its share of the proceeds of the Anglo-French Loan, it naturally would have less recourse to these other means; when its share is exhausted, however, and the fact that the last call has been made for the 20th instant, does not prove that this is already the case, the French Government will then make use more freely of these other means.

"At any rate, one can be assured that the French Government will not find it any more necessary at the present time, than it has since last Fall, to go out into the Exchange market and purchase dollars. No orders are placed by the Government in the United States until all arrangments have been made for the financing of the same without purchasing exchange.

"At this time, negotiations for a further credit operation are well under way, and, although nothing is pressing, one can be sure that the French Government, true to its foresight and careful policy, will make such arrangements that funds which might be required will always be at is disposal long before they are actually needed."

Francs sold yesterday down to 6.08½, said to be a new low record, but they recovered before the close of business to 6.04½.

HAIL ASQUITH SPEECH AS ADVANCING PEACE

Two British Weeklies Profess to See an Opening Made for Diplomatic Discussion.

WIDE RUIN IN A LONG WAR

The Nation, However, Insists Germany Must Yield Land Seized and Her Vast Pretensions.

LONDON, April 14.—The Economist and The Nation, weekly newspapers which have shown a tendency favorable to a compromise of the war, suggest in current issues that the recent speech of Premier Asquith smooths a way toward peace. The editor of The Economist is Francis W. Hirst, a financial expert, who has taken an extremely pessimistic view of the effects of the war on European finances. The Economist says:

"If all the reasonable hopes of new territory entertained by all the belligerents could be realized, few persons will be bold enough to say that the realization of these hopes would compensate for the agony and misery, present and to come, of six months' prolongation of the war. Nor must it be forgotten that every month that passes increases the risk of public insolvency on the Continent, which would assuredly plunge thousands of firms into bankruptcy and indefinitely postpone the commencement of economies of recovery.

"The danger of popular revolutions as a result of the war was foreseen by Sir Edward Grey. It is now the duty of statesmanship to see whether a settlement is possible before a new masque of anarchy supervenes. Undoubtedly Mr. Asquith's speech has brought the possibility of a settlement near, if the German people and the German Government are, as neutral observers declare, already in the mood to return to the comity of nations."

The Nation, which as the organ of the advanced Liberals, has opposed the talk of revenge and the permanent division of Europe into two alliances, says:

"Europe has this week reverted to the international usage known as diplomacy. Cannon go on roaring, but statesmen have begun to talk to each other. Herr von Bethmann Hollweg has challenged Mr. Asquith to explain himself. Premier Asquith has responded and, in turn, the German Chancellor must deal with the English rejoinder."

The Nation says that no trace of envy of Germany's prosperity and "no plan of revenge for her cruelties" will be in the words or the spirit of the treaty, which she will be asked to sign. The paper continues:

"Nor, in spite of the wild talk and narrow vision of our reactionaries, is Germany's commercial future endangered by a boycott after the war, but she has to commit one act of retrocession and amendment. She must withdraw from every rod of foreign land she now occupies both her armies and the vast pretensions which sustain her policy of absorption and dominance. She has to acknowledge there is such a thing as Europe, that European affairs are common affairs; that the liberties of States, great and small, are common liberties and that European armaments are things to be mutually discussed and limited."

AUSTRIA FORCED INTO WAR?

Dr. Liebknecht Said to Have Evidence Against the Potsdam Party.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, April 15.—The statement that Dr. Liebknecht, the German Scialist leader, has obtained possession of important documents showing that Austria was forced into the war by the Potsdam party against the wishes of Vienna and Budapest is made in a letter to R. N. Lowe of Spilburn Manor, Bishop-Auckland, received from Dr. Paul Lassen, the well-known Danish Socialist.

The letter, which is published in The Daily Chronicle, also provides further indications of war weariness in Germany.

BOMB PLOT MEN, DESERTED IN JAIL, MAY NAME CHIEFS

NATION-WIDE SEARCH BEGUN

DR. SCHEELE'S BANK BOOKS

Head of Chemical Works, Who Got von Papen's Checks, Had Five Accounts—More Papers Seized.

The arrest on Wednesday of eight German subjects, all of whom, with one exception, are employes of either the Hamburg-American or North German Lloyd Steamship Company, marked the beginning of a nation-wide investigation of the activities of alien conspirators who, according to information in the hands of the Government, have been responsible for many efforts since the war began to destroy Allied ships at sea.

That none of the men who were in authority in the direction of the alleged conspiracy has been arrested is admitted by Government officials. Dr. Walter R. Scheele, the ninth man named in the complaint on which the eight men were held by United States Commissioner Houghton, is still missing, and Government agents and the police have found no clue to his whereabouts. Mrs. Scheele, at her home in Bogota, N. J., yesterday afternoon said that Dr. Scheele had left home two weeks ago to go to Pennsylvania to look over some mining properties. She had not heard from him since he went away, she said, and she added that his failure to write was not unusual.

Engineers All Go to Jail.

The four men arrested on Thursday, Chief Engineer Schmidt and Fourth Assistant Engineers Garbode, Paradis, and Praedel of the North German Lloyd liner Friedrich der Grosse, were arraigned before Commissioner Houghton yesterday afternoon, charged with being concerned in the ship fire bomb conspiracy. Commissioner Houghton held Schmidt in $15,000 and the other three in $5,000 bail each for a hearing on April 27. None of them gave bail and all were sent to the Tombs. The fact that none of the engineers gave bail was cited by a Government agent as another proof of the policy of those higher up to desert any of "the little fellows" who might be caught.

"They only look after the big guns," said the agent as he recalled that Robert Fay, Walter Scholz, Paul Daeche, and other accused aliens who were useful only when not in the toils of the Government were still in the Tombs.

Captain Eno Bode and Captain Otto Wolpert, the Hamburg-American pier Superintendents who were arrested on Wednesday, promptly furnished $25,000 bail each when arraigned before Commissioner Houghton the next day. Ernest Becker, the electrician who is said to have confessed his part in the plot, and Captain von Kleist, who worked for Scheele in the latter's chemical factory in Hoboken, are among those deserted. They are still in the Tombs in default of $5,000 bail.

300 Bombs, 10 to a Boat.

Assistant United States District Attorney Roger B. Wood said yesterday afternoon that all three of the fourth engineers had made statements which in part, at least, corroborated the revelations of Becker and von Kleist. Chief Engineer Schmidt also made what Mr. Wood termed "some sort of a statement," but as for Bode and Wolpert, the two who were able to find bondsmen, they have refused to utter a word when questioned by the Government officials. Bode is known to have been close to Captain Boy-Ed when the latter was in this country, while both he and Wolpert are said to know Captain von Papen, the recalled German Military Attaché, very well.

Among the admissions said to have been made by Chief Engineer Schmidt was that about 300 bombs had been manufactured and that ten bombs were put upon each vessel selected for destruction.

It was said in the office of the United States District Attorney yesterday that a special bank examiner had been sent by the Government to investigate the financial operations of Dr. Scheele and others alleged to have had a part in the direction of the fire bomb plot. This examiner went to work yesterday, and is understood to have examined several accounts that Scheele opened in banks in New York and in Hoboken. His report, it was said, may be ready today.

As told in THE TIMES yesterday, Scheele, when he opened his account in the First National Bank of Hoboken, gave as a reference a letter written by Christopher L. Meyerdirks, a department manager in the banking house of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, 15 William Street, this city. Mr. Meyerdirks was seen at the bank yesterday, and said he gave the letter of reference on the strength of a seven years' acquaintance with Dr. Scheele. Dr. Scheele, he said, had been a neighbor of his in the Ridgewood section of Brooklyn, where for many years Dr. Scheele owned a paying drug store. In February of last year, he said, Dr. Scheele sold his drug store, and since then he had seen very little of him.

First Deposit $10,000.

It was also said at the bank that Scheele had opened an account there within the last two years, his first deposit being a check for $10,000. The check was handled in the usual order, it was said, and no official remembered the name of the maker.

Lieutenant Busby of Captain Tunney's Headquarters staff went to Hoboken yesterday and directed another search of Dr. Scheele's chemical factory. It was said at Police Headquarters that among other things found among Dr. Scheele's papers was documentary evidence that indicated that the alleged plotters may have been active in New Orleans and Savannah. The authorities of those cities were asked by telegraph to make an immediate investigation of any possible clue they might find.

The police are also said to have found in the factory a quantity of smokeless powder and various acids used in explosives. The evidence gathered indi-

EARLY REPLY NOT EXPECTED

MEXICO'S POWER DOUBTED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President Wilson is not yet ready to withdraw the American punitive expedition from Mexico, and the American forces are going ahead for the sole object of capturing Villa and dispersing his band. While no official announcement was made today respecting the attitude of the Administration toward the suggestion from the Carranza de facto Government that the troops should be withdrawn, the strongest intimation was given in high official quarters that the Pershing expedition would remain in Mexico until its object had been accomplished.

When Secretary Lansing was asked whether this Government would be willing "to treat" with the de facto Government of Mexico regarding the withdrawal of the American forces, he replied that this Government was prepared "to treat" with the Carranza Government about the matter of the time of the departure of the American forces, but at the same time it was learned that in any negotiation the United States Government view as to the proper time for the withdrawal of the troops would depend "upon the happening of something."

It was strongly intimated that the troops would not be withdrawn until Villa had been captured, or definitely shown to be dead, and his bands dispersed, or until it could be demonstrated clearly that the Carranza Government was qualified to relieve the American forces of the task of capturing Villa.

No Change in Policy.

President Wilson and his advisers canvassed the Mexican situation carefully from every point of view at today's Cabinet meeting and concluded there had been no development warranting any present change in the previously announced policy. Secretary of State Lansing asserted late in the afternoon that there had been no change of policy with respect to the stay of the expedition in Mexico. Secretary of War Baker reiterated this statement tonight and said that no orders had been sent to Major Gen. Funston calling for any change in the original orders and officially announced purpose of the expedition.

The Administration is not construing General Carranza's communication of yesterday as being a demand for the withdrawal of the troops. Instead of being a demand for the withdrawal of the American forces, or even a request, the Carranza communication is being regarded by the Washington Government as only an invitation to treat with the de facto Government regarding the withdrawal of the troops. It was pointed out by officials that the Carranza note asserted that "it is now time to treat with the Government of the United States upon the subject of the withdrawal of its forces from our territory."

This invitation has not been accepted and no reply has been made to the Carranza communication. One will undoubtedly be sent, but it was intimated by a high official tonight that the reply to the Carranza communication probably would not be made until after the note to the German Government in the Sussex case has been sent.

Weakness of Carranza Regime.

It is not yet the official opinion in Washington that the Carranza Government is strong enough to put down the Villistas, and the attack on the American detachment at Parral Wednesday night is considered excellent evidence of the weakness of the Carranza authorities, as they were unable to control the situation which resulted in what is regarded as having been an unwarranted attack.

The ease with which Villa has been able to move 400 miles southward from the border without being headed off by the Carranza forces is also regarded here as proof that the military forces of the de facto Government are either unable or unwilling to capture Villa. During his flight Villa was relentlessly pursued by American troops, and the Carranza Government had ample time to interpose troops across the known routes that he might take toward Parral and Durango, but failed to place any serious obstacles in his path.

Many of the points raised in the Carranza note were viewed as referring to the protocol negotiations which followed, and not to the original reciprocal agreement.

It will take time to gather and study all the facts. Part of the negotiations with Mr. Arredondo were conducted by Counselor Polk in the absence of the Secretary. Mr. Polk is resting at Hot Springs, Va., and will not return to Washington until next Tuesday. Secretary Lansing showed no inclination to

President and Baker in Midnight Conference; War Secretary Denies Change in Mexican Policy

WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 15.—Secretary Baker and President Wilson conferred on the Mexican situation at midnight.

Later the Secretary said he still was without official information regarding the clash between Mexicans and American troops at Parral and that no significance could be attached to his late visit to the White House, as he merely had awaited the President's return from the theatre.

Secretary Baker said there was no change in the Mexican policy. He took with him the latest sheaf of telegrams from General Funston, but these contained no messages from General Pershing.

The report was current tonight that General Funston had asked for more troops to be sent to the border. Secretary Baker was asked about this, but declined to answer on the ground that he did not care to discuss the exchange of messages between the Department and General Funston regarding military matters.

MEXICO REVEALS SECRET PARLEYS

Mexico Says They Accepted Some Limitations, Including Only 15 Days' Pursuit.

MEXICO CITY, April 14.—The Mexican Government will insist with inflexible determination that any armed expedition of the United States which enters Mexican territory in the guise of a punitive expedition must be limited to 1,000 men of one service alone, cavalry, according to a statement made to The Associated Press today by Juan Neftali Amador, Sub-Secretary of Foreign Relations.

During the absence of General Candido Aguilar, Minister of Foreign Relations, in Queretaro, Sub-Secretary Amador is in charge of the Foreign Office, and is conducting its course in international affairs.

"The Mexican Government has contended in all of its notes to the Washington State Department," said the Sub-Secretary, "that the sending of heavy artillery and slow marching infantry on a punitive expedition is illogical, and the work of the present so-called punitive expedition has more than demonstrated this, for they have accomplished absolutely nothing. Mexico will insist and has in all of its communications to Washington insisted that all punitive expeditions must be limited to certain restricted areas.

"The request of the United States that the present expedition be considered exceptional cannot be agreed to by the Mexican Government for the very good reason that each day of its presence so far inland does but excite our people. This is being taken advantage of by enemies of the Constitutionalist Government who are endeavoring to stage incidents that will cause grave international complications.

Points to the Parral Case.

"The Parral incident is a case in point. Consider this happening the last drop in the bucket and believe that when the American people and the American Government realize its full significance they will gladly accede to Mexico's request, and in the interest of peace and in line with the traditional friendship which exists between the two countries, will withdraw the troops.

"No one has ever questioned the honesty of the purpose of the United States in limiting the present military movement to a punitive nature, but it is hard to convince the population that a force of thousands of men of three branches of the service do not have the semblance of invaders. The Mexican Government believes in the friendship of the United States, and believes that the present crisis will pass, leaving relations more cordial than ever."

General Carranza asked to be excused from discussing international questions, and referred the correspondent to the Foreign Office, which he said was fully authorized to present the views of himself and his Government. Sub-Secretary Amador then explained Mexico's position.

No Threat to Carranza.

The Sub-Secretary was asked as to the correctness of the reports that the Government of the State of San Luis Potosi and certain high army officers had served notice on General Carranza that unless the American troops were withdrawn within a certain specified time they would join in opposing their further movement southward.

"This is absolutely untrue," replied Señor Amador. "It is true enemies of the Carranza Government have been working strenuously with the people of the North to persuade them that the present movement is invasive and not punitive in its nature. At first they met with some success, but we are convinced that the people now understand the situation.

"The attack on the Americans in Parral was due to the influence of these enemies of the Government. One of them fired point blank at an American soldier, killing him. General shooting then commenced.

"Although the soldiers had orders not to enter towns, these men were forced into Parral because they could get nothing to eat in the surrounding country, and were so far from the border that it was impossible to send them provisions without giving this expedition the appearance of being something more than its name suggests.

"That is the reason the Mexican Government has insisted in its notes to Washington that the limits of the zone which may be traversed by any punitive expeditions extend not further than forty miles, nor, in our opinion, should punitive expeditions be allowed in the territory of either country for an unlimited time. Our note of March 18, Ar-

PARRAL FIGHTING BLAMED ON MOB

Two Unarmed Soldiers Sent to Town Said to Have Been Attacked by Rioters.

CASUALTIES STILL IN DOUBT

Carranza Troops Reported to Have Given Their Aid in Suppressing Disorder.

EL PASO, April 14.—The mystery as to what really happened at Parral where American troops clashed with Mexicans Wednesday, became more baffling than ever tonight, due to the amazing variety of conflicting reports which poured into El Paso.

There was one point which was definite: A message was received by an American concern from its representative in Parral stating that at 5 o'clock Wednesday evening American soldiers were passing through Parral and that everything was quiet then. As the fighting between the Americans and Mexicans is reported to have occurred some time on Wednesday, this message only served to make the situation more perplexing.

An account of the affair brought here today by an American from Chihuahua City was that the trouble started when two American soldiers were sent into Parral by Major Tompkins to make arrangements for the purchase of supplies. Their presence aroused the people of the city, who already had been agitated by reports that the American troops were going to take possession of the town.

Fired On by Mob.

The two soldiers were surrounded by an angry mob, and some shots were fired, which killed one of them. The mob then rushed out in the direction of the main body of the Americans, and some indiscriminate fighting took place, in which Mexicans were wounded. The Carranza garrison assisted in restoring order, according to this account, and later the Americans passed quietly through the city.

There was no possibility of verifying the report, any more than of verifying the other reports, ranging from an account of a complete massacre of the American soldiers to an account of a massacre of Mexicans.

There were unconfirmed reports that the battle was more desperate than indicated in the Mexican official advices and that it lasted for three hours. One report had it that more than 100 Mexican civilians and Carranza soldiers were killed and wounded and that one American soldier was killed and several were wounded. The Americans were were said to have used a machine gun in the battle.

Entered Town for Messages.

Brig. Gen. George Bell declared this afternoon that he believed a version of the Parral affair which stated that two couriers sent into Parral to get messages for Major Tompkins, and not upon the Major's armed command, had been fired on.

"This later explanation of the affair seems more reasonable than the one first received, which stated that the American troops were riding through the town when the natives fired upon them," said General Bell.

"All of our commanders have been warned repeatedly by General Pershing not to enter the settlements on the trails which they are following, and it does not seem reasonable that such a seasoned campaigner as Major Tompkins would violate such a well established and well-known rule."

General Gavira, Carranza commandant at Juarez, said tonight he had received no reports to indicate the Parral incident had inflamed the people over whom he holds command.

"It must be remembered that Parral was one of Villa's strongholds," he continued. "When the Americans appeared it would have been an easy matter for these Villa sympathizers to make the ignorant believe the Americans intended to capture and hold their town. This evidently happened."

Gavira's Men in Control.

Gavira said he had received no other telegrams, official or otherwise, relating to the Parral affair.

"My troops have the situation under control as far south as Madera," he continued, "and I know there have been no manifestations against the Americans in my territory, nor have I heard of any further trouble at other places.

"The presence of American troops in Mexico is a cause of uneasiness on the part of the de facto Government, as the Parral incident shows. If the Americans were withdrawn, our Government would then give its entire attention to economic problems. With economic conditions bettered, prosperity soon would return and political conditions become stable."

PERSHING ESCAPES AMBUSH

SURPRISE ATTACK BY NIGHT

ONE OF VILLISTAS KILLED

Cook's Hat Shot Off, but None of Our Men Is Hurt—Fight Lasts Thirty Minutes.

By FRANK B. ELSER,

Special Correspondent of The New York Times.

GENERAL PERSHING'S CAMP AT THE FRONT IN MEXICO, April 12, (via Aeroplane to Chihuahua City, Mexico, April 13, and Telegraph to El Paso Junction, April 14.)—Mexican bandits, some mounted and some on foot, concealed in a dense growth of mesquite at the roadside, opened fire last night on an automobile of General Pershing's escort, and then attacked a truck train of the aero squadron bringing up the rear of the column. Officers ordered all lights out instantly, and the rear trucks were formed into a hollow square. Lying flat in the sand the American troops poured lead into the mesquite, firing at flashes made by the attackers' rifles.

The firing lasted thirty minutes, the bandits shooting low and sending many bullets under the trucks, kicking up dust and flattening against the iron wheels. A cook in the aero squadron had his hat shot off, but there were no casualties among the Americans. The darkness and mesquite prevented our troops from pursuing or determining the Mexican casualties.

General Pershing had passed the scene of the clash scarcely half an hour before the attack was made, thus escaping what may have been a planned ambush. It was about 9 o'clock, and there was half moon light when the first shots whizzed between the windshield and the seat of a car at the tail end of the column accompanying the General. The shots came from the left of the road at varying distances of 75 to 300 yards.

Fire from Both Sides.

The car first fired on was stopped abruptly with squeaking brakes. Then, like a string of firecrackers, flashes from rifles strung rearward as the bandits opened attack on the eleven aero trucks behind. The bandits' firing later came from both sides of the road and down the road itself, semicircling our troops, who used rifles, six-shooters, and automatics. The chauffeurs and mechanics assisted the guards, who fired five volleys and some scattering shots, which dispersed the attackers.

Captain T. E. Dood of Aurora, Ill., had charge of the truck train, and with Lieutenant A. R. Christie, East Orange, N. J., directed the counterattack. THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, with others accompanying General Pershing, driving hard to keep up with his fast moving car, bowled over the mesa where the attack was made only five minutes ahead, strangely drawing no fire. The scene of the fight was nearly 500 miles southeast of Columbus, near a small town which cannot be mentioned and almost within hearing distance of the camp of a considerable body of Carranzistas, who had been scouring this region for Villistas under General Tarango. It is believed the attack on the trucks was conducted by Tarango with about fifty men.

After motoring a hundred miles on Tuesday over the worst roads the expedition has encountered, the column arrived here late last night with General Pershing, who now is traveling with a flying squadron of automobiles close behind the cavalry vanguard A cavalry detachment brought in four prisoners tonight. There was no news of Villa himself.

Attacked by Tarango's Men.

GENERAL PERSHING'S CAMP AT FRONT, April 12, (via Aeroplane to Chihuahua, April 13, and Wire to El Paso Junction, April 14.)—About forty mounted men, believed to be Villa soldiers of General Tarango's command, attacked last night an automobile supply train and were driven off after a short fight. There were no American casualties. One Villa bandit was killed.

General Pershing moved his camp south yesterday, penetrating far into Villa territory, where he found numerous de facto Government detachments under General Garza, who gave the Americans a friendly greeting and co-operation. Aeroplanes were first to reach this new front. General Pershing traveled here in an automobile train of supply trucks which made a record-breaking trip.

The fight, which occurred about 9 o'clock last night, was several miles in the rear of the automobiles carrying General Pershing and his escort. It lasted about twenty minutes. When the bandits who tried to capture one truck came up, the Americans poured in five volleys, which ended the fight completely. There were two attacks, the first a slight one, and directed against a forward truck. The last attack was a rush against the rear trucks, during which bullets flew against the Americans. The American soldiers thought they hit some of the bandits.

AMBUSH ATTEMPTED THRICE.

Tenth Cavalry Troopers' Fight at Aguascalientes Described.

GENERAL PERSHING'S CAMP AT THE FRONT, Mexico, April 7, (by Courier to Columbus, N. M., April 14.)—About thirty men of the Tenth Cavalry, negroes, who were in the fight with Villa bandits April 1 at Aguascalientes, arrived here today for rest and reoutfitting.

The men were sure they had killed more than the three dead covered in the official report. Three times, the Villa forces, numbering about 150, attempted to ambush the advance guards of the Tenth. Not more than three troops of the Tenth participated in the fight, which lasted an hour and a half.

The Tenth was riding for Guerrero when the troopers approached the town of Aguascalientes. The advance guard went forward cautiously as they approached the town, which was hidden behind a hill. Nearing the top of this rise, the advance, without warning, was subjected to volley fire, coming simultaneously from both sides of the road. The Villa men shooting at the Americans were behind hills on either side. Troop E of the Tenth was brought up at a trot, while F Troop went around to flank the Villa bandits and drive them out of the hill. Troop H was hurried forward.

Fled Into Mountains.

As E Troop rounded the hill at a gallop, it got within a minute's ride of the Villa forces on that side. Some of the cavalrymen were so close that they used their pistols. One Villa man was killed in this part of the skirmishing by a pistol shot at about fifty yards. The moment that E Troop appeared, the Villa bandits rode for the side of a mountain overlooking the town.

"It was the steepest mountain side we have seen anybody climbing," said one of the men today, "and they knew the trails, while we did not, but we went up after them. We went up on our horses until they made a stand from behind rocks. The bullets were whistling all around us, but they never hit one of us. They had a machine gun in action, too. We dismounted and returned the fire. Then they ran further up the mountain, with us after them, until they made another stand. We opened fire on them again, but they would not stand. At last they got away in the steep trails which they knew, while we climbed rocks and fallen trees and fell behind."

An officer said the negro troopers spotted the place from which the machine gun fire came and got there so rapidly that they found the tripod on which the gun had stood still in place. The gun, however, was gone.

One machine gun of the Americans was in action for a very short time, firing only a few rounds. It poured these into a cabin, wounding a Villa bandit concealed there.

Coffee Hoard Cost His Life.

Among the Villa men killed was a soldier who tarried too long trying to take his burro off with him. The reason for his eagerness to save the burro was apparent when the Americans got to his body. The burro stood beside him, loaded with what the cavalrymen in this campaign have dubbed "gold," namely, coffee. Most of the soldiers regarded this capture as of more importance than the Villa prisoners or the two dozen horses and mules taken. The Carranza prisoners held by the bandits were liberated by the Americans.

A detachment of the Tenth arriving here today had been without an issue of regular rations since March 21. The men had lived off the country, eating beef, beans, and parched corn. They appeared to be in good condition, but returned with horses which needed rest.

"Yesterday," one of the troopers said, "I had a piece of hardtack. Say, it tasted just like cake."

"All the newspapers are gone at Aguascalientes," another trooper remarked. "We burned them up, every one of them, making cigarette papers."

Some of the others rolled over and fell asleep on the dry, brown grass, but most of them sat quietly, their eyes watching the pile of food supplies at the Quartermaster's depot, as they talked about the flavor of bacon, coffee, and tobacco.

"I'll stay in this country hunting Villa for ten years," said one, "if they will just give me something to eat right now, quick."

These men had worn out their shoes. They said they had seldom ridden or walked on a road in the sixteen days they had been out, but had been climbing on mountains.

The squadron in the Aguascalientes fight was commanded by Colonel W. C. Brown. Major Charles Young led the immediate chase of the bandits. Lieutenant Henry Abbey, Jr., commanded the advance guard, which took the first Villa fire. Lieutenant John Kennard commanded F troop in the chase.

WANTS US TO WITHDRAW.

Baldwin Says Our Expedition Has Accomplished Its Purpose.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 14.—Ex-Governor Simeon E. Baldwin said tonight that United States troops should be withdrawn from Mexico. In discussing the situation he added:

"We have no lawful right to invade another country with an armed force without its consent, except under extraordinary danger and peril to ourselves. This was the ground which we took when England invaded New York and burned the steamer Caroline during a Canadian rebellion. Daniel Webster was then Secretary of State, and England assented to the justice of his position.

"I think the protective purpose of our expedition into Mexico was accomplished as soon as Villa was driven back so far that we were in no danger from him, and that the Mexican desire for the withdrawal of our troops should be gratified."

CARRANZA IN MEXICO CITY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, April 14, (via Galveston.)—The ringing of the bells of the ancient Cathedral and other Catholic churches at 11 o'clock this morning announced to the Mexican people that First Chief Carranza and the members of his Cabinet were entering the National Palace. General Carranza and his party arrived in the capital before daybreak. From the Colonia station they went to a hotel, where they remained until a few minutes before 11, when they started for the palace.

Those escorting General Carranza were Generals Gonzales, Obregon, Lopez, De Lara, and many others. Few persons were aware of their arrival. When the bells started ringing a big crowd gathered in front of the palace, shouting "vivas" to Carranza and the other chiefs.

The military bands paraded the main thoroughfares, playing national airs. The bulk of the army coming from Queretaro entered the city during the forenoon.

General Carranza declined to make any statement regarding the international situation, and for several hours was conferring with his Ministers and Generals. The belief prevails that General Carranza will remain here about two weeks. General Gonzales, in command here, is preparing to leave the city for Morelos to push a campaign against the Zapatistas. The city is being garrisoned with Obregon's command.

The capital is in complete quiet, there being no excitement on account of the Parral incident.

"We would be traitors if we did not follow our First Chief's orders and prevent any demonstrations because of the presence of the American troops in Mexico," he said. "It may be a hurt to personal pride to have this condition existing, but we are satisfied with the good faith of the American Government, and we are doing everything to carry out our orders. We know too well the fate of the Boers in South Africa to wish to have our country undergo a similar fate because of our pride."

The advance guard which met the unexpected attack in Parral probably has passed the Chihuahua-Durango line, and now is in a district where Villa has a strong following.

From different sections of Lower Chihuahua came vague reports of disorders arising from economic conditions, and that the de facto Government was having difficulty in maintaining order.

Reports American Killed.

TORREON, Mexico, April 13, (via El Paso Junction, April 14.)—Advices received here say that the American force engaged in the Parral fight was under command of Major Tompkins, and that at least one American was killed and several Mexicans wounded. The death list of Mexicans is not known.

The trouble is reported to have been quickly quelled. After an exchange of shots, it is said, the authorities succeeded in regaining control of the situation.

In Torreon the military authorities declined to comment on the incident, but the better class of citizens expressed deep mortification and a hope that there would be no recurrence of the event.

It is announced that Mariano Arrieta has not revolted against General Carranza. Instead he has gone to Mazatlan, en route to Queretaro, to see the de facto chief. Domingo Arrieta will follow tomorrow. The latter will place his troops provisionally at the disposition of General Trevino, the Carranza commander in Torreon. The Peace Commission has arrived at Pedricena, and the results of its mission are expected soon.

General Maycotte will leave here Friday for Pedricena to conclude negotiations with General Canuto Reyes for the surrender of Reyes and his command.

Casualties on Both Sides.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 14.—General P. Elias Calles, Military Governor of Sonora, today received an official telegram from General Gavira, notifying him of the outbreak against a command of American cavalrymen on Wednesday at Parral.

Gavira said that after the Americans had been ordered out of the city by a mob of citizens members of the mob opened fire on the Americans who immediately returned it. Several were wounded on each side, the message stated. The Americans withdrew at once to the outskirts of Parral.

General Calles made no comment on the message.

REPORTS TO FUNSTON ON THE PARRAL FIGHT

Consul Letcher Sends Unofficial Story That Men Fired On Went Into Town for Supplies.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 14.—The Americans on whom the Mexicans at Parral fired were unarmed, according to an unconfirmed version of the incident current in Chihuahua and transmitted to General Funston today. According to this story, forty of the troopers entered Parral, presumably to purchase supplies, and were fired on. Two were killed and the rest retreated to the main body of troops encamped outside the city.

The attacking force pursued them and was met by a fire from the Americans, who were using a machine gun, killing forty Mexicans. According to this story, the attacking party comprised Carranza soldiers and civilians.

The report of the Parral incident was sent by Consul Letcher from Chihuahua City to General Bell at El Paso, who forwarded it to General Funston. Full allowance was given by departmental officers to Consul Letcher's qualifying words "unconfirmed version that was current" in Chihuahua City, but there was manifested a disposition to credit the report.

Think Troops Went Unarmed.

Many of the officers at headquarters here regarded the story of the affair as more probable than some of the versions which have come out of Mexico. It was pointed out that in previous cases soldiers had entered towns to buy supplies and had been received in a friendly manner by the residents, and that if they had gone into Parral for that purpose they probably went unarmed.

General Funston continued his efforts today to get an official report from General Pershing of the occurrence. The last heard from General Pershing was that he was moving south from Satevo, and it is presumed that the commanding officer of the detachment that had the fight at Parral had sent his report back in the usual manner, first to his Colonel, who then would transmit it to General Pershing, who in turn would have to overcome the difficulties of communication by courier or aeroplane to a wireless station.

General Funston's orders to officers along the line of communication to guard against attack and to dispatch scouts to ascertain movements of any body of troops, whether Carranza's or Villa's, are being carried out along the entire line, it is understood.

Lieutenants Gorrell and Dargue, in an aeroplane, scouting for some trace of General Arnulfo Gomez's forces that were reported preparing to move toward Casas Grandes, failed to find the troops, but did make what is said to be a new record in army aviation, flying 310 miles in four hours and twenty minutes. They passed along the Chihuahua-Sonora State line some distance into the State of Sonora in the neighborhood of Pulpitos Pass, but saw nothing of any troops, notwithstanding a close scrutiny of the country from an elevation at one time of 7,000 feet.

Searching for Gomez's Men.

General Gomez was at Agua Prieta, where he said he was awaiting orders to join in the pursuit of Villa, but some anxiety had been aroused here by the dispatch a few days ago of a force in the direction of the American line of communication. The search for that and other forces will be continued.

Just what precautionary steps had been taken by General Funston to guard the line and meet any eventuality were not revealed. He received no new instructions from the War Department. It was admitted here that he had now almost full authority to use his own judgment in meeting any situation, even to sending into Mexico all of the 19,000 troops along the border, but the incident at Parral has not caused him to alter his opinion that it would be unwise to draw on that force for support of the punitive expedition, leaving parts of the long international boundary line unguarded.

Short of a war measure, General Funston would hesitate to use the railroads between Chihuahua City and the border without authority from Washington, and no such authority has been given him, it is authoritatively stated today at his headquarters.

KEEP AFTER VILLA, SENATORS INSIST

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Senators are practically unanimous tonight that the United States should deny the request of General Carranza for the withdrawal of troops from Mexico. A few took the hopeful view that the First Chief in his long note to the United States was writing more for home consumption than with the expectation of results, and that his request could be put off without serious friction. But General Carranza's account of the fighting at Parral, with his warning that such an incident might be repeated indefinitely if the American expedition remained in Mexico, has given a more serious emphasis to his formal note.

Feeling in the Senate is that the army must be strengthened, or the probability of incidents leading up to general intervention must be squarely faced. Most of the Senators seemed not to shrink from this outlook and to believe that anything would be better than a confession of the expedition's failure and its withdrawal in the face of General Carranza's truculent attitude.

Mr. Stone of Missouri, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, after conferring with Secretary Lansing, expressed the unqualified view that the question now before the country was one of reversing the past policy of non-intervention, or of recalling General Pershing's force. The continuance of the old policy, he seemed to think, was incompatible with a continued occupation of any Mexican territory.

"By maintaining a force of 12,000 or 15,000 men in Mexico," said Senator Stone, "we are certainly going to create friction. If we are prepared now to abandon our established policy the thing to do is to keep the troops there and get ready for intervention. If we are going to stand by our policy of the past we must bring our troops out.

Hard to Capture Villa.

"I strongly favored sending the expedition in pursuit of Villa to show we were in earnest, whether we caught him or not. I have never believed we should achieve the main purpose of the expedition and catch Villa. Diaz had a price on Villa's head for years and did not get him. I do not doubt that Carranza would like to get him, but is unable to do so. Villa is in his own country and our men are in a territory that is difficult and that they do not know well.

"The problem confronting this country is how long it would be wise to keep our expeditionary force in Mexico. We have recognized the de facto Government of Mexico and have agreed to send our force for a certain purpose. How long can we let that army stay in a foreign country where friction already exists and where more friction is bound to develop? To my mind the only alternative to withdrawing the troops is intervention, sooner or later."

While Mr. Stone did not indicate which of the two policies he outlined should be followed, there is reason to believe he has not changed his position since he said, as far back as President Taft's Administration, that troops should be sent into Mexico in large numbers for the pacification of the country.

Mr. Stone said he learned nothing from Secretary Lansing that had not already been published, as no late advices were available at the department.

A joint resolution, declaring that American troops in Mexico "must not for any reason be withdrawn until Francisco Villa has been killed, captured or forced into exile," was introduced in the House today by Representative Jeff McLemore, a Texas Democrat.

The resolution would authorize the President to call for volunteers, if additional military forces in Mexico were deemed necessary.

Mr. McLemore was the author of the resolution warning Americans not to travel on armed merchantmen of the belligerent European countries. This resolution evoked a furore in Administration circles several weeks ago and was finally tabled in the House.

Text of McLemore Resolution.

After detailing the incidents of Villa's raid on Columbus, N. M., the McLemore resolution and preamble reads:

Whereas, Thereafter it was announced that an American military expedition would be sent into Mexico, and the public was given to understand that the orders given the commander of that expedition were to get Villa, alive or dead; and

Whereas, It has since become public knowledge that the orders given were merely to disperse Villa's forces and leave his capture or execution to the forces of Venustiano Carranza, which forces have, from the beginning, been unable or unwilling to capture or execute Villa; and

Whereas, Venustiano Carranza and his civil and military lieutenants have put obstacles in the way of the pursuit of Villa by the military forces of the United States, and have by intricate technical negotiations diverted the executive authorities of this Government from their primary duty of rendering that pursuit as satisfactory and as safe as possible; and

Whereas, Venustiano Carranza has demanded that United States forces withdraw from Mexico without having accomplished their object or any good effect whatever, and has charged this Government with bad faith; and

Whereas, Due to the stand taken by Venustiano Carranza and his civil and military lieutenants in refusing to sanction the passage of American troops through cities and towns of Mexico, a company of American troops has been attacked by Carranza soldiers and some of them have been killed and wounded; be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring) that the American military forces now in Mexico must not for any reason be withdrawn from Mexico until Francisco Villa has been killed, captured, or forced into exile, the occurrence of any of these results to be determined by competent American authorities and not accepted as accomplished upon the report of any other source or authority; and be it further

Resolved, That if the accomplishment of this purpose requires the dispatch of more of the military forces of the United States to Mexico, the President is hereby authorized and directed to send such reinforcement, and to call for volunteers, and to accept companies and regiments of the militia of the several States as volunteers, and to pursue the said object regardless of protest from any person or power, and to deal with any person of power attempting to interfere with the American forces in the pursuit of that object as national enemies, according to the rules of war as they shall apply respectively to organized and to unorganized resistance.

The resolution was referred to the Foreign Affairs Committee.

AMERICANS KILLED BY SINALOA BANDITS

Three Wantonly Shot, but Another Is Spared as Women and Children Cling to Him.

MAZATLAN, Mexico, April 5, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Censored details of the murder by Mexican bandits of F. C. Burke, Roderick Davidson, and Walter Wallace, Americans, and a Spanish railroad conductor, south of Rosario, were told today by V. H. York, an American of the party, whom the bandits gave liberty because they could not find a spot to place a bullet without killing women and children who were clinging to him. Telegraphic dispatches gave only the bare facts of the murders.

The murdered Americans, with York, his wife and two children, and Burke's wife and two children, had almost reached Rosario, Sinaloa, in their push cars from Acaponeta, 100 miles southward, where Burke was a station agent for the Southern Pacific of Mexico Railroad. They had been marooned for months. It had taken them weeks to get within sight of their goal and safety. Early in the morning they had reached a deep cut in the railroad, and being hungry, Wallace, Davidson, and Roderigo, the Spaniard, leaped from the cars when they saw a ranch house in the distance.

There was a volley of shots as they reached the crest of the embankment, and the three men tumbled backward, dead. Burke handed a child in his arms to his wife as the robbers, nine of them, slid down the embankment. A second later he fell dead with two bullets in his body. The women and children all clung then to York, who tried to shake himself free to protect them, not realizing that it was they who would save his life.

The bodies were taken to Mazatlan and placed in a station outside of town on the advice of the American Consul to allay indignation. Five hundred Carranza troops left Mazatlan in search of the bandits.

300,000 CARTRIDGES TO MEXICO

Ammunition, That Was Held, Is Released and Exported.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 14. — Three hundred thousand rounds of 30-30 rifle ammunition have been exported to Agua Prieta, under permission issued by the United States Government to Eliseo Arredondo, de facto Ambassador in Washington. This was confirmed today by the Mexican Consul, Ives G. Lelevier. The cartridges had been held here for almost a month.

Since the publication of the news of Carranza's note to the United States there has been a feeling of unrest in Douglas and Agua Prieta, and United States Secret Service men and army and local civil officers constantly are on the alert.

LANSING TO TREAT WITH CARRANZA

seek a personal report from him until Mr. Polk's return.

Attention has been given to the fact that the Carranza note rested its request for negotiations in part upon the statement that the American expedition was not fulfilling its object, the capture of Villa and dispersal of his bands, and could not fulfill it. The State and War Departments are not disposed to allow this to go unchallenged. To meet it, however, a careful review of what the troops have done or are doing beyond the border will have to be made.

Full Statements Lacking.

Only brief telegraphic advices so far have been received. Full statements and expressions of opinion probably will be obtained from General Funston at San Antonio and from General Pershing, far south of the international line and commanding the expedition.

Communication is slow at best and, when the fact that the officers at the front are too busy to give time to preparing official reports is considered, an extended delay in getting this material seems probable.

The view of the Washington Government with respect to the allegation of the de facto Government that the Pershing expedition entered Mexico "without warrant" is that there has been a regrettable misunderstanding between the two Governments regarding the so-called agreement of March 13, regarding the reciprocal right of both Governments to pursue bandits across the border. It was explained by high Administration officials today that such an agreement had been voluntarily postponed by the de facto Government and that it was accepted in express terms by this Government on March 13.

The United States Government declared in its note of March 13 that it "understood that, in view of its consent to this reciprocal arrangement proposed by the de facto Government, this arrangement is now complete and in force, and that the aforesaid reciprocal privilege may be exercised by each Government without future exchanges of ideas."

Five days elapsed after this note had been sent to the Carranza Government, during which the de facto Government, it was explained today, did not challenge the declaration by the United States Government that the reciprocal arrangement "is in force," and "may be exercised" without future exchanges of ideas. No protest was made against the American Government's form of acceptance of the Carranza proposal for a reciprocal arrangement for five days, or until March 17, when Señor Arredondo delivered a note from the Mexican Government to the United States Government stating that the punitive expedition had passed Palomas "without the consent or advice of the political or civil authorities," and that the United States Government had falsely "interpreted the Carranza proposal for a reciprocal arrangement."

Carranza Challenge Belated.

Secretary Lansing stated today in response to a question that it was not until he had received the Carranza note of yesterday that he had received from the Carranza Government any challenging of the American Government's understanding that it had an "agreement" with the de facto Government of Mexico under which it was permissible to send troops into Mexico for the sole purpose of capturing Villa.

The Carranza note, delivered yesterday, alleges that the confidential agent of the Mexican Government, Señor Eliseo Arredondo, was told by Secretary Lansing on March 23 that the latter regretted "having misinterpreted the contents of said note respecting the passage of troops, which latter would not advance any further south from the place where they were at the time."

When Secretary Lansing was asked today whether he had given any assurances that the American troops would not proceed any further south into Mexico than they were on March 23, he said that he did not recall ever having made such a statement. As a matter of fact, the State Department on March 23 did not know exactly how far south the American expedition had penetrated into Mexico.

The statement issued today by Señor Amador, Mexican sub-Secretary of Foreign Relations, saying this Government should not have sent other than cavalry troops into Mexico, and that the de facto Government could not agree to the present expedition, because it only serves "to excite the population and is being made much of by Carranza's enemies," attracted some attention in official circles here tonight. One rejoinder to this is that the Carranza note argued there was no warrant for the expedition going into Mexico after the Columbus raiders, and if this contention is correct, then it would have been just as unwarrantable for cavalry troops to be sent into Mexico as it would be to send infantry or artillery.

If the Carranza Government admits that there was warrant for the sending of cavalrymen into Mexico, it was pointed out tonight, there is no point to the contention in the Carranza note that the United States Government had falsely interpreted the Carranza proposal for a reciprocal arrangement for troops crossing the border.

Another rejoinder to Señor Amador's statement is that it was necessary to send infantrymen in considerable numbers into Mexico to protect the lines of communications over the deserts which had to be depended upon by the American expedition for supplies very largely because the Carranza Government did not promptly grant its consent for the use of the Mexico Northwestern Railway as a line of supplies.

Motive of Carranza.

Señor Amador's argument that the expedition is serving to excite the Mexican population is interpreted here as possibly explaining the underlying motives behind the Carranza note of yesterday, especially Señor Amador's allegation that the expedition "is being made much of by Carranza's enemies."

The Carranza Government during the first three weeks of the expedition was able to hold the populace in check, but the situation was known to be delicate, and there are now indications that a rising tide of resentment against the expedition in certain Mexican centres is rendering it extremely difficult for the Carranzista authorities to hold the population in check. Villa agents have made the most of this situation to embarrass the Carranza Government. It is known that in attacking Columbus Villa believed the dispatch of American troops after him would make him a popular hero, and unite Mexicans in opposition to the "gringo invasion."

During the first two weeks of the invasion the behavior of the American troops and their treatment of Mexicans in the villages passed won the support of Mexicans. So long as no shots were fired by American troops in Mexico the situation had satisfactory aspects. But since the fight at Guerrero on March 29, when about sixty Mexicans were killed in Colonel Dodd's engagement with a Villista band, the news has spread regarding the killing of these Mexicans, and it has not been accepted favorably in those regions where Villa has been popular in the past, especially in Parral.

In his telegram of yesterday General Carranza told Señor Arredondo that "it had been impossible for the military commanders to check the mob against American troops who entered Parral" and that "the excitement is so great among the people that I fail to know whether the struggle can be stopped." General Carranza's telegram asserted that he considered it "unwise" for American troops "to remain any longer on our soil" as "more serious consequences" than those at Parral "may develop."

In the absence of reports from General Pershing, the War Department not only knew nothing official regarding the Parral attack of Wednesday night, but was in ignorance of the progress being made by the advanced forces. Officers at the War Department expressed confidence in the ability of General Pershing and those with him at the front to give a good account of themselves if attacked.

Seeks News of Pershing.

Up to a late hour tonight the Administration was without any official American reports, through either the State Department or the War Department, regarding the fight at Parral. A long telegram was received from Major Gen. Funston tonight stating what steps he had taken to get into communication with General Pershing, and explaining what had been done, under Secretary Baker's positive orders of last night to take every necessary step for the protection of the American forces that were attacked at Parral and for the safety of other American troops in Mexico. In this message General Funston said he had received no reports from General Pershing.

Considerable anxiety was displayed in War Department circles regarding the "front" of the expedition. Nothing official has been received regarding General Pershing for five days. Investigation today showed that the latest telegram from General Pershing to General Funston bore date of April 10, and was received by General Funston April 11. This is the message which contained the names of the five American cavalrymen who were injured in the Guerrero fight of March 29.

ticle VIII., specifies the number of troops which may pass the boundary line must never exceed 1,000, and these must not remain in the zone for more than five days, except in very unusual cases."

The Mexican Plan.

The entire correspondence which has passed up to date between the two Governments as a result of the Columbus incident was handed to the correspondent of The Associated Press today. The first of the notes was written March 18, and is as follows:

Arredondo,
Mexican Embassy,
Washington, D. C.

The First Chief has ordered me to deliver to you the following protocol, which in due form and in writing you will present to the Secretary of State of the United States for his consideration, trying to secure his prompt reply and sending the same to this Ministry as soon as the circumstances of the case permit:

Project of agreement between Mexico and the United States of North America relative to the passing of troops over the boundary line for the persecution of bandits:

Article 1. It is agreed between the Government of Mexico and the United States of North America that the regular Federal troops of one or the other country, as well as any forces of militiamen or of those duly organized by either Government, may reciprocally pass the boundary line at any point between the Rio Colorado and Piedras Negras when they may be closely pursuing individuals declared outside the law or evildoers who have interned themselves in either of the countries after committing depredations for the purpose of eluding punishment.

Art. 2. This agreement will be subject in all its terms and conditions to the following stipulated articles:

Art. 3. The reciprocal passage referred to in Article 1 will be made only in the unpopulated and desert regions between the points mentioned. Unpopulated or desert regions will be all those regions at least ten kilometers distant from any military camp or town from the boundary line of either country.

Art. 4. Only in exceptional cases can the persecution be carried to points nearer to camps or towns, as referred to in the previous article, and for the purposes of this article exceptional cases will be those camps or towns situated in mountains or whose access is made difficult by accidental or even ordinary circumstances.

Art. 5. The commander of forces which cross the line in the pursuit of evildoers must, on crossing the line, or before, if possible, immediately notify the military commandant, or the nearest civil official of the country entered. Also the military commander of the forces pursuing must advise his Government that it may give notice to the Government whose territory has been entered.

Art. 6: A zone sixty kilometers wide will be established on either side of the boundary line or extension, as referred to in Article 1, within which the persecution must be limited. As a consequence the pursuing forces must not pass outside this zone nor establish military camps therein, nor remain there longer than is absolutely necessary for the purpose of persecution of the party followed, returning immediately to their own country at the expiration of the time stipulated in the foregoing Article, but that the pursuing forces will immediately retire to their own country when the joint expedition has terminated. In the case cited the respective commanders are obliged to notify their respective Governments of the moment of contact as well as when the persecution ceases.

(Article 7 is missing.)

Art. 8. Troops crossing the boundary line must never exceed 1,000 men, nor remain in the zone except in unusual cases for more than five days.

Art. 9. Forces other than cavalry will not be permitted, but this force may carry in their equipment machine guns in addition to their own arms.

Art. 10. Commanders of the forces of the respective countries will agree upon code signals that they may know each other and avoid confusion during the persecution.

Art. 11. Under no condition will the forces be allowed to occupy towns or camps situated in the country they may have entered in accordance with the terms of this agreement.

If "Confusion Occurs."

Art. 12. If confusion occur and damage is done to one of the parties by the other commander, the party causing the damage shall be held personally responsible, without implying responsibility for either of the contracting parties, nor shall such act be considered sufficient to cause a rupture of the relations between the countries. Both of the contracting Governments obligate themselves to severely punish acts of the nature specified in this article, and for this purpose investigations will be set on foot by the country of the commander responsible.

Art. 13. The dispossession of private property of persons living in territory crossed by the pursuing forces is absolutely forbidden, as is the occupation of houses without the consent of the owners, and the payment of a proper indemnity. Abuses of this nature shall be punished according to the gravity of the offense under the laws of the country to which the forces belong as if committed in their own country. The Government to which the offenders belong is obligated to remove such person or persons to the frontier, and to indemnify those injured. (Article 14 is missing.)

Art. 15. This agreement will remain in force for one year, counting from the date of its signing by the representative of both countries, but it may be terminated at the will of either party by two months' advance notice. If no notice has been given at the end of the year mentioned, it is tacitly agreed that the agreement continues without further notice for another year.

(Signed) AGUILAR.

The American Reply.

In reply to this note the United States made the following counter proposition:

Article 1. It is agreed that the regular forces of the two republics may cross the boundary line in pursuit of parties of bandits or armed parties that may have entered one country or the other after having committed outrages on foreign soil and having escaped by way of the boundary line.

Art. 2. The reciprocal passage as agreed upon in Article 1 will only take place in comparatively uninhabited or poorly protected territory and in no case at a less distance than (?) kilometer from any camp or town in the territory in which pursuit takes place except in mountainous places difficult of access.

Art. 3. The commander of troops that crossed the frontier in accordance with the terms of this agreement will on the moment of starting the march or before, if possible, advise the nearest military or civil officer of the country entered of the number of troops and the quantity of arms carried.

Art. 4. The Government of the country entered promises to co-operate in every way possible to the end of capturing the bandits and summarily executing them.

Art. 5. The pursuing force will immediately return to its own country after punishing the band it is pursuing. When it has failed to do so in no case will the pursuing party establish itself or remain in the foreign country for the time longer than may be necessary to accomplish its mission.

Art. 6. Under no pretext or consideration will the pursuing forces of one or other of the countries occupy towns or cities situated in the country which they have entered in accordance with the terms of this agreement.

Art. 7. All abuses committed by the pursuing forces will be punished by the Government to which they belong as if they were committed in the country of the guilty person, and offenders will be retired to the frontier and prompt indemnification will be made to the injured parties.

Art. 8. In case of abuses committed by inhabitants of the country against the pursuing forces, the Government of the country in which the abuses have been committed will be held solely responsible in case of a miscarriage of justice or failure to punish the guilty.

Art. 9. This agreement will take effect upon its being signed by the contracting parties and will remain in force until terminated by two months' anticipatory notice by either party.

On March 25, the Mexican Government sent a second note which contained certain modifications. In it cooperation between the forces was agreed upon if a request of one of the parties was made to that effect. It contained the following additional article:

"No persecution can be begun after three days have elapsed from the time of the commission of the crime unless the offenders have remained for that length of time in the territory where the crime was committed."

It was also insisted upon in the new draft that clashes between troops of the two contracting parties through errors or the indiscretions of commanders was not to be considered sufficient to hold the Government of the offenders responsible, nor could attacks of inhabitants on the pursuing forces be considered as such.

Putting a Limit on the Pursuit.

With this note, Minister Arredondo received the following written instructions:

Explain to the Secretary of State that the Mexican Government insists on having included in the agreement stipulations relative to the limitation of the zone through which the pursuing forces are to operate; as to the time they should remain in that zone; the arms to be carried, and the maximum number of troops. The reasons the Mexican Government has for insisting on this are as follows:

In the first place, the Government does not believe that the territory east of Piedras Negras need be taken into consideration, for the reason that Villa and his party have always operated in the States of Sonora and Chihuahua and we consider the necessity for extending the agreement to the whole frontier remote.

In the second place, this Government considers it essential to place a limit on the distance which pursuing forces may penetrate, and believes that sixty kilometers is ample for the pursuing force to come in contact with the bandits or the forces of the country which they have entered. The latter forces are to continue the pursuit.

In the third place, pursuing parties in such instances can have little use for artillery and infantry, as action must be rapid and can only be carried out by cavalry. Infantry and artillery cannot be considered as useful to a pursuit of this nature by the Mexican Government as their use may give rise to twisted versions and might be the cause of serious encounters between residents of one or the other country.

Furthermore, impress upon the Secretary that the Mexican Government believes that for the purposes of pursuit over the frontier a maximum of eight days' time is sufficient for either capturing the offenders or agreeing with the forces of the injured country to do so.

Lastly, the limitation relative to the number of troops is important as it is fair to suppose that the number of bandits is not great and that a thousand cavalrymen would suffice for the work. If a greater number of troops cross it endangers the good relations between the two countries.

On April 5 the Washington Government sent another note agreeing to the proposition that only sixty kilometers of the border line be considered in the agreement, and that the pursuing force would not remain in foreign territory more than fifteen days without a special agreement.

The new note also agreed that no pursuit would commence until after a period of three days had elapsed since the commission of the raid. To this was added a special request that the expedition now in Mexico be considered a special case.

The Mexican Government refused to give its consent to this request, and in turn demanded the recall of the American troops.

Sub-Secretary Amador in his statement said the American troops had taken heavy artillery into Mexico. Dispatches from the American expedition have stated that only machine guns and light mountain artillery are being used in Mexico.

Lansing Denied Time Limit Report.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Secretary Lansing has on several occasions during the past week, in response to direct questions, denied that there was any agreement for a time limt on the punitive expedition, or that any time limit had been set.

SCOUTS WATCHING GOMEZ.

EL PASO, Texas, April 14.—The request of General Carranza for the withdrawal of the American troops, the Parral incident and reports of other clashes between American troops and Mexicans have alarmed Americans living in Mexico, a fact which was evidenced by the arrival here today of United States citizens from Chihuahua City and other points. Some of these men fled across the border after the Santa Ysabel massacre, but later returned in the wake of the United States soldiers.

Some of the arrivals from Chihuahua reported that fighting had taken place between American troops and Mexicans at Satevo, forty-five miles south of Chihuahua City. This fighting was believed here to be the attack on a supply train by Villa troops reported today by General Pershing as having taken place on April 11.

More than 19,000 United States regulars are guarding the Mexican border from Brownsville, Texas, to San Diego, Cal., today, while hurried troop movements, southward from Columbus, N. M., show that the line of communications reaching more than 400 miles into Mexico is being rapidly strengthened to meet any emergency.

American scouts are watching the Pulpito Pass, which leads from Sonora into the Casas Grandes district of Chihuahua State, for the appearance of General Arnulfo Gomez, commanding 2,500 Carranza infantry and cavalry. General Gomez is awaiting orders from the Mexican Minister of War, General Obregon, to meet in Chihuahua for the announced purpose of taking up the pursuit of Villa. In the event of trouble with the de facto Government General Gomez would be in position to strike the line of American communications at Casas Grandes.

American troops encamped at Colonia Dublan, which is the army camp for the Casas Grandes base, have "dug in" and have fortified these intrenchments with small mountain batteries, according to the Americans who arrived here today. The presence of small bands of brigands and the attack on the motor truck train are given as the reasons for this unusual activity.

Excitement over the Parral incident in Juarez has quieted down and is considered a closed incident by General Gavira and his officers. Servants who work on the American side and live in Juarez came to work this morning with exaggerated reports of the affray, stating that a telegram had been received in Juarez to the effect that all of the American troops had attacked the town of Parral and killed many Mexicans.

When General Gavira was informed of this report he had a bulletin board set up in front of the Custom House, and on this board posted all of the telegrams from General Luis Gutierres and General Obregon regarding the fight. This dispelled all excitement, and the people were satisfied that the reports were not true.

General Gavira was informed today that a Mexican had been arrested at Namiquipa by troops of Colonel Cano's command, and on investigation it had been found that he was riding a Thirteenth Cavalry horse, the number and brand being plainly visible on the hoof and flank. Under his clothes he wore an American army uniform, and he is believed to have been one of the Columbus raiders. He will be ordered shot by the military as a bandit and a spy.

ONLY GUNS ARE BUSY ON VERDUN FRONT

ONE ATTACK AT DOUAUMONT

Germans, Attempting a Surprise Assault on the French Positions, Are Beaten Off.

LONDON, April 14.—Operations on the Verdun front during last night and all of today, as reported in the official bulletins from Paris and Berlin, consisted of heavy fire by the artillery except at one point south of Douaumont, on the eastern side of the Meuse. There the Germans last evening made a small surprise attack against the French positions. They were repulsed, according to Paris.

The bombardment on both sides was especially active to the west of the Meuse, near Hill 304 and Le Mort Homme.

The official communication of the French War Office issued this evening says:

In the Argonne our batteries have been active in the region of St. Hubert, where German works were damaged. Our batteries have been active also against roads used by the enemy in the region of Montfaucon and Malancourt.

To the west of the Meuse during the day the artillery of both sides has been active in the region of Le Mort Homme.

To the east of the Meuse our second lines have been bombarded.

In the Woevre there were some volleys by the artillery.

To the west of Pont-à-Mousson we scattered convoys on the road from Essey to Nonsard.

There is nothing of importance to report from the rest of the front.

The day report of the French War Office says:

On the left bank of the River Meuse there was violent bombardment last night of our first lines to the west of Hill 304.

On the right bank the Germans last evening delivered an unexpected small attack against our positions to the south of Douaumont, but the movement was completely repulsed.

The night passed in relative quiet, with the exception of a fairly spirited bombardment in the region to the south of Haudromont.

In the Woevre district there has been an artillery duel in the sector of Moulainville.

The bulletin of the German Headquarters Staff says:

Apart from occasional lively artillery duels in the region of the Meuse there is nothing to report.

Attempts made by the enemy to attack on the left bank of the Meuse were arrested by our artillery fire as the attacking parties left their trenches.

The Belgian communication reads:

The day has been quiet in general along the Belgian front, except to the south of Dixmude, where some artillery actions have taken place. Our batteries caused a German depot of ammunition to explode.

HARD BRITISH FIGHTING INDICATED BY LOSSES

London Sees in Officers' Casualties Proof That Official Reports Minimize Recent Actions.

LONDON, April 14.—Evidence that heavy fighting has been going on recently along the British front in France is given in the casualty lists of the last two days. Today's list contains the names of 24 officers killed and 107 wounded. Included in the list of wounded are several Canadians.

There is a good deal of comment on the brevity of the official reports of the recent fighting. The actions, says one newspaper, "one is continually learning from talks with men on leave have been of great importance, but have been 'described' in curt two-line reports."

The report, issued tonight, reads as follows:

By exploding mines yesterday east of Vermelles we damaged considerably the enemy's positions, but drawing a heavy, though ineffective artillery reply.

Early today we successfully bombarded the neighborhood of Souchez.

During last night a small party raided German front trenches northwest of Lens, killing some of the occupants and withdrawing on the completion of its mission.

LONDON, March 30, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Officers' casualty lists for the month of February show that the British Army lost 268 killed, 597 wounded and 15 missing—a total of 875. This brings the aggregate loss since the beginning of the war to 23,962, of whom 7,420 have been killed or have died of wounds, 14,755 wounded and 1,787 are missing or prisoners of war.

In February losses were heaviest in the Indian contingent operating in Mesopotamia and the Persian Gulf, the returns showing 63 officers killed, 155 wounded and 7 missing.

Royal Engineers lost 6 killed, 40 wounded; Yorkshires, 8 killed, 33 wounded; Field Artillery, 13 killed, 23 wounded; Canadians, 5 killed, 18 wounded.

During the month Brig. Gens. Hodson and Harvey were killed. Four Lieutenant Colonels were killed and four Brigadier Generals wounded.

ASSERTS THE FRENCH ARE USING UP RESERVES

German Correspondent Says the Verdun Defenders Are in a Bad Way.

The Cologne Gazette Dispatches.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ON THE WEST FRONT, April 13.—Despite the alleged exhaustion of German resources and the fantastic stories about losses which the enemy says the Germans have sustained, the offensive at Verdun is unmistakably making progress. This is the essential difference between the German offensive and that undertaken by the French in Champagne, which was strongest at the outset and afterward became constantly weaker.

In the last few days, as the French bulletins indicate, the battle has been raging uniformly along the line from Avocourt to Vaux, the most violent fighting taking place at the following points: Northeast of Avocourt to the south of Forges Brook, from the slopes of Hill 304 to a point south of Bethincourt, from the Le Mort Homme to the village of Cumières, and, finally, on the east of the Meuse on the line to the south of the village of Douaumont through Caillette forest to the village of Vaux.

The result of all the furious attacks and counterattacks, back and forth across the battle line, has been as heretofore a slow advance by the German troops.

It is significant that the French press has been of late more passionately praising the unprecedented achievements of the French troops. Throughout their history, from Roland's song down, the French have always made it a point to glorify their defeats. They are now in raptures because every foot of ground which they lose is sold at a high price.

But, even if they were right in contending that the loss or gain of ground did not matter, and that the chief thing was the destruction of the enemy's army, they are in a bad way. It has already been made known that recruits of 1916 have been called up, while it is established that their reserves are being used up at an extraordinary rate.

SERGEANT 69 IS PRAISED.

French Veteran of 1870 Cited and Receives War Cross.

PARIS, April 14.—Sergeant Auguste Bernard, 69 years old, is cited in a regimental order by the Colonel commanding the 112th Infantry, as follows:

"An honored veteran of the war of 1870, he enlisted at the age of 67 for the duration of the present war and was placed in echelon service. He insisted on going in the first line trenches, and by his kind attitude, high spirits, and moral bearing, Sergeant Bernard merits being selected as an example for all."

BRITISH DEFEAT TURKS IN TIGRIS BATTLE

LONDON, April 14.—Defeat of the Turkish forces in Mesopotamia by the British was reported officially today. In an engagement on the Tigris the Turks were driven back from one and one-half to three miles. Following is the text of the statement:

General Lake reports that on the afternoon of April 12 our forces on the right, (south,) bank of the Tigris forced back the enemy's advanced lines over a distance varying from one and one-half to three miles.

To do this we had to cross an inundated belt intersected by deep cuts, from 500 to 1,200 yards wide, extending from the Tigris to the Umm-el-Brahm marsh.

On the left bank water from the marshes has been driven by a northwest gale into some of the enemy's trenches at Sannayyat. The enemy was heavily punished as he took refuge from the flood in the new position.

The announcement of the British victory came at a time when the public was beginning to fear efforts to relieve the force of General Townshend at Kut-el-Amara were doomed to failure, owing to the check suffered by his relieving army a few days ago and difficult condition brought about by floods.

Many military writers in England believed the floods had made the relief of General Townshend almost an impossibility, but today's official report shows that, instead of hindering the British, the high water has helped the forces of Lieut. Gen. Gorringe in a task which is one of the most difficult that has been undertaken by the British Army. Each mile the Turks are forced back makes the British operations easier, for as they approach Kut-el-Amara the Turks are compelled to defend a wider front.

From the bend of the Tigris at Umm-el-Henn, which General Gorringe captured last week, to Sannayyat, which the Turks are in danger of losing, if they have not already been compelled to abandon it, both flanks of the Turkish forces are protected by marshes on either side of the river. Further up the river the area of dry ground widens until the Es-Sinn position is reached. Although this position is very strongly fortified, it is believed that if the relieving forces reach it General Townshend's army will be able to assist them.

In view of today's news, therefore, the prospect of rescuing the army at Kut-el-Amara is regarded as better than it has been for some time.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 14, (via London.)—Another communication from the War Office contains a reiteration of the statement that the British lost 3,000 men killed in the recent battle in Mesopotamia. The announcement follows:

The 3,000 dead from the battle which occurred on April 7 on the Irak front belonged, as is indicated by their uniforms, to Kitchener's Thirteenth Division, most of them from two brigades. In this battle which, as we have already reported, ended favorably for us, we lost 79 killed, 168 wounded, and 9 missing.

RUSSIANS ROUT TURKS AFTER 6-DAY BATTLE

Fighting continues west of Erzerum.

Turkish attacks against the centre of the Caucasus Army, which lasted six days, were all repulsed. The enemy sustained heavy losses and everywhere is falling back in disorder, energetically pursued by our troops.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 14 (via London.)—The War Office today issued the following bulletin:

On the Caucasian front an enemy battalion which attacked one of our detachments in the Tchoruk Valley was driven off and lost all of its men except seventy or eighty soldiers. We captured one officer and several men. On other sectors of this front there have been skirmishes, reconnoissances, and sorties.

A force of Persian warriors and Turkish detachments on the morning of the 8th attacked Russian cavalry, some three regiments strong, in the vicinity of Sujbulak, and put it to flight in the direction of Urumiah (Persian Armenia). Otherwise there were no important engagements.

An enemy torpedo boat which appeared off Smyrna on the 8th was driven away by our artillery. A patrol boat off Tchesme (Asia Minor) was hit by our artillery.

On the 9th bandits in four large barks attempted to land near Kalamaki west of Kush-Adassi, (south of Smyrna,) but were forced to retreat by the fire of our artillery.

In the waters of Smyrna a torpedo-boat destroyer and a cruiser opened fire against the southern part of Kuesten Island. They withdrew when our artillery replied.

On the Irak front (Mesopotamia) the situation is unchanged.

Dardanelles front: A cruiser and a monitor directed at intervals from a long distance an ineffective fire against Ari Burnu. Attempts to open fire at shorter range failed on account of the reply of our artillery.

DERBY DEFENDS HIS COURSE

"Ruinous," He Says, to Have Called All Single Men First.

LONDON, April 14.—Lord Derby, Director of Recruiting, presided today at a meeting of the Association of Municipal Corporation.

Replying to a demand that all single men be enlisted before married men are called up he said he did not believe anything could be more foolish. To do so, he added, would have saved him trouble and would have brought his task to a speedier end, but such a step would have been absolutely ruinous to the industries of the country.

Great Britain will shortly call to the colors her 18-year-old youths, according to reports in the lobby of the House of Commons. It is intended that the youths thus called shall go into training immediately, although they will not be liable to service until they reach the age of 19.

SUSSEX DISASTER AS SEEN BY HUXLEY

POINTS OUT MANY FLAWS

Insists Ship Was Flying French Flag and That No Other Vessel Was Torpedoed in That Region.

Edward H. Huxley, President of the United States Rubber Export Company of 1,790 Broadway, who arrived from England yesterday on the American liner St. Paul, brought first-hand details of the torpedoing of the Channel steamer Sussex, being the first survivor of that disaster to reach this country. When told of admissions in the German note to the United States Mr. Huxley said:

"If Germany admits torpedoing a steamer near that position on March 24 in the Channel it will be their undoing, because the Sussex was the only vessel there at the time. If any vessel had been torpedoed three or four miles away we would have heard the detonation and seen the craft attacked, for the day was clear and the sea calm. It was quite possible to see for fully six miles or more on the horizon. We remained on the after part of the Sussex, drifting for nearly nine hours after she had been torpedoed, and had any vessel been in sight she would have come to our assistance."

With regard to the submarine commander's statement that the vessel he sank was a long, black craft without a flag, having a gray funnel, small gray forward works and two high masts, Mr. Huxley said: "It would be impossible to mistake the Sussex for a man of war. She had a black hull with white superstructure and buff colored funnels. She also had cabins on her decks aft, which were plainly discernible. When the torpedo struck her the Sussex was flying the French flag at her stern. The bridge was about 90 feet from her bow, or a third of the ship's length.

"I was sitting on the port side of the deck a few feet on the after side of the bridge with Francis E. Drake, our London manager, when there was a terrific explosion apparently from the starboard side, which blew away the forward part of the steamer and killed or drowned all the passengers and crew on that side. The first lifeboat that was lowered capsized before it struck the water and twenty out of twenty-five occupants were drowned. Five other boats were lowered, which were all in a leaky condition, and the remainder of the passengers and crew embarked in them and they were rowed about 150 yards away from the hulk of the Sussex.

"After a little time Captain Moufet ordered the boats to return to the remnant of the steamer which was floating easily, the stern pointing up, and we clambered on board again. We drifted twenty miles with the current toward the French shore before a French trawler came up at 11:15 P. M. in answer to the rockets which had been sent up by the crew of the Sussex to attract attention. A sailing ship came in sight at 5 o'clock bound up channel, and we hoisted distress signals, but she did not alter her course.

The trawler took off all except fifty of the passengers and crew and proceeded to Boulogne. I remained on board the wreck with Mr. Drake until midnight, when we were rescued by the British torpedo boat destroyer Afridi, which took us to Dover. The carpenter on the Sussex told me he heard Captain Moufet tell the commander of the torpedo boat destroyer that he saw the torpedo coming toward his vessel. On the way to Dover a piece of the torpedo was shown to me by one of the officers from the destroyer, who had picked it up. It was made of some kind of bronze composition and was about the size of a man's hand. It had ragged edges and was curved as if it had been a part of the cylinder.

"When we arrived in London Mr. Drake received a letter from Captain Thomas E. Carroll, the embarkation officer at Boulogne, who was our Paris agent before the war. He wrote:

"'The wreck of the Sussex is here now in the small basin about 200 yards away from my office. Six bodies have been found among the débris and gruesome finds are still coming in. I saw a piece of a torpedo cylinder which was shown to me by the marine commandant of the port. It had been extracted by one of the naval surgeons from the body of a woman found on the hulk.'

"I went to the United States Embassy in London and made my deposition," Mr. Huxley continued, "and I was told that the photographs of the Sussex and of the pieces of the torpedo with the statements of the survivors were being sent to the State Department on the St. Paul. Before leaving London Mr. Drake and myself drew up and signed a letter to President Wilson which was also mailed on the St. Paul."

Mr. Huxley produced a copy of the letter which called upon the President to take such action as would prevent a repetition of such disasters as that which befell the Sussex.

DEMANDS THAT SPAIN ACT.

Madrid Authority Wants German Merchantmen Seized.

MADRID, Spain, April 14.—Amadeo Hurtado, an authority on international law, has written a letter to the President of the Council of Ministers in regard to the damaging of the steamship Sussex and the consequent death of the Spanish composer Enrique Granados. He says:

"Spain should take the iniatative to bring about joint action of all neutral countries, in order to put a stop to the illegal system which has such disastrous consequences for all neutrals. The warships of the allied nations are kept busy protecting their merchant marine and that of neutrals. Germany has no merchant ships now at sea, and her warships are engaged in war service while German merchant ships are protected by internment in neutral ports throughout the world. It is inconsistent with neutrality, and if German merchant ships continue to have protection in neutral ports neutrals should demand of the Germans the protection of their citizens and merchantmen."

PARIS, April 14.—A number of prominent Spaniards who are living in France have formed a committee, which sent the following telegram today to Premier Romanones of Spain:

"The Spanish Committee of Paris protests with the greatest energy against the attacks on Enrique Granados and other Spaniards aboard the Sussex Vigo and Santanderino, and demands that the Government take necessary measures, even reprisals, if need be, in order to protect the lives and interests of Spanish citizens."

AMERICAN ON SUNKEN SHIP.

Member of the Inverlyon's Crew Is Rescued—Eleven Others Missing.

QUEENSTOWN, April 14.—Captain Charleston and eleven men of the British steamship Inverlyon were landed today and reported that their vessel had been sunk by a submarine on Tuesday afternoon.

One of the members of the crew, who was rescued, is an American, William Loss. Another boat from the Inverlyon, containing eleven men, is missing.

STILL HOPE BERLIN WILL YIELD TO US

from Ambassador Sharp at Paris, who explained that the statements he was transmitting were delivered to him by a branch of the French Government. According to this information, Ambassador Sharp was informed that the French Ministry of Marine had reports showing that a German U-boat was sunk in French waters on April 5. An officer and members of the crew of this German submarine were captured by the French Navy.

These men have been examined by the French authorities with a view to learning whether this particular submarine actually attacked the Sussex. The Sussex was attacked on March 24. The statements alleged to have been made to the French authorities by the captured German officer and crew of the U-boat that was sunk on April 5 were to the effect that their vessel had not torpedoed the Sussex, as another German submarine, whose number was given, was operating in the region where the attack occurred.

The name of the commander of this second submarine was given to the French authorities by the captured officer and crew of the submarine that was sunk on April 5. The French Government gave this information to Ambassador Sharp.

Rumors of Diplomatic Break.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President Wilson and the Cabinet went over the submarine crisis again today and reaffirmed their determination to bring the situation with Germany to an issue.

The decision to inform Germany that recent accumulation of evidence of ships destroyed in submarine warfare led to the inevitable conclusion that her promises to the United States were not being fulfilled remained unchanged. The time of dispatching a communication to Berlin appeared to be the only point undecided.

In Congress today a report was widely circulated that the forthcoming note would in itself give notice of a severance of diplomatic relations. There was nothing to substantiate the story anywhere in official quarters. Cabinet officers did not deny it, upon the ground that they all had been bound in honor by the President not to speak upon the subject in any way. There were repeated indications tonight that the note would be a statement of the American case up to date, without anything in the nature of an ultimatum, and still would leave the way open for Germany to avoid the long feared break in diplomatic relations. It was plain, however, that it would be intended as the American Government's last word.

Senators of the Foreign Relations Committee, who have been told by the President that they would be consulted before any final or drastic steps were taken, declared tonight they had not yet been advised of the details of the next step.

Some officials declared the communication to Germany would go within forty-eight hours. It was recalled that on at least one other occasion a note to Germany was quietly dispatched and had reached Berlin before news of its departure was permitted to come out in Washington.

In all official quarters here there is evidence of the gravity of the situation. All officials agree that the accumulation of evidence has brought the situation to the point of a break or a decided change on Germany's part. There is very little left to be said about the situation because it is described as a plain open and shut one. As the President and the Cabinet are determined that the present condition cannot continue, the crisis which has prevailed between the two nations for nearly a year has reached a point where nothing but action remains for one or the other.

As it is understood that the new communication to Germany mentions nothing in the way of time it is believed the President has not decided to narrow the case down to a matter of days, but the position of the United States will be none the less unalterable on that account.

Only a disclosure of the exact terms of the document can show what are the possibilities for the next development.

GERMANS REGARD NOTE AS FAIR AND FRIENDLY

Press Also Expresses View That It Should Satisfy President Wilson.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 4.—Publication here of the text of the note to America on the Sussex and other incidents appears to have aroused little interest among the German people. Comment in the press so far is of comparatively small volume and little importance. To the German mind the note seems to be a simple, straightforward, honest, and friendly reply which is certain to expedite a satisfactory settlement of all the five cases with America.

Count Reventlow laments the fact that he is still prevented by the censorship muzzle from discussing the note intelligibly, but manages to coin a new phrase regarding the Wilsonian "drumfire of notes on Berlin" which "America considers promising of success whenever enemy ships are sunk in North European waters." Count Reventlow takes occasion to criticise the Government for not having also published the text of the four American notes so the Germans might have a complete picture of the questions at issue.

"Whether Mr. Wilson and his helpers will be satisfied with this answer naturally cannot be stated at this time," he says. "We must try to bear the intervening days with restraint."

The Vossische Zeitung says: "The Jagow note is clear, holds back nothing, and, while guarding German interests with all decision, it is very conciliatory." Emphasizing particularly that Germany takes the initiative in suggesting submitting the questions to a mixed Hague tribunal the paper concludes: "The German Government has given all the explanation it was able to in view of the results of its investigations, at the same time proffering a hand to every possible ascertainment of the facts. Therefore since it has a clear conscience it can await further developments in the matter with calmness and confidence."

Persius Is Satisfied.

Captain Persius says in the Tageblatt: "The note testifies as to how painstakingly our submarine commanders are fulfilling their duty relative to exact observance of the measures that must precede torpedoing. Analyzing these various catastrophes three cases are definitely eliminated—the Berwindvale, Englishman and Eagle Point. Of the first our note says it tried to escape. Of the other two, 'But they ran on.' According to the rules of international law every merchant ship is required to obey the orders of a warship and failing to do so exposes itself to destruction without any sparing of lives. This law has always held good and, of course, it holds good also for submarine warfare. Thereby every complaint regarding illegal action on the part of German submarines falls to the ground. For the rest, in all three cases the German submarine commanders showed a great measure of patience in view of the attempts of the steamers to flee. These three cases should no longer come into question, in any further attempts to prove the charges. In the Sussex case the specific and exhaustive account given in our note is based on a most careful investigation of the Admiralty Staff, and allows no doubt to arise that should the Sussex really have been damaged by a torpedo fired from a German submarine, an understandable error was made. The best judges will reach the conviction that our Admiralty Staff has with the utmost frankness made public the results of its investigation in the Sussex case, as in the case of the Manchester Engineer. Only on the basis of more exact data from the side of the accusers can it be ascertained if one of our submarines was involved.

His View of the Sussex Case.

"'Nothing could more effectively sketch the extraordinarily difficult situation in which our submarine commanders now find themselves than the discussion of the Sussex case. It will not be easy for a layman to put himself into the exact situation of a submarine commander. Still, by studying the five reasons why the submarine commander was convinced he had a warship before him the layman will gain some conception of the difficult service of a submarine commander. The question, Is it a warship or not, can, in the dark of night, not always be answered with all certainty. Naturally the submarine commander takes the greatest pains to make sure and only gives the order to fire the torpedo when he is absolutely certain. But his time for making observations is often limited to a very few seconds. The quickest decision is essential in order to escape destruction. Frequently it is reported that a ship has been torpedoed without warning. In the rarest case is this news afterward confirmed, as is indicated by our Government's notes, but if occasionally it should happen that an innocent ship suffers one ought to take into consideration that it is one of those unfortunate accidents that cannot be avoided in peace times, much less in war.

"It is easy enough sitting around a green table with reproachfully ruffled brow to pronounce a verdict of 'unjustified torpedoing.' In reality, however, it is much more difficult to torpedo a ship at all, and it almost takes a superman nowadays and under the present difficult circumstances to carry out a torpedoing that is completely above reproach."

FRENCH GET MORE EVIDENCE.

Two U-Boat Crews Said to Have Told of Sussex Torpedoing.

PARIS, April 14.—The American Government is now in possession of the information obtained by the French Government which led to the assertion that the steamship Sussex was torpedoed by a German submarine. Full details, even to the name of the commander and the number of the submarine, have been communicated privately to the American Government by the French Government.

The Ministry of Marine was not prepared today to make this information public, but it has been given to the United States and to all other Governments interested.

One of the reasons why the authorities here refrain from giving out these details is that it is their understanding that they are acting in conformity with the wishes of the American Government. It is also the desire of the French officials to give Germany an opportunity to reply to the statement that the name of the commander and number of the submarine are known.

The American Government also has information concerning the statements said to have been made by the captured officer and crew of another German submarine, which was sunk in French waters on April 5. It was announced semi-officially yesterday that this statement gave details of the movements of the submarine which was said to have torpedoed the Sussex, with confirmatory evidence as to the name of the commander and number of the craft. It is understood that some of the fragments of the instrument which caused the explosion, which were gathered on the deck of the Sussex, have imprinted on them German letters and words indicating the town in which it was made.

The German note regarding the torpedoing of the Sussex and other vessels is commented on by the morning newspapers for the most part in derisive terms. Under the heading, "Germany seeks to draw America into another tangle of chicanery," the Petit Parisien says:

"The matter now lies between Germany and the United States, and in a few hours we shall know what decision President Wilson has reached. We believe it will be an energetic one. Germany wishes to begin another endless discussion like that which followed the sinking of the Lusitania, but it is probable that Mr. Wilson will speak out firmly and upset the German calculations. Congress has defined its attitude on the subject and American opinion, as well as Spanish, Danish, Dutch, and Norwegian opinion, is aroused against the savage violence of Germany's submarine warfare. The American press calls for action. The hour is truly a decisive one."

"The German manoeuvre is so childish," says the Journal, "that it is impossible to admit that Washington can be deceived by it. President Wilson must by this time be fully enlightened. He cannot fail to realize that the German Government, either by set design or by its weakness in presence of public opinion at home, is committed to the continuation and development of its implacable methods of warfare."

HEARS BREAK IS CERTAIN.

But Providence Journal Is Told Gerard Is Not Yet Recalled.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 14.—A Washington dispatch to The Providence Journal tonight says:

"The United States Government has practically decided that it cannot continue the maintenance of friendly relations with Germany. At the Cabinet meeting today the President was emphatic on this point and he was supported in it by the entire body of advisers. The Cabinet was put into possession of evidence direct from the French Government which seems to prove conclusively, not only that the Sussex was attacked by a submarine, but that the French naval authorities have in their hands, as prisoners at the port of Brest, the officers and the entire crew of the submarine that attempted to sink the channel steamer.

"President Wilson and the members of the Cabinet, it is declared, do not consider it necessary to place the situation with Germany before the members of the Foreign Relations Committee prior to official action. The pledge given to Senator Stone in this connection referred to any action that might be taken against Germany with regard to attacks on armed merchantmen, and had nothing whatever to do with the contingency that has now arisen in connection with the Sussex, an unarmed passenger steamer.

"Late tonight Secretary Lansing notified The Journal representative that there was no truth in the report that Ambassador Gerard had been instructed to demand his passports. It is understood, however, that relations with Germany have reached the breaking point, and that the Government will positively send no more notes to Berlin demanding explanations or permitting any opportunity for further correspondence."

CROCKER NOT IMPROVED.

Father of Sussex Victim Finds Him Unconscious Most of the Time.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 14.—George H. Crocker returned here today from Dover, where he saw his son, who was injured in the torpedoing of the Sussex. Mr. Crocker is unnerved over the condition of his son, who is still suffering, and is unconscious most of the time. The surgeons in the Dover Hospital fear he will be crippled for life. The father will not return to America for some time.

ATTACKED VICEROY'S SHIP.

U-Boat Missed Vessel Carrying Lord Chelmsford, Going to India.

LONDON, Saturday, April 15.—The steamship on which Baron Chelmsford, the new Viceroy, was proceeding to India, was unsuccessfully attacked by a submarine, which fired a torpedo, but missed its aim.

Lord Chelmsford was accompanied by his wife and four daughters, and the steamship had on board an unusual number of women and children.

A dispatch dated April 4 said that Baron Chelmsford had arrived at Bombay and had been received by the ruling chief, and the naval, military, and civil authorities.

DUTCH MAY ARBITRATE.

Hague Paper Suggests It in Tubantia and Palembang Cases.

THE HAGUE, April 14.—The Courant, noting the willingness of Germany to submit the Sussex case to a Commission of Inquiry, urges the adoption of a similar procedure in the cases of the Dutch steamers Tubantia and Palembang.

In this connection, it may be added, all the evidence in the Tubantia case, including pieces of a torpedo and documentary evidence leading to the verdict of the Dutch Board of Navigation, has been sent to Berlin with an invitation for the German Government to express an opinion thereon.

BERLIN, April 14, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Dispatches from Rotterdam to the Overseas News Agency say the Dutch Government will ask the co-operation of the German Government in order to ascertain the origin of the bronze fragments of a torpedo found on the Tubantia.

HUGE LOSS IN TONNAGE STIRS GREAT BRITAIN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 14.—The weekly returns of vessels sunk by mines or torpedoes show an increasing number. During the week ended Thursday, according to the well-known shipping journal Fair Play thirty-three vessels, with a gross tonnage of 85,045, were reported sunk by submarines and mines. This is in addition to the 2,201,823 tons of shipping previously reported in that journal as having been sunk. In discussing this loss the parliamentary correspondent of The Chronicle says:

"The question of general compulsion is entirely overshadowed by the much more vital problem of merchant tonnage. There is no disguising the fact that German submarines have levied a heavy toll on our merchant ships in the last three weeks, though the main cause for the shortage in tonnage is still ascribable to the heavy demands made by our numerous overseas expeditions.

"It has been demonstrated that the navy and army are wasteful in the use of requisitioned tonnage while the Cabinet is insisting on economy in this direction. While economy in the use of ships will do something to ease the situation, we need to repair the wastage and meet the ever increasing demand for a larger shipbuilding program. Considerably more than a hundred merchant vessels in our yards have been held up for months because labor was not available. The Cabinet is determined to have these vessels completed, and the necessary labor must be found for this purpose."

BERLIN, April 14, (via Sayville.)—A statement issued by the German Admiralty under date of April 13 says that in the month of March eighty trading vessels belonging to hostile countries, with an aggregate tonnage of 207,000, were sunk by German submarines or by mines.

STRICTER BLOCKADE ORDER.

Britain Issues New Decree on Ultimate Destination Question.

LONDON, April 15.—The British Government, after consultation with its allies, has issued a decree modifying maritime international law as laid down in the Declaration of London of 1909. The modifcation will be effective during the present war.

Henceforth merchandise, whether absolute or conditional contraband, will be subject to capture by the mere fact of its enemy destination, whether it is sent by direct or indirect manifest or is concealed. Further, no ship or cargo will be exempt from capture for violation of the blockade simply because that at the time it was examined it was apparently on its way to an unblockaded port.

SIR SAM HUGHES BACK FROM ENGLAND

REGRETS THEY WERE MADE

Says He Has No Knowledge of the Corporations Mentioned by G. W. Kyte in Parliament.

Among the passengers who arrived yesterday from Liverpool on the American liner St. Paul was General Sir Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia and Defense in Canada, who was recalled from London by the Dominion Parliament to answer charges of alleged favoritism in the expenditure of money for the purchase of war munitions for the Canadian Government. He was accompanied by his aide de camp, Captain Bassett, and was met at Quarantine by several Canadian officials, while others were waiting for him at the pier.

In an interview with the reporters on board the St. Paul the General said he did not wish to come back at this time, as he would have preferred to remain in England to look after the Canadian troops in their camps at Bramshott and Shorncliffe.

"I do not know what these charges are which have been made against me," he continued, "except in a general way from the newspapers on the other side. I did not consider it worth while to answer them, because a Royal Commission has been appointed to make a thorough investigation, and I intend to demand a full inquiry into the charges and also to discover who is behind these charges.

"I am glad that a commission has been appointed, but regret that such charges should have been made at this time to excite the public when all energies should be directed to the welfare of the Canadian troops who are now in the war zone."

Sir Sam Hughes said he had not seen or heard of Allison since he went abroad and had no knowledge of those corporations, the American Munitions Company and the International Arms and Fuse Co., which have been mentioned in the charges made at Ottawa by G. W. Kyte, a Member of Parliament, who asserted that excessive profits of $1,500,000 were made through the contracts awarded by the Canadian Shell Committee.

The Minister of Militia went on to say that he had no comment to make on the conduct of those who, taking advantage of his absence, have attempted to divert to side issues energies which should be devoted to the cause of the Empire in general. Such persons might be within their privileges, he said.

Regarding the Canadian troops in England the General added that the reports made to him by General Sir Archibald Hunter and General John Steele, in whose command the two camps at Bramshott and Shorncliffe have been placed, were that the conduct and bearing of the troops in England or at the trenches in France and Flanders was regarded as most exemplary and worthy of commendation. He said that the supply of ammunition and fuses from Canadian firms for use in the war have been far in excess of those produced in England, and Canada was holding her own in fulfilling the contracts awarded by the Government.

BLOCKADE NOTE COMING.

Cecil Does Not Think Zamora Ruling Will Delay It.

LONDON, April 14.—"The appeal of the decision in the Zamora case is merely a reaffirmation of the accepted British practice," said Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade, to The Associated Press tonight. "Nothing in the decision is likely to delay the dispatch of a reply to the American blockade note and no change is likely to be made as a result, but I cannot state when the note will be sent.

"In my humble opinion the Prize Court is bound to decide in harmony with the accepted rules of international law. In this regard British practice is in marked contrast to the procedure of German prize courts, which, in the case of the steamship Batavier V., declared prize courts were national tribunals and must rest their decisions on municipal law, even if they are in conflict with international law.

"Sir Samuel Evans's famous dictum did not mean the Prize Court would decide in favor of Orders in Council without reference to the rules of international law, but left the decision as to whether there was any conflict between the two in abeyance. Sir Samuel merely expressed the belief that the Government was not likely to issue Orders in Council conflicting with international law.

"The Zamora appeal goes further and makes it plain that Orders in Council must conform to the accepted rules of international law."

Sir Samuel Evans, President of the Prize Court, granted the right of appeal last June to the owners of the copper forming part of the cargo of the Swedish steamer Zamora, which the Prize Court had empowered the War Department to requisition. A dispatch from London on April 12 said the belief was growing in diplomatic circles there that the British Government's reply to the American note respecting restrictions on maritime trade would again be revised, owing to the Zamora appeal.

RUMANIA'S NEW TREATIES.

Germans Assert She Has Promised Not to Fight Central Empires.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 14.—The latest news shows a rapprochement between Rumania and the Central Empires much greater than was at first suspected, as it includes pourparlers with Bulgaria and Turkey for a commercial agreement. News from German sources asserts that this agreement goes deeper still, that the Central Empires have sure knowledge that Rumania, even if she does not join them, at least will not fight against them.

Political and military circles here, however, are skeptical as they believe Rumania is not affected by the arguments of either side and will uphold only the ultimate victor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 14.—The statement that the German Government concluded on April 7 a new arrangement with Rumania is confirmed. The details are not fully known, but Jean Herbette states in the Echo de Paris that its chief purpose is to remove two obstacles to the purchase of Rumanian grain by the Central Powers.

The first obstacle lay in the fact that other States were free to exhaust the market; thus a British group last January bought up 800,000 tons of wheat. The second consisted in the fact that the Rumanian Government might require that exported cereals be paid for in German or Austrian products which the Central Powers might not want to liberate.

It is believed the new accord removes these two obstacles, Rumania promising Germany all the produce she does not herself need, and abolishing the exchange system. She also undertakes to permit the transit of traffic to and from Constantinople. The importance of this matter will be seen from the fact that the Rumanian harvest last year amounted to 6,000,000 tons, which is just the quantity of cereals Germany and Austria together had to import in time of peace.

"An eminent Rumanian personality," interviewed by the Petit Parisien, declares that Rumania remains faithful to her friendship for the Entente, and has not changed her political attitude. The agreement with Germany arises from the fact that she must sell her crops and import manufactured goods, the supply of which had been interrupted by the closing of the Dardanelles and the economic tension with Germany.

BERLIN, April 14, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—"Keen satisfaction is felt generally in Rumania," says a dispatch from Bucharest to the Overseas News Agency, "as the result of the signing April 7 of a commercial treaty between Rumania and the Central Powers.

ALLIES' SHELL NEEDS MET.

Making Enough Munitions Themselves, Says E. R. Stettinius.

Edward R. Stettinius, partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., who has charge of American contracts for war munitions for the Allies, returned yesterday on the American liner St. Paul after attending conferences with the British and French War Departments.

In an interview he stated that he had not returned with his pockets full of new contracts.

"The French and English ammunition factories," he said, "are now working at full pressure and can take care of the supply needed for the war independently of the United States. This does not mean that shipments of shells and ammunition will cease, as the old contracts have to be filled and it will take some time to complete them.

"While I was in Paris I made a trip toward the firing lines and got within ten miles of Verdun, where I could hear the heavy cannonading distinctly. The railway lines were filled with cars loaded with men and ammunition waiting to be rushed to Verdun when called for. The spirit of the French soldiers impressed me very much."

Mr. Stettinius spoke in admiration of the American Ambulance Corps. He described the feeling of confidence in England and France regarding the outcome of the war as "sublime," and thought there would be no difficulty in financing those countries during the war or after.

"The United States will not have the rebuilding of Europe after the war," he went on to say, "because the Allies have plenty of factories and will have all the labor required when peace has been declared and the soldiers return home." Some kinds of machinery would be required from this country, however, and also some raw materials, he said.

TAKE HIGH PEAK IN STORM.

Italians Capture Austrian Positions at Height of 3,300 Meters.

ROME, April 14.—The following official communication was issued today:

In the Adamello zone, while a great storm was raging, our dauntless detachments Tuesday attacked enemy positions on the steep crest of Lobbia Alta, which rises 3,300 meters among the glaciers. By evening of the 12th (Wednesday) the positions were completely captured by assault and immediately consolidated by our troops. We captured one officer and thirty men, and one machine gun.

There has been the customary artillery activity in Trentino, Carnia, and the upper Fella region. In the Plezzo basin Wednesday night the enemy renewed his attack against our Ravnilaz positions, but was again repulsed.

On Mrzli and Monte Nero enemy attacks commenced yesterday morning and continued throughout the day, with fluctuating fortunes. In the evening our troops, by a last vigorous assault and effective artillery fire, definitely expelled the enemy from contested trenches.

FIX INSURANCE RATES ON WAR'S END THIS YEAR

British Munition Producers Pay Almost Prohibitive Premiums Based on Peace Soon.

LONDON, April 5, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—A new and novel kind of insurance, based on how long the war will last, has come into existence. It has given an indication, also, of how organizations which shape these rates view the duration of the war as a cold business proposition, devoid of politics or sentiment, on which insurance can be risked. This is quite apart from insurance on shipping, which is not based on the duration of the war, but chiefly on the risk of a voyage.

Many of the large factories engaged on ammunition work find themselves heavily stocked with steel and all kinds of supplies required for making ammunition. But these supplies are needed only as long as ammunition is needed, so that a termination of the war would leave factories with huge stocks of raw material no longer of use.

This has led the big factories to seek protection against loss through the termination of the war, and in turn has presented to insurance companies the question of making a rate based on how long the war will last. The factories seeking protection make their applications to Lloyd's, which calls for bids from various underwriters willing to take the risk.

Some time ago the rate quoted was 25 and 30 per cent., based on the continuance of the war beyond the present year. Lately, however, factories desiring this protection have found a marked increase in the rate, which has been practically prohibitive, up to 70 per cent., for a risk based on the war lasting until Dec. 31 next.

This raising of the rate and shortening of the period has indicated the growing belief in business and insurance quarters that the war was not likely to last beyond the year. In banking quarters it is stated that one rate quoted was 90 per cent. on the war lasting until Dec. 31 next. As this would mean a payment of $90 on every $100 of risk, it is practically prohibitive.

A number of factors are said to have influenced this business view on the probable shortening of the war. The stout resistance of the French at Verdun, the fall in the exchange rate of the German mark, the retirement of Admiral von Tirpitz, and the vote in the American Congress on the submarine question, each has had some influence, and all together are regarded as the explanation of this sharp increase.

REICHSTAG ALTERS TAX LAW

Levy Will Be on Same Lines as 1913, Though Helfferich Protests.

BERLIN, April 13, (via London, April 14.)—The Ways and Means Committee of the Reichstag continues to make changes in taxation measures brought forward by the Government. Notwithstanding the objections raised by the Secretary of the Treasury, Dr. Karl Helfferich, it was decided to eliminate the proposed tax on acquittances.

It was decided to impose the war tax on the same lines as the tax of 1913, but for a single year only. It is estimated that this will bring 225,000,000 marks.

Dr. Helfferich opposed the idea, declaring that the direct taxation limit already had been reached and that it was unsafe to go above it. The proposal was adopted against the votes of the Conservatives.

New Austrian Loan to Yield 5½%.

BERLIN, April 14, (by wireless to Sayville.)—The fourth Austrian war loan will be issued at 93, and will yield 5⅝ per cent., the Overseas News Agency says. Treasury bonds also will be issued at 95½, with interest of 5½ per cent.

GERMANS ARREST CASEMENT

London Interested in Report That Agitator is Being Detained.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 14.—While nothing is known here regarding the Copenhagen report that Sir Roger Casement has been arrested somewhere in Germany on a charge unspecified, the statement has attracted considerable attention because of rumors which have been current for some time past to the effect that Casement was endeavoring to make his way to America.

Sir Roger Casement was last heard from in August, 1915, when he tried to induce the Irish soldiers held prisoners in Germany to fight against the Allies. The soldiers were told they would only be employed to free Ireland and would be landed there for that purpose. Following this effort Casement announced that he would sail for this country to engage in work to the detriment of England and for freeing Ireland.

He received his first official appointment in 1895, when he joined the British Consular service, and in 1909 was sent to Rio de Janeiro. Here, at the head of a royal commission, he investigated the rubber atrocities in the Putumayo District of Peru, and it is said that his report resulted in a reform of the industry.

In November, 1914, he went to Ireland, and as the leader of the separatist faction entered into negotiations with the German authorities with the idea of arranging for a German invasion of Ireland, in which his followers were to give every aid to England's foes. On May 4, 1915, it was reported that the Sinn Fein party in Ireland intended nominating him for a seat in Parliament, but this was denied the day after. At the end of the same month it was announced by a German newspaper that the British Government had offered his valet $25,000 if he would arrange that Sir Roger be delivered to them.

In February, 1915, Sir Edward Grey announced in the House of Commons that the pension allowed Casement as a former member of the British Diplomatic Corps had been suspended pending an investigation of allegations that he was disloyal. It has been intimated that his long residence in the tropics has undermined his health. He is 52 years old and was made a Companion of St. Michael and St. George in 1905 and a Knight in 1911.

SAYS POLICE TAPPED PHONES OF PRIESTS

Lawyer Asks Swann to Investigate Alleged Eavesdropping in Charities Hearing.

NOT ORDERED BY STRONG

Alfred J. Talley, a lawyer of 165 Broadway, has asked District Attorney Swann to investigate and bring before the Grand Jury the charge that the telephones of Mgr. Joseph F. Mooney, Vicar General of the New York Diocese; Mgr. John J. Dunn, Chancellor of the New York Diocese; the Rev. W. B. Farrell, Dean Potter, and Dr. D. C. Potter have been tapped during the last ten days by the New York Police Department to supply information for the investigation of charities by Commissioner Charles H. Strong..

District Attorney Swann said yesterday that he would receive affidavits supporting the charge on Monday and that he could not say, before examining them, what action he would take. Mr. Talley was out of town yesterday.

Police Commissioner Arthur Woods refused last night, when asked point blank whether any wire-tapping had been done by the Police Department in connection with the charities investigation before Commissioner Strong, to say whether this had been done. The police have power, the limits of which have not been determined, to tap telephone wires and listen to conversations for the purpose of detecting crime.

Commissioner Woods refused last night to say to what extent this power could be used. John L. Swayze, counsel for the New York Telephone Company, was asked last night what were the rights of the police in the matter of tapping telephone wires.

"Nobody knows just how far they extend," he said. "There has never been a judicial interpretation of the powers of the police under the statute passed in 1905, giving them certain rights of this kind."

Commissioner Charles H. Strong, who was appointed by the Governor to conduct the present inquiry, said last night:

"I want to make it clear that I never authorized or consented to the tapping of telephone wires to obtain information for use in this inquiry. If any one has done this, it is some person not officially connected with the commission."

John A. Kingsbury Makes Denial.

Commissioner of Charities John A. Kingsbury, in whose behalf the information alleged to have been obtained by wiretapping was used, said last night:

"I know nothing about the matter. If any wiretapping was done it was done without my knowledge or authorization."

When asked if he knew how information concerning telephone conversations, which were used at the hearing, had been obtained, he said:

"You must talk to my counsel, William H. Hotchkiss." Mr. Hotchkiss was asked if he knew anything about wire-tapping for information in the charities inquiry.

"As one of counsel at this hearing I must refuse to say anything about it."

"Won't you say whether you did or did not get information by this method?" he was asked.

"No, I won't discuss the question at all," he said. "I must refer you to the record."

When he was asked if the alleged wire-tapping would not be a matter of getting up the case and not a matter of evidence which would appear in the record, he said:

"I can only repeat that I must refer you to the record for all information."

Mr. Hotchkiss was told that his client, Commissioner Kingsbury, had referred questions to him, but he still refused to talk about the matter.

Mayor Mitchel could not be reached last night. His private secretary, Theodore Rousseau, when informed of the charges made to District Attorney Swann, made an effort to get in touch with Mayor Mitchel. Later he said over the telephone:

"I could not reach Mayor Mitchel, but you can say for me that the Mayor certainly did not authorize eavesdropping on Mgr. Mooney or on the Cathedral."

Mr. Rousseau refused to say anything more. Those who laid the charges before Mr. Talley did not say that Cardinal Farley's telephone at the cathedral had been tapped, although this was reported yesterday. Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle was asked about this yesterday and said:

"There has been no wire-tapping on Cardinal Farley or myself, so far as I know. We have been warned to be on the lookout for wire-tappers, but sensible men do not say anything over the telephone that would be of any benefit to eavesdroppers."

Father Farrell Makes Charges.

The Rev. William B. Farrell, Rector of the Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Brooklyn, who has made repeated attacks in pamphlets on the investigation conducted by Commissioner Strong, said yesterday that there had been eavesdropping on telephones on all of the Catholics who had been prominent in the inquiry.

"Time after time during the investigation," he said, "counsel have asked questions regarding the substance of telephone conversations, which could be obtained only by eavesdropping on telephone conversations. The record is full of instances which can be explained in no other way. In addition to that we have independent proof that this eavesdropping was done by the Police Department, which has a regular corps and instruments for tapping wires. They are restricted by law, however, we are advised, to eavesdropping on conversations between criminals or of a criminal nature.

"The matters which have been discussed over the telephone in the hearing of eavesdroppers have mainly concerned questions of matrimony and other sacred subjects of private life. These were all taken in shorthand, we have positive knowledge, at a police station. If such things are to be permitted no man's private affairs are safe. This is the most contemptible and mean infringement on personal rights that has ever occurred in this country."

Dr. Daniel C. Potter, who testified at a special hearing held before Commissioner Strong yesterday, charged at the hearing that his telephone had been tapped, and asked Commissioner Strong what authorization had been given for this practice. The Commissioner then denied that any authorization had been given by him. Dr. Potter said later that, while there was outside proof of eavesdropping, the record of the hearing proved it again and again.

Dr. Potter and Father Farrell asserted that they had evidence that the eavesdropping had been authorized by high city officials.

VOUCHES TO KAISER FOR CATHOLICS' LOYALTY

The Cologne Gazette Dispatches.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GREAT GERMAN HEADQUARTERS, April 13.—The Archbishop of Cologne, Cardinal Felix von Hartmann, who has been making a pastoral tour of the west front, celebrated pontifical mass today in the presence of the Kaiser.

He drove to the church in the full robes of a Cardinal, received the Kaiser at 9 o'clock, and conducted him to the high altar. As all those attending were in field-gray, even some of the celebrants wearing uniforms, the service made a peculiarly solemn and imposing impression.

After a sermon to the soldiers the Cardinal addressed the Kaiser as follows:

"I wish to express to your Majesty my most sincere thanks for attending this service. Our Lord said: 'Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there I am in the midst of them.' Many, many soldiers are in this place of worship today, gathered about their sovereign. With him they have prayed to God for a glorious victory and an early peace. Their united prayers have the assurance of being heard.

"Should God demand still further heavy sacrifices from us, I act as the interpreter for the Catholic soldiers of the army in offering to your Majesty a vow of unswerving loyalty in all the battles, in all the sorrows, in all the sacrifices of the war.

"May God, all powerful and all merciful, before whose eyes we are assembled, protect and guard your Majesty and our dear Fatherland."

The Cardinal presented to the Kaiser 300,000 marks, the result of a collection taken among Prussian Catholics for the benefit of the German wounded.

BOMB PLOT MEN DESERTED IN JAIL

cated, it was said, that the plotters made large purchases of lead, sometimes as much as 1,000 pounds a week. The use to which this lead may have been put is now a matter of investigation and may lead to a new development.

The police have also visited the home of Dr. Scheele and have several of his bank books and check stub books, to be used in the investigation of the financial end of the alleged conspiracy.

Dr. Scheele's Bank Accounts.

Dr. Scheele is known to have had at least five bank accounts in New York and Hoboken. Two were in Hoboken, one in the First National Bank, and the other in the Hudson Trust Company. The Hudson Trust Company account was opened about the same time as that in the First National, and the amount deposited was the same, $2,000. As in the case of the First National, the money was withdrawn in small amounts. Whether or not the checks deposited in these institutions were made out by Captain von Papen was an angle of the case that the authorities did not discuss yesterday. William Young, cashier of the First National Bank, said yesterday that he did not remember whether various checks, aggregating perhaps $20,000, which were handled for Dr. Scheele's credit were made by Captain von Papen. Among the checks cashed by the Hudson Trust Company were several for $15 each, made payable to Captain von Kleist.

Mrs. Scheele talked freely to newspapermen yesterday. She denied with emphasis that she knew anything about her husband's present whereabouts. "He went away two weeks ago," she said, "and I haven't had a line from him since. He said he was going to Pennsylvania to investigate a mining property for a friend. He has often gone away like that and been gone two or three weeks without letting me know where he was, but I'm used to it and don't object a bit."

Mrs. Scheele then said she and her husband had decided to move from their apartment in Hoboken about a month ago, had looked around and finally decided to buy the house in Bogota, which they purchased, with her money, she said, about two weeks ago. She declared she had just moved in, and that the doctor had never put foot inside the house.

Planning Doctor's Homecoming.

"I am busy getting ready for him to come back," said Mrs. Scheele, as she pointed to the furniture not yet out of the packing cases, "and I know he will be here very soon. Why I don't believe he even knows what the papers are saying about him being connected with these plots. He probably hasn't seen the papers at all."

At mention of the fact that her husband was accused by Captain von Kleist, Mrs. Scheele grew angry. Her blue eyes snapped behind her big gold spectacles as she exclaimed:

"That's just what he said he'd do; get my husband into trouble if he could. You know he was discharged from the factory. But he won't be able to do anything for my husband has nothing to be ashamed of, and I know it."

Mrs. Scheele told of the Fleming murder case in which her husband was a witness for the prosecution, and asserted that offers of $10,000 had been made to him, then a poor young student lately come from Germany, to "fix" the testimony. She said he refused the offers and went to the stand and told the truth.

The Fleming murder took place in 1896, and in the trial of Mary Alice Almont Fleming for the murder of her mother, Mrs. Evalina M. Bliss, with arsenic, Dr. Scheele appeared for the prosecution as expert chemist and testified that analysis had shown arsenic in Mrs. Bliss's stomach as well as in the pitcher which contained the poisoned clam chowder.

Calls America Fatherland.

Mrs. Scheele declared that the doctor had always regarded this country as his real fatherland, and had done work in his line which would entitle him to great rewards at the hands of American science if there had been any one in the United States to do him justice.

"Dr. Scheele has always worked in his laboratories," said Mrs. Scheele, "on this or that formula. One of his discoveries in chemistry was taken up, pirated by a leading firm of chemists, and my husband never got the least credit out of the whole thing."

Mrs. Scheele said that whatever bills had been made by Scheele had been incurred without her knowledge, and that she always paid the bills of the house. She declared she knew nothing of any of the checks reported to have been given to Scheele by von Papen.

The police learned yesterday from the janitor at the house where the Scheeles had their apartment in Hoboken that Dr. Scheele had left owing him a dollar. The janitor said the doctor had given him no intimation that he was going away. It was this same janitor who gave the detectives the information which led to the stores where Scheele purchased his supplies.

Miss Ruth Foss, the stenographer employed by Scheele, was not at her home, 1,203 Bloomfield Street, Hoboken, yesterday, though it was said that she might return at any time. Her sister denied that she had gone far away.

The Grand Jury will begin its investigation of the fire bomb plot on Monday, and indictments may be returned before the end of the week. The impression prevails that certainly two and perhaps three of those now under arrest may appear as Government witnesses in the investigation.

CLOSE WATCH IN SAVANNAH.

Suspected for Months That Bomb Plotters Were Working There.

Special to The New York Times.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 14.—For some months, in fact ever since fires started in New York and other ports aboard ships carrying war supplies, Federal Secret Service agents have had Savannah under surveillance as being the probable base of operations of a gang of bombmakers.

Information coming out today leaves no doubt that such a gang has been operating in Savannah.

Further developments are expected, for Savannah is a stronghold of German sympathizers. The German steamer Hehenfelde is interned here.

PROPOSE WEEK OF PRAYER.

National Special Aid Society Appeals to Clergymen.

The National Special Aid Society is asking clergymen, regardless of creed, to set aside Sunday, April 16, as a day for special prayers.

The committee, consisting of Mrs. William Alexander, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Allison Wright Post, the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, the Rev. Joseph Silverman, and the Rev. Theodore Sedgwick, also makes the following general appeal:

"At this crisis in the world's history, when Americans are watching with anxious hearts the development of legislation at Washington, let us join in offering our prayers to God that the national spirit which united and moved our forefathers to the effort and sacrifice necessary for the founding of our country be revived.

"Will not all Americans who love their country set aside a few minutes about noon each day of the coming week for prayer that those empowered to act for the people of the United States of America may be guided by divine wisdom to a patriotic fulfilment of their duty?"

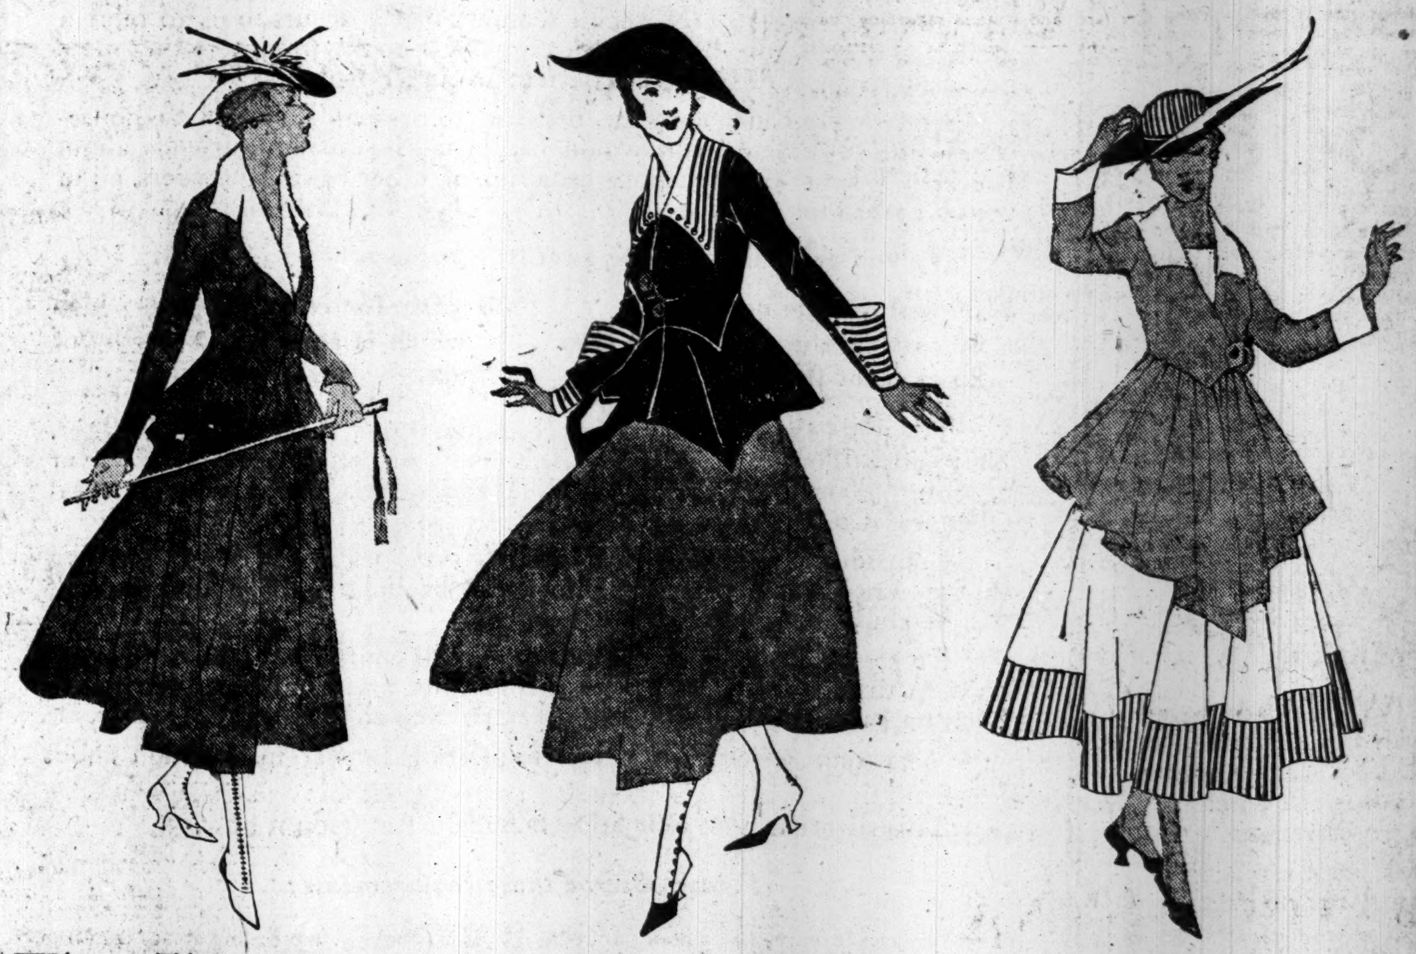
Easter Modes
"comme il faut"

Not all Paris modes are "Comme il faut." Even with the great Paris couturiers, a certain number of models fondly designed for the "Haut monde" never reach that class, but fall rejected after their first wearing by the professional mannequins—a total loss to their creators unless perchance palmed off on unwary American buyers, who bring them into America labeled "Paris."

"Parisian," indeed, but is it the kind of "Parisian" you desire? And how choose? The Answer is Best & Co.

We choose our Paris styles for women with the same selective care that we have applied to the choosing of children's styles for the past 37 years.

"Comme il faut" styles for the New York woman of assured taste and elegance, at the same instant that they are being worn by women of the same class in Paris.



What This Means This Season: Certainty in Place of Chaos

Infinite variety of moods and modes are freely intermingled this season. One master couturier shows Louis Seize dominating all his creations. Another turns to the 1830 modes, strongly reminiscent of Louis Seize and Watteau periods. Napoleonic and Spanish influences appear in others. How escape utter confusion among them?

Again, let Best's be your guide.

In Paris today you would find in the four or five best ateliers the originals of the Hats shown here at Best's. You would find all the predominating features of our millinery the same as that worn by the Parisienne of assured rank.

In tailored wear, too, we interpret the best Paris modes into costumes exactly adapted to the needs of our discriminating New York customers.

Best's afternoon and evening gowns, dance frocks and blouses are all Paris-inspired and follow the lines approved by women of taste, here and abroad.

Further Evidence Given of Friendly Attitude When German Gloves Are Released.

LONDON, April 14.—Final settlement was reached in the Chicago meat packers' cases today when checks were handed to Chandler P. Anderson, representing the Armour, Swift, Hammond and Morris companies, and Lloyd C. Griscom, representing the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Company, for the amounts agreed upon yesterday. The amount was not disclosed.

Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Secretary, received Messrs. Anderson and Griscom this afternoon when the American attorneys expressed appreciation of the courtesy and fairness shown by the British officials throughout the long and complicated negotiations. They said the success in reaching the settlement was largely due to the patience and broadmindedness of the British negotiators.

Sir Edward Grey replied:

"I hope the people of America will accept the friendly settlement of the packers' case as a further evidence of the good-will of Great Britain toward the United States and of the desire of the British Government to maintain its spirit of justice and fairness despite all the difficulties and new problems arising from the condition of the war."

Lawyers here say this is the biggest case of its kind ever up for settlement between the United States and any other country.

Packers Provide Cash Bond.

While the details have not been divulged, it is known here that the agreement finally hinged on guarantees that the meat shippers should do no trading in the future with the countries at war with Great Britain and her allies, and that with this settled under a cash bond, little difficulty was experienced in reaching a monetary settlement of the cases of the cargoes which had been sent to the Prize Court.

Discussing the case with The Associated Press, Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade, said:

"I am not at liberty to give the details of the agreement, but I can say that guarantees were given that there would be no future trading with the enemy. The representatives of the packers express themselves as pleased with the settlement, which mans that all the cases will be withdrawn from the Prize Court."

Alfred R. Urion, who has been the attorney for the packers since the seizures were made, expressed himself as pleased over the settlement after more than a year of litigation and discussion. Neither side showed any inclination to discuss the case. It is known, however, that both sides made considerable concessions from their original stands. It is not believed that the packers are entirely happy over the guarantees they have been compelled to give, while the Government expects some criticism on account of its concessions.

German Shipment Released.

As evidencing further the spirit of Great Britain to settle amicably such controversies, an order was issued by the prize court today releasing a consignment of gloves sent by parcel post from Germany to a New York importing house. It is the first instance in which seized goods of German origin have been released since the adoption of the Orders in Council of March 11, 1915.

Arthur G. Hays of New York, attorney for the claimants, requested the release of the goods on the ground that they were neutral property for which payment had already been made.

The Crown opposed the release. The attorney says he then offered to deposit the invoice price of the goods with the court. When this was refused he asked that the goods be sold to the American company, the money to be retained by the court until proof should be given that the goods had been paid for.

The Crown expressed no objection to the sale, but was opposed to the reexport of the goods to the United States. The court ruled that the goods should be sold at the invoice price to the American claimants, who should be permitted to take the gloves to New York. Later Mr. Hays will produce proof that the goods were paid for in advance. He expects to obtain a return of the money from the court.

This is the first decision in the parcel post cases and is likely to serve as a precedent.

JAMES SELIGMAN IS 92.

Mrs. Guggenheim Gives a Birthday Party to Her Father.

Mrs. Benjamin Guggenheim gave a party yesterday at the Hotel St. Regis to her father, James Seligman, in honor of his ninety-second birthday. Three generations of Mr. Seligman's family attended the party, and one of the features was a series of motion pictures taken especially for the occasion in which he and some of the children took part. Mr. Seligman is the senior member and founder of the banking firm of J. and W. Seligman & Co.

At the same time Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Cartier, who also live at the St. Regis, were giving a birthday party for their five-year-old daughter, Marion Cartier. The children, numbering thirty, were entertained in the library on the second floor of the hotel. They, too, were entertained with motion pictures, including "Cinderella and the Glass Slipper," and many other scenes for children, which was followed by tea and frolic.

RUSSIAN FINANCES STRONG.

Big Increase in Nation's Savings Since the War Began.

PETROGRAD, April 14, (via London.)—Discussing the budget before the Council of the Empire today, Pierre L. Bark, the Russian Finance Minister, said:

"Despite war expenses amounting to 12,000,000,000 rubles, and thanks to the abolition of the alcohol monopoly, the financial strength of the country is growing. The savings of the nation since the beginning of the war have been increased by 2,000,000,000 rubles."

$100 For A Letter

Other cash awards for letters telling why RYZON, The Perfect Baking Powder, should be in every household

So many friends have sent us good RYZON Recipes and new suggestions of what we might say in our advertising, and so much interest was shown in the RYZON Recipe Contest, that it occurs to us to offer a similar award for the best ideas of practical cooks for interesting new friends in using RYZON, The Perfect Baking Powder.

Send us your idea as to the best way to present RYZON to housewives—the arguments you would use in talking to your friends about RYZON'S superiority without criticism of other baking powders, all of which have some merit.

We will give the following awards:

$100 cash for the best idea.
50 cash for the second best idea.
25 cash for the third best idea.

$5 cash for each and every idea which is selected as worthy of use.

The judges will be: Mr. Benj. T. Butterworth, Advertising Manager, New York Times; Mr. H. N. McKinney, of the firm of N. W. Ayer & Son, Advertising; Mr. W. H. Nichols, Jr., President General Chemical Co.

Contributions will be judged strictly on originality and advertising value. English and composition will not be judged—only the idea itself will be considered.

To every person who participates in this contest we will mail free a copy of the new RYZON Baking Book, the first complete authoritative book on baking, edited by Marion Harris Neil and priced at $1.00.

We cannot answer any letters requesting further information about this contest.

This advertisement only appears once. Act upon it now.

Please observe these requirements:

1—Your ideas must be written in 100 words or less.
2—No art work or pictures will be considered. We want the common-sense thoughts of housewives and practical cooks in plain writing.
3—No professional advertising writers will be eligible for the prize awards.
4—Ideas are more important than the words used to express them. You don't have to be a fine writer if you have the idea. What we desire most is your reason for believing RYZON is superior and how you would convince others.
5—No criticism of any other baking powder will be allowed.
6—This offer closes on May 1st, 1916.

Here is a brief summary of the points which have been included thus far in advertising RYZON

1—RYZON, The Perfect Baking Powder, is made with pure crystallized monosodium phosphate, a new and better phosphate.
2—Phosphates are found in most of our natural foods, and are necessary to human life.
3—RYZON is produced by a patented process which makes it keep and insures uniform results.
4—Expert cooks find that because RYZON is pure and highly efficient, a little less of it does better work.
5—The purity, strength and healthfulness of RYZON were investigated and approved by the leading food authorities before RYZON was placed on the market.
6—RYZON was tried by many of the leading domestic science teachers and institutions, with the unanimous report of better baking results.

WHEELER STILL HIDES.

Court Will Hear Motion to Vacate Order of Arrest Monday.

The full story of the marital troubles of Albert Gallatin Wheeler and his wife, Claudia, will be told all over again, with some additional details, in Part I. of the Supreme Court on Monday next.

Yesterday William F. S. Hart, on behalf of Mr. Wheeler, procured from Justice Greenbaum an order requiring Mrs. Wheeler to show cause on Monday why the order of arrest against her husband should not be vacated. In the meantime Mr. Wheeler will remain in the seclusion of the Union League Club.

The wife's counsel, J. J. Goldstein and Abraham Lipton, said last night that they had engaged four detectives who would relieve one another in watching the club to see that Mr. Wheeler did not escape.

The papers filed with the court declared that an agreement had been prepared last February for a settlement of the back alimony of $3,600, claimed by Mrs. Wheeler, on the basis of a payment of $500 in cash and a further payment of $100 a month. At the end of a year expert accountants were to look into Mr. Wheeler's financial status, and on their report would rest a decision whether he should pay more alimony or less, or none at all.

Mr. Wheeler's father is not in this city to aid his son and is not expected here.

Emil E. Fuchs, who was Mrs. Wheeler's counsel during the dickering over the proposed agreement, corroborated the statement that Mr. Wheeler came to this city with the understanding that no attempt would be made to arrest him.

Certain-teed
ROOFING
General Roofing Mfg. Co.

A real Guarantee

To be more than a mere "scrap of paper," a guarantee must be absolute—and backed by a concern able and willing to make it good. The General's guarantee is not only absolute; it is backed by a business operating the world's largest roofing mills, and making one-third of all the roll roofing made in America. That's the guarantee behind

The guarantee is for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to ply (1, 2 or 3). There is no evasion about it—no attempt to substitute a high-sounding something "just as good." There is no substitute for a real guarantee. You get an absolute guarantee on CERTAIN-TEED because the General knows that no better roofing can be made. Its raw materials and method of manufacture are both certified by the General's board of graduate chemists, and he knows he's taking no chance in guaranteeing them to you. That's what "CERTAIN-TEED" means—certified and guaranteed. Experience has proven that the guarantee is conservative, and that CERTAIN-TEED will outlast the period of guarantee.

The roofing felt, as it comes bone dry from the rollers, is given a thorough saturation of a special blend of soft asphalts, the formula of the General's board of expert chemists. It is then given a harder coating of another blend of asphalts. This keeps the inner saturation soft, and prevents the drying-out process so destructive to ordinary roofing. Roofing is impervious to the elements only so long as the asphalt saturation lasts. CERTAIN-TEED retains its soft saturation, and is in good condition for years after the harder, drier kinds have become useless.

CERTAIN-TEED is made in rolls; also in slate-covered shingles. There is a type of CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, with flat or pitched roof, from the largest sky-scraper to the smallest residence or out-building. CERTAIN-TEED is sold by responsible dealers all over the world, at reasonable prices. Investigate it before you decide on any type of roof.

MILITIA PROVISION IN ARMY BILL LEGAL

Col. Ladd of State Guard Gives Courts and Constitution as His Authority.

DUAL STATUS IS UPHELD

Conscription Act of 1863, He Tells Gen. O'Ryan, Established a Precedent.

In order to get the opinion of the law officers of the National Guard as to the constitutionality of certain features of military legislation affecting the guard, pending in Congress, Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commanding the guard of this State, addressed a letter to Colonel William W. Ladd, Judge Advocate General, asking an opinion on the constitutionality of certain sections of the military bills before Congress. Colonel Ladd handed his report to General O'Ryan yesterday.

He holds that the provisions in the Hay and Chamberlain Army bills relating to the creation of a Federal status of State militiamen are constitutional, and that no objection can be entered to these bills on the score of legality.

In his opinion Colonel Ladd said:

1. The facts stated are that it is proposed to incorporate in the bill providing for the organization of the army and the militia now before Congress a provision whereby members of the militia shall take on the status of Federal soldiers. The inquiry presented is whether such action is within the constitutional authority of Congress.

2. By Section 8 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the United States Congress is givn power "to declare war," "to raise and support armies," "to provide and maintain a navy," and "to make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces."

These grants of power are so worded as to give to Congress a broad and comprehensive authority to provide the military and naval forces needed to enforce the nation's laws and to secure its continued existence against internal dissensions or foreign aggression.

No part of the citizens of the nation is exempt from the extended authority conferred on Congress to raise armies. Whether they belong to the organized or unorganized militia or are otherwise situated they are all subject to draft into the army of the nation if Congress so directs.

In the Conscription act of March 3, 1863, it was enacted "that all able-bodied male citizens of the United States and persons of foreign birth who shall have declared on oath their intention to become citizens under and in pursuance of the laws thereof between the ages of twenty and forty-five years except as hereinafter excepted are hereby declared to constitute the national forces, and shall be liable to perform military duty in the service of the United States when called out by the President for that purpose." Provision was also made for their enrollment and draft. The exemptions include "the Governors of the several States," but no other State officials.

There exists in Congress in the discharge of its duty to care for the defense of the nation and in the exercise of the powers given it to raise national troops a paramount authority which cannot be questioned.

3. In the present case Congress is asked to authorize the voluntary entrance into the federal forces of persons serving in the militia. It could compel such Federal service by persons so situated, and in my opinion it has authority under the Constitution to authorize a force to be raised in this manner by voluntary tender of services. The fact that such troops are not continually on duty in active service as Federal troops is not important. The power to raise armies can be exercised in any manner Congress sees fit. The Constitution places no conditions or limitations on the manner of its exercise and it is within the power of Congress to prescribe whether the term of service of Federal troops shall be for a long or a short period, and whether it shall involve continuous or intermittent performance of active duty.

4. The proposed action under consideration is entirely consistent with the obligations of citizenship. Every citizen owes allegiance to the United States and to the State in which he resides. This allegiance imposes on him the duty of bearing arms for the nation and State whenever called on to do so.

5. With respect to the militia as affected by the proposed action it is sufficient to say that the Constitution gives Congress power to provide for the "organization" of these forces. The word "organization" as generally used and as employed in statutes and constitutions has a very broad meaning. As applied to a military body it includes, among other things, the fixing of the age for service, the term of service, the compensation for service, and the qualifications for service. Clearly Congress can say whether a member of the militia shall hold any other office or assume any other obligations, as such action is in effect a declaration as to what persons shall constitute the militia, and this power Congress has always exercised.

6. The effect of the creation of the status of a Federal soldier as to officers and men of the militia will be that they can discharge their duties as militiamen until the National Government calls for the performance of the obligation assumed toward it as Federal soldier. This call of the National Government is paramount to the right of the State to their services.

7. The legislative action proposed and considered is within the Constitutional authority of Congress.

WILLIAM W. LADD,
Colonel, Judge Advocate.

Senator Wadsworth has introduced an amendment to the Chamberlain bill, providing that in order to conform to the provisions of the act officers and enlisted men of the National Guard shall be required to take, the former an oath of office and the latter an oath of enlistment in form prescribed for the regular, with the addition of the State obligation.

PREPARE FOR PEACE, SAYS J. G. SCHURMAN

DEFENSE NOT NOW AN ISSUE

All Agree Army and Navy Should Be Efficient, and Time Has Come for Economic Plans.

Addressing the Brooklyn Civic Club on "Is Internationalism Impossible?" at a luncheon of the club yesterday, President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell University said that, although he was neither a "jingo" nor a pacifist, he had for many years advocated a reasonable increase in the army and navy as a proper protection against attack. He said in part:

"I do not think that the probability of attack has been increased in consequence of the European war. On the contrary, it has been appreciably diminished, for the conflict has been exhausting the mandhood and the economical and financial resources of all the great powers since the Summer of 1914, with every prospect of continuing at least till the Winter of 1917.

"But while the war has not augmented our dangers, it has demonstrated the inadequacy of our army and navy. To bring them up to the standard I believe is almost the unanimous desire of the American people; therefore it will speedily cease to be a political issue.

"It ought to have been an issue in 1914. Had President Wilson then recommended it to Congress instead of opposing it the diplomatic arm of our Government would have been strengthened immensely in the interval.

"Now that exhaustion is bringing the war within measurable distance of the end, when we should, if we had any gift of foresight, be considering the questions that will come with peace, nearly all of our speakers and writers continue to discuss military preparedness, which should have been disposed of in 1914.

"The vital question of today is not 'How shall America prepare for war?' though that is proper and important in its own place and time. The question is 'How shall we prepare for peace?'

"How shall America resume its normal relations with a world recovered from war? Of these relations the most obvious and palpable is commerce. The European belligerents have already given serious attention to the question of future production, exchange, and market. It was publicly discussed in the British House of Commons last January, and in this very month the Entente Powers, in a trade conference, are to consider programs of preferential trade amongst themselves and discrimination against their present enemies.

"Against this array of economic force what preparation is America making to expand or even to retain its former export trade? Is the Government investigating the subject of scientific protection? Are American labor and capital to receive any encouragement? And, above all, can we not now adjust the unreasonable conflict between Government and business which has so long blighted American prosperity, especially when Europe is giving us an object lesson in co-operation between Government and business.

WHITE A PREPAREDNESS AID

The Industrial Committee of the Naval Consulting Board of the United States was entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Bankers' Club by J. G. White, President of the J. G. White & Co. The Industrial Committee, of which H. E. Coffin is Chairman, has undertaken an exhaustive census of the industries of the country, to determine how our resources can best be placed at the call of the Government in time of war. Committees from the national engineering societies will carry on the work in each State.

At an organization meeting yesterday Mr. White was elected Chairman of the New York State Board. The complete list of members of the State board follows: J. G. White, President, J. G. White & Co., Inc., Chairman, American Society of Civil Engineers; Charles F. Rand, Spanish American Iron Company, American Institute of Mining Engineers; W. H. Marshall, President, American Locomotive Company, American Society of Mechanical Engineers; Dr. T. B. Wagner, Corn Products Refining Company, American Chemical Society; William McClellan, American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Mrs. Morgenthau Praises American Red Cross Work.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Richard Aldrich, 817 West Seventy-fourth Street, to interest more persons in the relief work which is being done by the American Red Cross in Turkey. Mrs. Henry Morgenthau told of the care that was being taken of the soldiers in Constantinople, and of the deep appreciation that was felt for all Americans who had given their services to the Red Cross. Mrs. Aldrich is the Chairman of the West Side Branch of the American society, which was organized to extend the sphere of its usefulness throughout the city. Mrs. Morgenthau said:

"It fills one's heart with joy and pride to see the various American hospitals, orphanages, and churches scattered throughout the empire. Two Red Cross chapters had previously been organized at Constantinople and Beirut. The work of the two hospitals in Constantinople was put under the direction of Dr. Wilfred Post. From the recent advices received from the embassy typhus is spreading and hundreds dying for want of simple bread. Great has been the assistance that America has rendered to Turkey, but still greater and nobler work can be done there by us."

Among those present were Mrs. Orme Wilson, Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, Jacob H. Schiff, Dr. and Mrs. George Harris, and Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel.

SCHOOL BARS MISS PINCHUK

Principal Refuses Readmission to Girl Accused of Theft.

Principal Theodore C. Mitchill of the Jamaica High School refused to receive Miss Julia Pinchuk back into the school when she and her lawyer, Benjamin Marvin, and a corps of reporters and photographers visited the building yesterday morning. The visit was made to have the girl whom Principal Mitchill accused of being "a clever little thief," and who drank lysol after the accusation, reinstated after Magistrate Miller had dismissed the charge of attempted suicide.

There was a long delay while Principal Mitchill attended to some routine duties, then he announced that he would telephone to the Board of Education to find out whether he should admit the girl. After communicating with some one, whose name he did not mention, he said that the girl could not be readmitted under any circumstances.

Later Lawyer Marvin said:

"I shall lay the whole matter before Associate Superintendents. There must be a thorough investigation and a trial of the case before the Board of Education."

Mrs. Alfred J. Eno, a School Commissioner, is the committee appointed by the Forty-third District Local School Board to investigate the Pinchuk case. She said:

"If this girl was rightly accused she should not be in the school. If she was wrongly accused she has suffered a great injustice. I shall not rest content until I have ascertained the true state of affairs, and it will be reported to the School Board."

FIND WOMAN DEAD; HOSTESS POISONED

WILL ANALYZE MEDICINES

Autopsy Ordered on Body Supposed to be That of Mrs. Hodge of Albany—Mrs. Lahah in Hospital.

A woman believed to have been Mrs. George Hodge of 103 Eagle Street, Albany, N. Y., is dead, and her hostess, Mrs. Margaret Lahah, an actress of 245 West Fifty-first Street, is near death from taking some drug, the nature of which has not been ascertained. The police believe the poisoning of both women to have been accidental.

In the Lahah apartment two small drug boxes were found—one containing headache tablets and the other, marked aspirin, containing other tablets. The women, suffering from headaches, were said to have taken tablets from both boxes.

In an effort to learn the nature of the poison the police will have chemical analyses of the tablets, also an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Hodge.

The police and the Coroners' office were notified to come at once to the apartment yesterday. Coroner Feinberg, the first to arrive, found Mrs. Hodge dead and Mrs. Lahah in an almost dying condition on the bed beside her. In the apartment were also Norton Loeb, a real estate man of 547 West 157th Street, and Miss Dorothy Morgan, a chorus girl and moving-picture actress, who had been the guests of Mrs. Lahah.

The Coroner and the detectives, who followed him quickly, were told that two physicians had spent part of the night and morning in an endeavor to bring the two women out of their stupor. It was after the Albany woman died and Mrs. Lahah was apparently dying that the authorities were called in. Mrs. Lahah, still unconscious, was taken to the Polyclinic Hospital, but last night was transferred to Bellevue. It was said there that she had an even chance for life.

Mrs. Lahah, the police were told, took the apartment on April 6. It was understood that she was separated from her husband. Miss Morgan, who is known as Miller when not appearing professionally, and whose parents live at 215 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, had been Mrs. Lahah's guest for several days. Last season she was in the Ziegfeld "Follies," and until recently, it was said, lived at 203 West Fifty-fourth Street.

Mrs. Lahah left the apartment late on Thursday afternoon, telling Miss Morgan she was going to the Grand Central Station to meet "Mabel," who was expected from Albany to visit her. She returned half an hour later, and told Miss Morgan and Mr. Loeb, a visitor to the apartment, that she had missed her friend. Twenty minutes later, however, the friend, who was introduced simply as "Mabel," arrived. She was a good-looking young woman, who wore a black and white plaid suit, a straw sailor hat, with a black and white quill, and brown shoes and stockings. The police found a letter written by Mrs. Hodge to Mrs. Lahah, telling her she was coming to New York. This led them to conclude that "Mabel" was Mrs. Hodge.

According to the story told by Loeb and Miss Morgan, late in the evening Mrs. Lahah complained of feeling ill and took one of the tablets out of the box labeled aspirin. Shortly after this a man known as Lester called, but finding Mrs. Lahah ill, he went away. The woman known as "Mabel" also complained of not feeling well, and she and Mrs. Lahah both went to bed. Up to that time, the police were told, the only thing drunk by members of the party was bottled beer.

As nearly as the police could ascertain, Mrs. Lahah became seriously ill about 10:30 o'clock. Miss Morgan and Loeb assisted them, but when, about midnight, Miss Hodge got worse and Mrs. Lahah began to scream, they telephoned to the hallboy to call a doctor. The boy summoned Dr. Matthew Beattie of 238 West Fifty-first Street, just across the street.

Dr. Beattie worked over the women, and Mrs. Lahah revived to such an extent that the doctor left the apartment to attend another case. He returned at 8 o'clock and again treated the women, giving them strychnine as a heart stimulant. After he left that time, both women suffered a relapse, and in haste Miss Morgan called Dr. E. E. Gardner, whose office is in the building.

"I found the two women in a state of coma," Dr. Gardner told the police. "I saw at once that another physician had been there, and so I got in touch with Dr. Beattie. I worked over the women and treated them with ether."

Dr. Gardner said he told Dr. Beattie he thought both women should be taken to a hospital, but the latter did not think that necessary. What he thought was needed, he said, was oxygen. Mrs. Hodge died early in the afternoon.

Miss Morgan said she was sure Mrs. Lahah was not addicted to the use of drugs. Coroner Feinberg said any theory of suicide could be eliminated.

The police found a parlor car check showing that Mrs. Hodge had come from Albany on Thursday. They also found engraved on the inside of a plain gold ring she had worn, "G. H. C. to N. M. M.—1913." A quantity of jewelry was found in the room, including a ring valued at $700, two diamond rings aggregating $600 in value, other rings of lesser value, and a bracelet inside of which was engraved "Mortie to Nell."

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—Mrs. George Hodge lived in a rooming house at 103 Eagle Street. She left Albany Thursday afternoon, telling friends she was going to New York and would return on Sunday. Her father is said to be Thomas Murphy of Niagara Falls. The Albany police were told her husband had a saloon in Buffalo, and that she had separated from him two years ago.

SUBWAY WORK GOES ON.

Contractors Gradually Filling Strikers' Places, They Say.

The General Contractors' Asociation yesterday decided to adhere to the offer they had already made to the representatives of subway workers, that of a 10 per cent. increase with the minimum wage of $2. Contractors said yesterday that the places of strikers were being filled gradually. George H. Clark, chief engineer for the Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins Corporation working in the Times Square section said he believed all sections of their construction would be in normal operation at the end of next week. He added that he had a surplus of applications for drill runners' jobs.

In the office of Charles A. Angell of the Cranford Company, working on the Flatbush Avenue subway, it was said that although only a half force was now working, men were being hired day by day. The Degnon Construction Company, working in the Seventh Avenue excavation, and the Flinn-O'Rourke Company, said yesterday that they were hiring men to fill the strikers' places.

Michael Carraher, Secretary of the subway workers' union, said that none of the members had returned to work. He declared that 13,000 men were out. It was said that the number of hoisting engineers out was increased yesterday from 235 to 307.

FAVOR KEROSENE AS AN AUTO FUEL

TO INVESTIGATE HIS PLAN

Columbia Scientist's Suggestion Is That Oil and Air Both Be Superheated by a Lamp.

The Independent Oil Men's Association at a meeting held yesterday at the Hotel Vanderbilt authorized the Chairman to appoint a special committee to investigate a plan to use kerosene as a substitute for gasoline as motor fuel.

The matter was brought up by a paper of Professor Charles E. Lucke of the Department of Engineering, Columbia University, who declared that it would be feasible to employ kerosene as fuel for automobiles. His idea in general terms was to pre-heat the air and the kerosene to 300 degrees, the initial heat to come from a kerosene lamp.

The members followed the technical details with deep interest. There have been many devices for burning kerosene, but so far, in the opinion of experts, there has been none which was entirely satisfactory. It was, however, proposed that a committee of members at once begin a thorough investigation of the subject, and it was thought that a combination of devices might be used. After the committee shall have reached a decision on what can be done in this direction, it was planned that the association confer with the Association of Automobile Manufacturers, so that practical details could be perfected.

The members of the Independent Oil Men's Association see great possibilities in utilizing kerosene for motor fuel. At the present time kerosene sells at from 7 to 10 cents a gallon at retail, while gasoline at stations is now as high as 28 cents. The demand for kerosene is now so small relatively that millions of gallons of it are in storage. In making the run for gasoline from the crude oil it is necessary to make 40 per cent. of kerosene, the gasoline yield being about 20 per cent. of the volume.

The increasing use of gas and electricity for illumination has depressed the price of kerosene, though the commodity is still used in country districts, and quantities of it are shipped abroad. The gasoline supply, however, is far behind the demand, owing to the orders both at home and abroad. If kerosene can be utilized for running automobiles the price of gasoline would go down and kerosene would go up as a healthy demand for it would be created.

The independent oil men feel that gasoline is bound to go higher under present conditions, as the demand increases in many quarters and in some of the fields the supply of crude oil is falling.

It was announced that M. J. Bryne of Waterbury, Conn., Chairman of the conference, would name the committee on kerosense in a day or so.

Individual members of the association discussed the carefully guarded secret of Louis Enricht of Huntington, L. I., who sees his way clear to make fuel for automobiles from water. His is a chemical process, and he declares he can produce a fuel at 1½ cents a gallon.

H. G. James of Kansas City proposed to the association that action be taken to have an appropriation of $250,000 a year made by the Federal Government for experimenting with petroleum. Mr. James said the products from crude oil could be turned to so many uses that the Government should aid in every way in developing the uses of crude oil. He expressed the opinion that much could be done at this time in investigating the manufacture of motor fuel.

CHICKENS STUFFED LIKE TWAIN'S FROG

Statisticians of State Food and Market Department Unearth a $164,062 Weekly Swindle.

Inspectors from the State Department of Foods and Markets got evidence yesterday tending to show that there was a systematic plan among some dealers in this city to stuff live poultry with corn and gravel, thereby adding from twelve to twenty ounces to the weight. Statisticians of the Department figured that in one week consumers were cheated out of $164,062 by the method.

Poultry bought in three stores in this city yesterday by Inspector George Hildebrand proved to have their crops full of corn and gravel, weighing from twelve to fifteen ounces for each chicken.

The method, according to Commissioner Dillon, was to starve the poultry for twenty-four hours and increase their hunger by feeding them red pepper. After the starvation process had been carried out, the chickens were fed a watery mixture of corn, wheat and sometimes sand and gravel, mixed with paste, which causes the mass to stick to the walls of the crop. The grain did not reach the stomach and the chickens would die if they were not killed immediately.

Persons who heard of the chicken-weighting said it reminded them of Mark Twain's story about the jumping frog, into which shot was poured by the owner of another frog just before the two animals were to have had a jumping contest, on which the owners had bet heavily.

"About 175 cars of poultry, containing 5,000 fowls each, arrived here last week," Commissioner Dillon said. "If this method were used quite generally, and our investigation and previous investigations by Federal Inspectors seems to indicate that it is, the dealers are selling something like 650,000 pounds of corn, gravel, &c., in the crops every week. Another consideration is that the fowls are dangerous to eat, killed, as they have been, in a dying condition."

No complaints against the three dealers were made to the District Attorney yesterday, although Commissioner Dillon said that such a step was under advisement.

MRS. BLATCH ASKS $100,000.

Sues Electric Lighting Company for Her Husband's Death.

Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch began suit in the Supreme Court yesterday against the Port Jefferson Electric Lighting Company for $100,000 on the ground that the death of her husband, William Henry Blatch, on Aug. 2, 1915, was due to the carelessness of the company. Mr. Blatch was living at Shoreham, L. I., and early on the morning of his death he started for the home of Channing Pollock, a neighbor, to return a borrowed book. A wire lay across the entrance to Mr. Pollock's grounds, and he seized hold of it to clear a way.

It was a live wire that had fallen from a pole, and Mr. Blatch was shocked and burned to death. Mr. Blatch's will was probated in Hants County, England. He was the Managing Director of the May Brewing Company, with a salary of $10,000 a year. In the last years of his life he had become an expert chemist, and it was on the basis of his earning capacity that the amount of damages asked for was fixed.

Our Kinsmen of the North

WITHIN TWO MONTHS from the outbreak of the Great War, Canada, our valiant northern neighbor, had armed and sent to Europe 33,000 men—the largest single expeditionary force that ever crossed the ocean.

It seemed almost as though these stalwart fighting men were our own flesh and blood.

HOUSE COMMITTEE SCORES MARSHALL

His Testimony to Members Only an "Aggravation"—He Declines to Comment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The House Select Committee today filed a report recommending that H. Snowden Marshall, Federal District Attorney of New York, be brought before the bar of the House for contempt. Chairman Moon of the Select Committee gave notice that the report would not be called up for action until the expiration of two weeks.

"Insulting and defamatory," is the characterization in the report of the letter which Mr. Marshall recently wrote to a sub-committee of the House Judiciary Committee, which conducted impeachment proceedings against the New York attorney. The Select Committee's report says that Mr. Marshall's testimony before it in relation to this letter was an aggravation of the contempt.

After reviewing the history of the impeachment inquiry and the letter which Mr. Marshall sent to Chairman Carlin of the investigating sub-committee, the Select Committee reports that this letter "is as a whole and in several of the separate sentences defamatory and insulting and tends to bring the House into public contempt and ridicule, and that the said H. Snowden Marshall, by writing and publishing same, is guilty of contempt of the House of Representatives of the United States because of the violation of its privileges, its honor and its dignity. * * * We find that Mr. Marshall's testimony is an aggravation of his contempt.

"Mr. Marshall denies any intention to insult or stand in contempt of the Judiciary Committee or the House of Representatives, but he practically concedes in his testimony his contempt for the subcommittee and his desire, by these publications, to bring the subcommittee into ridicule and disrepute. If this is not wholly conceded by him in his testimony it is certainly very fully proved.

Letters Called Offensive.

"He reaffirms in his testimony the views heretofore expressed by him in the letter referred to against the subcommittee and declines to offer any apology or retraction of the offensive matter in the letters contained, but rather reiterates and reaffirms and thereby aggravates the contempt. * * * That the House of Representatives as a representative body has the inherent power to protect itself against defamation and all slanderous and lawless conduct that would bring it into reproach and popular contempt, whether uttered or committed in the presence of the House or elsewhere, has not been disputed since the case of Anderson vs. Dunn, 6 Wheaton 204.

"Offensive, abusive, and defamatory language against a committee of the House acting within its authority is offensive, abusive, and defamatory against the House, and is just as dangerous to the integrity of that body as if it had been committed in its presence."

The report says that Mr. Marshall's letter "is defamatory and a clear expression of contempt. It was as much a violation of the privileges of the House to have directed a scurrilous and offensive letter of this character against one of its committees as if it had been addressed directly to the House.

"It is proper to say," continues the report, "that Mr. Marshall was given every opportunity to retract or apologize or in some way modify his statements contained in the letter. He reaffirmed and reasserted the same, only with the statement that it was intended to criticise the procedure of the sub-committee and was not intended as contempt of the House.

Wants a Warrant Issued.

"It is clear that if the House could tolerate such a construction of this letter and could tolerate such vile and defamatory language against one of its committees it would be powerless to conduct impeachment trials or perform any other duty without living under the disgrace of the contempt that would necessarily come to a body so unmindful of its duties to the people as to permit such insult and injury."

The Select Committee recommends that the Speaker be authorized to issue a warrant directing the Sergeant at Arms to bring District Attorney Marshall before the bar of the House, where he shall have the report read to him and be entitled to make reply in person or by counsel.

"If the said H. Snowden Marshall desires to avail himself of either of these privileges," the report says, "the same shall be granted him. If not, the House shall thereupon proceed to take order in the matter."

Chairman Moon said he would not ask for the adoption of the report for two weeks in order that Mr. Marshall might have ample opportunity to prepare his defense, should he desire to make one, and that members of the House might be fully acquainted with the case. The report was a unanimous one, being signed by the five members of the select committee—Representatives Moon of Tennessee, Crisp of Georgia, Garner of Texas, Democrats, and Lenroot of Wisconsin and Sterling of Illinois, Republicans.

District Attorney Marshall yesterday had not received any official intimation of what the special committee of the House of Representatives had decided concerning the charge that he had acted contemptuously toward the House, by the letter which he wrote to the subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee, which was holding a preliminary investigation of the impeachment charges against him here. He had not heard that he was to be summoned to the bar of the House to explain his conduct, as the Washington dispatches stated.

Mr. Marshall declined yesterday to make any statement concerning the matter.

DISCUSS MAURER'S SPEECH.

Board of Education Committee Seeks More Witnesses.

The speech of James Maurer before the Labor Forum at the Washington Irving High School last Sunday was considered yesterday at a meeting of the Committee on Care of Buildings, of which Isadore Montefiore Levy is Chairman. It was expected that the stenographic testimony taken at the hearing of President William G. Willcox of the Board of Education of the charges against Maurer would be at the disposal of the committee, but the stenographic report is not yet ready.

It was decided by the committee to notify John J. Keller to produce before it any additional witnesses in the matter. It was Mr. Keller who at Wednesday's meeting of the board offered a resolution that the permits to the Labor Forum and the Civic Forum to use the auditorium of the Washington Irving High School and P. S. 84, Brooklyn, respectively, be revoked. Action on the matter was put over until Mr. Keller is heard from. If new witnesses are not forthcoming the committee will make a report to the Board of Education based on the testimony taken by President Willcox.

CLEAR MISS BARKER OF STIGMA ON BIRTH

Appellate Division Decision Ends Controversy Over the Marriage of Late C. S. Barker.

By a unanimous decision the Appellate Division in Brooklyn yesterday declared Beatrice Arabelle Barker to be the legitimate child of the late Charles S. Barker of Brooklyn, and entitled to a one-tenth share of the estate of her great-grandfather, Charles Barker, who died in 1875, leaving a large estate, including the building at 29 Elm Place, now occupied by Frederick Loeser & Co., and the buildings at 462 and 472 Fulton Street, Brooklyn. Miss Barker's share in the estate will amount to more than $100,000.

By the will of Charles Barker, he left the income of his property, estimated to be valued at $8,000,000, for life to his sons, John A. G. Barker and Samuel P. Barker, and on their deaths to their children and grandchildren. The surviving son, Samuel P. Barker, died in 1912, and a partition suit, in which the legitimacy of Beatrice Arabelle Barker was questioned, was begun by heirs. It was alleged that at the time Miss Barker's mother maried Charles S. Barker she was the legal wife of another. Yesterday's decision held that allegation to be unfounded.

A mortgage of $30,000 which was placed on the premises at 462 Fulton Street, and a ten-year lease of the building from 1911 to Bedell Brothers, which were negotiated without Miss Barker's knowledge, were held to be invalid as to her. The question of whether she had not benefited financially from the transactions, and so should be held a party to them, was referred to the Special Term for further determination.

Miss Barker is now 17 years old and resides with her mother, Mrs. Henry F. Dorgeloh, in Brookline, Mass. Her father died in 1901, and a few years later her mother married Mr. Dorgeloh, Boston manager for the Hamburg-American Line.

TO REOPEN CANAL TODAY.

Fifteen Vessels Will Pass Through the Waterway.

PANAMA, April 14.—The Panama Canal will be reopened tomorrow with the passage of probably fifteen ships of a total of twenty-six which have been waiting to go through the waterway since the announcement was made that it would be again ready for traffic April 15. There will be no ceremonies to mark the event.

The waterway has been closed virtually for seven months, during which time the dredging fleet has removed a vast quantity of débris from the Gaillard Cut and has made the channel through the cut better than it ever was.

The canal at the cut has been widened 300 feet for a distance of a quarter of a mile, and has a maximum depth of approximately thirty-five feet. The majority of ships which will pass through tomorrow are of light draft and will be easily handled with the minimum of disturbance to the dredging operations, which will be suspended only for a short time.

MAGNETS REMOVE BULLETS.

Scientists Hear of Achievements in War Surgery at Session.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—Descriptions of marvelous feats of surgery performed on wounded soldiers, and of experiments on college students to discover secrets of the digestive apparatus, were among the features of today's sessions of the American Philosophical Society.

Experiments with vibrating telephone diaphragms, which, it was declared, would eventually solve the problem of sending numerous messages over one wire at the same time, was the subject of another of the numerous papers covering a wide range of human knowledge read and discussed by the prominent scientists present.

Dr. Harvey Cushing, Professor of Surgery at Harvard University, who served with the American Red Cross in France, described how by means of magnets and the development of probing surgeons are able to remove bullets and particles of shell that have become imbedded in brain tissues.

Edward Walder, a jeweler of 215 West Forty-second Street, was held in $8,000 bail by Magistrate Breen in the West Side Court yesterday for trial on a charge of grand larceny, preferred by Nathan Greenberg, another jeweler, of 630 Fifth Avenue. The charge grew out of the disappearance of a $12,000 diamond brooch, said to be the property of a wealthy society woman.

Greenberg testified that he received the brooch from E. M. Gattle, member of the firm of E. M. Gattle & Co., of 630 Fifth Avenue, to have the diamonds reset. He asserts he gave it to Walder last Saturday to do the work, but Walder insisted that he returned the gems to Greenberg.

MERCHANTS GAIN RECRUITS.

The final day of the campaign which the Merchants' Association has been conducting to increase its membership to 5,000 or more resulted in a gain of 439 new applications, making a total of 1,101 members for the three days, it was announced at the daily luncheon yesterday in the Biltmore. When Henry R. Towne, who presided, said that the association now numbered 4,494, William C. Breed arose and announced that he had gotten six well-known lawyers to join, which made the total an even 4,500. The lawyers were ex-Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, Henry W. Taft, Colonel William N. Dyckman, Henry L. Stimson, Francis Hutchins, and Isham Henderson.

Enthusiasm ran so high that it was unanimously voted to continue the canvass for new recruits until next Thursday. First honors yesterday went to Team 10, composed of William C. Muschenheim, Chairman; Fred A. Muschenheim, Andrew A. Benton, and Thomas M. Debevoise, who reported 36 applications. John Buckle, Chairman; S. J. Pearson, and A. Silz of Team 17 reported 27 members. This team, with a total of 64, held the record for the three days. Third honors went to Team 57, Julius Liebman, Chairman; H. A. Bullock, and Newman E. Drake, which obtained 23 applications.

Borough President Marks was the speaker yesterday. General Leonard Wood has promised to attend the luncheon on Thursday and make a short address to the association.

Child Burned to Death in Play.

PATERSON, N. J., April 14.—Fire started by children playing with matches in the home of Max Grocum resulted in the death of Mabel Grocum, 4 years old, today. The child was sleeping on a coach when the fringe on the edge of the couch took fire from a match dropped by an older sister. The child was carried by her father to St. Joseph's Hospital, but she died within two hours.

The Best Short Stories of 1915

has selected twenty as examples of the highest achievement in the art of which American writers maintain the leadership.

Through the generous co-operation of authors and editors we are able to publish these twenty best stories in one volume, together with Mr. O'Brien's critical Introduction, The Roll of Honor for 1914, The Roll of Honor and the Magazine Averages for 1915, and an Index of all the short stories in the 1914 and 1915 magazines which Mr. O'Brien studied.

Based, as it is, upon the double standard of substance and form, this

E. S. HARRIS HEADS STATE DEMOCRATS

DIDN'T GET OSBORN'S VOTE

Elected Chairman by 121 to 17—Committee Lauds Wilson and His Administration.

An eleventh hour attempt on the part of a few up-State Democrats to check Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy's dominance of the party, was quickly smothered yesterday when the newly elected Democratic State Committeemen met at the Hotel Knickerbocker to organize. Without the least difficulty the Tammany organization, backed by the principal up-State leaders, elected Edwin S. Harris of Schuylerville, Saratoga County, Chairman of the State Committee in place of William Church Osborn, who stepped down.

When the count was made there were just seventeen State Committeemen who dared to go contrary to the Murphy wishes. It had been arranged long ago to have Mr. Harris succeed Mr. Osborn, and so thoroughly had the wheels of the machine been greased that the Tammany men did not look for any opposition at all. Two weeks ago, however, Joseph J. Murphy of Troy, son of the late United States Senator, Edward Murphy, who had been State Chairman in his time, conceived an ambition to follow in his father's footsteps. With the help of William H. Manning of Saratoga, an old opponent of Harris, it was planned to spring an opposition candidate at the last moment.

A few up-State anti-machine Democrats flocked to the Murphy-Manning standard and they were joined by County Clerk William F. Schneider of New York, who is not a committeeman, but who held a proxy. When it was seen that Joseph Murphy did not have a chance August W. Merill of Utica, former Deputy Attorney General and now Corporation Counsel of Utica, consented to lead the forlorn hope. Stephen Ryan, the perennial Tammany fighter of Chenango, who was not re-elected to the State Committee, had his successor, David F. Lee, nominate Mr. Merrill. Retiring Chairman Osborn and sixteen others voted for Mr. Merrill, but when 121 members registered their votes for Mr. Harris the recalcitrants tumbled over themselves in their hurry to make the election of Mr. Harris unanimous.

State Machine Is for Wilson.

The election of Mr. Harris brought out the fact that all trouble between the Tammany organization and the Washington Administration had been ironed out. Collector Dudley Field Malone, who is supposed to have the President's ear, issued a statement extolling Harris for his fight against the Whitman Administration. As a further evidence that harmony exists all along the line, the State Committee adopted a resolution, proposed by Henry W. Killeen of Erie, upholding the Wilson policies. It read:

Resolved, That wholly apart from, and above, all partisan considerations at this period in a great world crisis, we record by these resolutions the continued confidence of the Democracy of New York in the courage, the wisdom, and the patriotism of the Administration of President Woodrow Wilson.

To the jingo extremist he may seem too zealous for peace; to the pacifist he may appear too earnest in preparation for war, but we congratulate the American people that at this juncture in our national affairs we have in the White House at Washington a Chief Executive who exemplifies the noblest virtues of American statesmanship, able, thoughtful, considerate and courageous, avoiding war because of the death and disaster that follows in its wake; preparing for war wherever and whenever humanity or national honor demands. And to uphold these policies of his Administration we pledge to the President of the United States, Woodrow Wilson, our continued aggressive and unswerving support.

When the State Committee was called to order by Mr. Osborn, former Excise Commissioner W. W. Farley of Binghamton, placed Mr. Harris in nomination. He described Mr. Harris as the intimate friend of the late David B. Hill; as the man who made the Glynn administration a success; as the man who discovered the discrepancy in the Whitman budget, having a nine months' year with a twelve months' appropriation; and who was removed as Canal Appraiser by Governor Whitman for having made the further discovery that Whitman was placing an unnecessary direct tax of $18,000,000 upon the State.

Mr. Harris was escorted to the platform and made a short speech. He declared that the Republican Administration in the State had been a complete failure, and that the taxpayers were more oppressed than at any time in the history of the State.

George Van Name was then re-elected Secretary of the committee; Edward E. Perkins of Poughkeepsie Treasurer, and Charles White Sergeant at Arms. Albert E. Hoyt of Albany was appointed a clerk to help out the committee. Chairman Harris and Clerk Hoyt will work in Albany during the campaign, but the State headquarters at 1 West Thirty-fourth Street will be continued.

After the resolution indorsing the Wilson Administration had been adopted, another resolution commending the work of the Democratic minority in the Legislature and condemning the work of the Republican majority was adopted.

Malone Lauds New Chairman.

After the meeting Dudley Field Malone made this statement:

"No one is authorized to speak for President Wilson or his Administration on any matters which are local to the Democratic Party in New York State, for the President is following his fixed and continued policy of noninterference in State affairs. But the friends of the Wilson Administration in New York know Edwin S. Harris by his political achievements. Harris discovered the attempt of Governor Whitman and the Republican Party to levy the $14,000,000 direct tax on the citizens of New York. Harris has been an invaluable counselor to the leaders of the Democratic Party in the Legislature during the past two sessions, and has been of great aid to Mayor Mitchel and his administration in protecting the City of New York from the aggrandizement of the up-State Republican Party.

Chairman Harris called upon the members of the committee to contribute $100 each for the expenses of the coming campaign, as is customary on the eve of an election. It came out that 88 of those who were assessed last year have not yet paid their assessment.

ROOSEVELT'S MAIL BUSIES HIM ALL DAY

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., April 14.—Colonel Roosevelt expressed the greatest interest today in news received here concerning the developments in Mexico, but pending more definite information would not make any statement. He had no political visitors and devoted the day to an effort to catch up with his correspondence, which has become so big that he has had the services of several stenographers.

One of the letters received by the Colonel today was from Harold L. Ickes, Chairman of the Progressive Party in Illinois. Ickes gave some interesting conclusions which political observers in Illinois had drawn from the vote, especially that cast by the women, which he took as evidence that the women voters were for Roosevelt and preparedness.

"Few women voted at the primaries," he wrote, "because under the law they could not vote for the delegates. All they could vote for was a preference for President, and only Sherman's name appeared on the Republican ballot as a candidate for President. Of the 4,829 women who voted the Republican primary ticket in Cook County, 1,831 voted for you and 2,873 for Sherman. The women as well as the men had to write your name in, and they had less experience than the men, so it was relatively a greater task.

"The fact that a considerably larger proportion of the women voting in the Republican primary cast their ballots for you than of the men ought to dispose effectively of the statement often made that the women are not for preparedness and are opposed to you because of your stand on that and kindred matters.

"I am more than pleased with the results. I am sure that if a fight had been made in your behalf all over the State in the Republican primaries you would have carried it practically solid.

"As between yourself and Justice Hughes, the results convince me that the sentiment of the Republican voters is overwhelmingly for you.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Illinois is for you as against Sherman. The Sherman slate has been broken in your behalf, and thousands of the Republicans went to the trouble of expressing their preference for you by writing in their names."

Colonel Roosevelt will remain in Oyster Bay until next Wednesday, when he will go to New York and spend several hours at his offices there.

GOV. WHITMAN WON'T BOLT.

Thinks Hughes Will Be Nominated, but Does Not Discuss Roosevelt.

Governor Whitman was in the city yesterday, and, while declining to be quoted directly in answer to the question whether he would support Colonel Roosevelt if nominated for the Presidency, he intimated that since he was a good Republican he would support any candidate the party selected. The Governor, however, felt sure that Justice Charles E. Hughes would be the choice of the Chicago Convention. The Governor said:

"The one candidate who I honestly believe can defeat President Wilson is Justice Hughes. In saying that, I am not merely expressing my own opinion, but the prevailing sentiment throughout this State and country. In order to be successful, the Presidential candidate must carry New York and Pennsylvania, and certainly Wilson cannot carry New York."

"Have you any intimation from Justice Hughes as to the likelihood of his acceptance of a nomination?" the Governor was asked.

"I cannot answer that question," was the reply. "It would not be right."

Among the Governor's callers was Frank Hitchcock, former Postmaster General and former Republican National Chairman. When asked about his talk with Mr. Hitchcock the Governor said:

"Mr. Hitchcock, you know, is keenly interested in the candidacy of Justice Hughes. I do not think he is managing the campaign for Justice Hughes, because I do not think any one is doing that. It is managing itself."

In regard to the vacancy on the Supreme Court bench in Brooklyn, Governor Whitman said:

"I would appoint District Attorney Cropsey to the vacancy in a minute if it were not for the question of a successor to his present office."

The Governor said that in addition to Mr. Cropsey, the names of Almet R. Latson and Lewis L. Fawcett were being considered for the place. He said he had received no charges against the State Boxing Commission or any of its members. Among others the Governor conferred with yesterday were Victor F. Ridder, F. J. H. Kracke, Bridge Commissioner; Alexander M. White, and Walter R. Deuel. The Governor returned to Albany last night. He will be in this city on April 24 to review the Thirteenth Regiment in Brooklyn.

OPPOSED TO ROOSEVELT.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, April 14.—When the Yates County Republican Committee met at Penn Yan this morning, the members placed themselves on record as being opposed to the candidacy of Colonel Roosevelt in so far as the Republican Presidential nomination is concerned.

"We don't want a candidate for President who hasn't been in the ranks fighting with us," declared Matthew McEvoy, a Republican leader, "nor do we want a wild and woolly West man to run for us. Root is my choice."

McEvoy's remarks were greeted with cheers and laughter. While the majority of the committeemen were not favorable to Root, they voted unanimously for a resolution demanding the nomination at Chicago of an enrolled Republican who will stand upon a platform which represents the principles of the Republican Party.

The Republican Committee of Ontario County met at Canandaigua yesterday and passed a resolution urging the highest type of loyal Republican for President and refusing to admit the presence of Roosevelt sentiment in the county.

To Codify Laws of Jersey Cities.

TRENTON, N. J., April 14.—Governor Fielder today named Francis A. Stanger, Jr., of Bridgeton, Edward F. Merry of Paterson, and Leon Abbott of Jersey City as the Commission of Lawyers authorized by the last Legislature to revise and codify the laws relating to municipalities. Stanger is a Republican and the other two are Democrats. Each member will receive $2,500 for his services, and the commission will name a Secretary.

FREEDMAN PICTURES SOLD FOR $115,850

Marie Dieterle's "Cattle in Pasture" Fetches $8,900, a Record Auction Price for This Artist.

There was a large gathering, spirited bidding on many of the pictures and good prices at the sale of the collection of paintings of the late Andrew Freedman, under the auspices of the American Art Association, Thomas E. Kirby, in the auctioneer's chair, at the Plaza last evening.

It was a one night sale and the fifty-two pictures brought $115,850. The highest price was given for a Corot, "Nymphs Bathing," No. 47 in the catalogue, by John McCormack, the Irish tenor, $20,000. A record price was given for a charming, sunlit picture by Marie Diéterle, "Cattle in Pasture," No. 48, which went to Seaman, Agent, for $8,900. This was the highest price ever paid at public auction for a painting by this artist.

There was a $5,000 first bid for Troyon's "Normandy Pastures," No. 49, which went to Stephen Birch for $8,700 and the same first bid, $5,000, for the Schreyer of the collection, "Arabs en Route," which went to Bernet, Agent, for $10,600. Mrs. Isabella Freedman bought Blakelock's "The Edge of the Forest," No. 29, for $2,500, and Jose Weiss's "The Old Bridge," No. 82, for $400.

There was applause when the first Blakelock was sold, going to H. Reinhardt for $1,300. It was a small picture, a panel, No. 11, "Moonlight," and said to have been a study for the big "Moonlight," which recently brought the record price of $20,000.

LORIMER DENIES STORY.

Says He Was Not Advised to Liquidate His Bank.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Ex-United States Senator Lorimer was on the witness stand again today in his own defense in the case in which he is charged with conspiracy in connection with the closing of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings Bank. He had not finished when court adjourned for the day and it was expected his testimony would not be ended before tomorrow night.

The defendant contradicted the testimony of James B. Forgan, Chairman of the First National Bank, and also that of Owen T. Reeves, President of the Drovers National Bank. He denied that Forgan, who earlier in the trial testified that he had advised Lorimer to liquidate the bank, had said anything of that nature to him.

Referring to Forgan's testimony, that Lorimer had told him he had never failed in anything he had undertaken and was not going to fail in the banking business, the witness said he "would not be guilty of such bravado."

NO PRIMARY STRAW VOTE.

Republican Ballots Won't Show Presidential Preferences.

TRENTON, N. J., April 14.—Thousands of Republican voters at the primaries on April 25 will be deprived of an opportunity to register their individual choice for President by an opinion of Attorney General John W. Westcott, that has been sent to county and municipal clerks in the State. No petitions were filed at Trenton asking that names be placed on the ballots under the "Choice for President" column and Mr. Westcott rules that no blank spaces shall be left to permit the voter to write in a name.

It is the opinion of Mr. Westcott that the election law provides that blank spaces shall be left in the list of candidates for every office so that the voter may write in any name he chooses. No individual, however, can be a candidate for President on the ballot, he holds, and so no blank space in the "Choice for President" column should be provided for on the ballots.

REPORTS NEW CELL MARVEL

Dr. Just Says He Has Found Self-Renewing Electricity Producer.

VIENNA, April 13.—The Tageblatt says that the Budapest chemist, Dr. Just, who invented the Wolfram lamp, has discovered an electric cell, with iron and carbon electrodes, whose electrolyte is composed of an organic substance which renews its vigor from the oxygen of the air in a short time.

Electrodes, having a surface of 200 square centimeters, give a current of 5 to 6 amperes with 25-volt tension. One hundred watts was taken from one cell for four hours and the cell then had half an hour's rest, and it was found that its power was completely restored.

Walter I. Slichter, professor of electrical engineering at Columbia, said last night that if the reported discovery of an electric cell was really made the feat was remarkable, since the problem had been deemed wellnigh impossible of solution. He thought, however, that the report was inaccurate or the alleged discovery a fraud.

"This is a well-known problem," he said, "and many methods have been applied to solve it, but without success. It seems hardly credible that it could be solved in as simple a manner as the dispatch would indicate. Carbon contains energy which is not easily released by combining it with oxygen, as in all our furnaces. Unfortunately it is a passive substance at low temperature, and particularly in electrolytic cells. Iron also would give energy if combined with oxygen, but this is only a little less difficult than in the case of carbon.

"If the organic substance referred to contains an acid which will consume iron we have the simple action of all primary batteries. If these were placed in series it would be possible to obtain twenty-five volts, but this would not be any cheaper method of getting energy than we have at present."

DISCUSS TRANSFER TAX LAW

Attorneys and Appraisers Hear Praise of Pending Measures.

William Boardman, Deputy State Controller, called the first general conference of transfer tax attorneys and appraisers to order in Room 471 of the Woolworth Building yesterday morning, and introduced Controller Travis, who welcomed the conferees.

Lafayette B. Gleason, attorney for the Controller, discussed the new laws pending in the Assembly, and said the proposed method of estimating the value of the remainders on life estates would increase the valuation of such remainders by 5 per cent.

George W. McElroy of Albany, general counsel to the State Controller, made an appeal for uniformity in the administration of the transfer tax law.

"Nearly every county in the State has some different rules," he said, "and there are counties in which estates are never referred to appraisers, but are heard before the Surrogates."

Edward R. Rayher, managing clerk of the New York branch, showed that thirty-eight estates aggregating more than $50,000,000, none of them less than $200,000, had been appraised in New York County in the first two months of 1916.

Surrogate George M. S. Schulz of Bronx County said that there should be some way devised by which the value of closely held stocks could be determined. T. Ludlow Chrystie spoke on the valuation of securities, and Edmund C. Alger spoke on the appraisal of gifts in contemplation of death.

President Wilson Sends Telegram of Encouragement.

At yesterday's luncheon Commander Evangeline Booth announced that the day's collection amounted to $12,267.84, which brings the grand total in the Salvation Army campaign to raise $500,000 up to $307,130.14. The Y. M. C. A. collected $4,885, and $2,110 came from Team 12, commanded by J. B. Coombs.

Colonel M. Bovill announced that of the $730 she had collected, $25 had been given in small sums by little girls in the slums of New York. One crippled girl gave $1, the savings of two years.

Commander Booth received the following telegram from President Wilson:

> The White House,
> Washington, D. C., April 14, 1916.
> Miss Evangeline Booth, Salvation Army Headquarters, New York City:
> My warmest good wishes go out to you in your effort for new strength in a new endowment. WOODROW WILSON.

NIJINSKI DANCES AGAIN.

Warslav Nijinski made his second appearance with the Diaghileff Ballet Russe at the Metropolitan Opera House last night, and this fact was probably responsible for the appearance of an audience which seemed the largest that has yet witnessed the organization's performances at the Opera House. Mr. Nijinski danced in "Les Sylphides" and "Carnaval," and the other ballet was "Petrouchka." The casts were the usual ones, except that Adolf Bolm, still indisposed, was replaced in his rôles by Nicolas Kremnieff.

Again it was made quite apparent that the presence of the famous male dancer has a bracing effect on his colleagues, for there was a brilliance and vitality about the presentations in which he took part that has sometimes been lacking before. In his own work, especially in "Les Sylphides," the dancer drew murmurs of admiration for his leaps and bounds and for the grace of his dancing. What was less obvious, but not less to be admired, was the keen rhythmic sense with which he adjusted his effects to the music, inspiring recollections of Pavlowa, who is marvelously subtle in this regard.

All things considered, last night's performance was one of the best the organization has yet given here.

STUDENTS IN 'AS YOU LIKE IT'

Ethical Culture School Contributes to Shakespeare Tercentenary.

"As You Like It," in an Elizabethan setting, was presented yesterday morning by the students of the Ethical Culture School, 2 West Sixty-fourth Street, in honor of the Shakespeare tercentenary. Unusual interest was lent to the production by reason of the fact that the stage settings, properties and many of the costumes were designed and made by the pupils in the various classes.

Following the play a breakfast was served to the students and alumni of the school. The menu consisted entirely of dishes in vogue during the days of the bard, as mentioned in his various plays. The menu was prepared by the class in cookery.

CIRCUS NEEDS.

"Sandy," the small fox terrier that plays the alto bell in "Home, Sweet Home," as rendered at the circus by "Mary and her intelligent dogs," is missing, and the Barnum & Bailey management stands ready to pay a reward of $100 for his return. Without Sandy the tune, as played on the bells by the fourteen little fox terriers that figure in the act, misses several of its important notes and until those notes, in the form of the missing Sandy, are returned, the act will have to go on minus the alto bells.

"We don't know whether Sandy is lost, strayed, or stolen," said Jay Rial yesterday, "but he's gone, and until he returns those alto bells must remain unrung. Unfortunately, Sandy had no understudy, and it takes weeks to train a musical dog, so you see how vital it is for us to find Sandy and find him quickly."

Another little matter needing quick adjustment at the circus is the threatened strike of Bill Brown, one of the tentmen. In the parade of the freaks which follows the great Persian spectacle at the opening, Bill has to carry Alstair Macwilkie's twelve feet of whiskers. Bill walks ten feet ahead of the bewhiskered Scot holding the forward end of Alstair's wonderful chest protection. And Bill doesn't like the job a bit.

"I enlisted with this circus to help put up the tent, not to carry another fellow's whiskers around the ring, and it's up to the management to live up to its part of the contract," was Bill's ultimatum yesterday. "Unless old brother Macwilkie finds some other way to exhibit those four yards of whiskers I am going back to Winter quarters in Bridgeport. That's final, and it won't be submitted to arbitration either."

Up to last night's performance a substitute whiskers carrier had not been found.

"But we have hopes," said the manager of the freak department.

RUTH DRAPER DELIGHTS.

She Makes Her First Public Appearance in Monologues.

An hour and a half of genuinely delightful entertainment was provided in the eight monologues of her own writing which Ruth Draper gave yesterday afternoon at the Princess—her first public recital after many successful ventures on more private occasions. This young rival to Beatrice Herford achieves a wider and more ambitious range of characterization than the great Miss Herford attempts, although her humor is more superficial and her art as yet less perfect.

Miss Draper, who is a granddaughter of the late Charles A. Dana, has rich dramatic gifts. She moves easily from the old gossip, rocking rheumatically on the porch in a Maine coast town, to the gushing debutante, writhing in a heart-to-heart talk with a man at a dance at Sherry's. Pathetic and eloquent is her performance as the little Scotch girl waiting at Ellis Island for her laddie to meet her, and you would think that her playing it would bring all the theatrical managers in New York a-knocking at her door. At the Princess yesterday a good audience gave every evidence of being vastly pleased. The recital was under the auspices of the Music League of America.

QUITTING FRENCH THEATRE.

M. Faure and Mlle. Guerande Have Differences with M. Bonheur.

Raymond Faure and Guinette Guerande, who have been members of the French theatre for the past two seasons, announced last night that following this evening's performance of "L'Amour Veille," they would sever their relations with the company and M. Bonheur's management. Their departure is made on the eve of the production of "Le monde ou l'on s'ennuie."

M. Faure has played leading rôles in most of the productions made this season, but Mlle. Guerande, who is Mrs. Faure in private life, has not had such prominent parts in recent productions as she did when the company was at the Century Lyceum. She said last night that the differences between themselves and M. Bonheur had been accumulating all season, and that they were too dissatisfied to continue with him.

When notified that M. and Mme. Faure had made this announcement, M. Bonheur admitted that, though he had not received their resignations, it was undoubtedly true that they would no longer appear under his management. He said also that he "did not care," and refused to comment further on their action.

Messiah Home Children in Plays.

A reception will be given this afternoon at the Messiah Home, University Avenue, north of Washington Bridge, when the building will be open for inspection. The children of the home will give two plays under the direction of Louise Karr: one, Maude Morrison Frank's arrangement of "The Fairies' Plea"; the other, "Fire Sprites," by Miss Karr. The home receives and cares for at a nominal cost children of parents who cannot afford the entire cost of their support.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson will give his last performance on the stage of Greater New York tonight in the Majestic Theatre, Brooklyn, when he will present "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." His last performance of "Hamlet" here will take place this afternoon.

Grace George's performance of "Captain Brasshound's Conversion" this afternoon will celebrate the fifth anniversary of the opening of The Playhouse. The theatre was built for Miss George, and she gave the first performance in it in a comedy called "Sauce for the Goose."

Constance Collier will play Lady Macbeth to Sir Herbert Tree's Macbeth in the scene from the play the English actor will present at his special Shakespearean matinee Easter Monday. Phyllis Neilson-Terry will appear as Viola and Edith Wynne Matthison as Olivia in "Twelfth Night," with Tree as Malvolio, while Sir Herbert will play the title role in "Richard II.," with Lyn Harding in one of the principal parts.

Marguerite Rafferty, a dancer who has been dancing at social functions in Washington the last Winter, will make her debut on the metropolitan stage shortly.

PICTURES BRITISH NAVY.

Sir Herbert Ames, M. P., Shows Slides with His Lecture.

An illustrated lecture on the British Navy was delivered in Carnegie Hall last night under the auspices of the Canadian and Prince of Wales Relief Funds by Sir Herbert Ames, M. P. Sir Herbert displayed slides of battleships and drew comparisions between the ships of the day of the Lord Nelson and efficacy of the gigantic dreadnoughts now in the North Sea.

Dr. J. J. McPhee, Chairman of the Executive Committee, who introduced the lecturer, said that Canada's preparedness plans, first agitated three years ago, were very much the same as those about to be effected by the United States.

Young women who distributed programs wore attractive costumes. One of them representing "Peace with Honor," was Miss Annie Staples. "England" was represented by Miss Kathleen S. Gifford and Miss Clare Reid. "Ireland" was represented by Mrs. Ellis and Miss Alita Lavinder.

New Stage Gives a Yiddish Play.

The first of a series of performances by the New Stage, an organization which proposes to present Yiddish plays of the highest type, was given last night in the Garden Theatre. David Pinski's drama, "Gabri and the Women," was acted in Yiddish by a cast that included Henry Schacht, Henriette Schnitzer, Jechiel Goldsmith, Louis Weissberg, and Clara Langsner. The play will be repeated tonight and matinées and nights during Passover Week.

THE MEXICAN DANGER.

Whatever misfortune may befall the punitive expedition in Mexico, it is the plain duty of every American citizen to view it calmly. There is no present proof that any troops of the de facto Government have turned upon our soldiers. There are encouraging indications that all Mexicans who willingly support Carranza are still inclined to permit the men of General Pershing's command to perform their task. The amicable meeting of Luis Herrera with Pershing, so graphically described by our special correspondent at the front in yesterday's Times, must be accepted as proof of this, and indicates also the absolute falsity of many of the alarming rumors which come northward through the lie factories of El Paso. For only a week ago we were informed, and then more than half believed, that Herrera had gone over to Villa and was preparing to fight Pershing. Nevertheless, the advance guard of our troops is in a perilous position and the expedition will be threatened with danger until it has accomplished its purpose and returned to American soil.

It would be folly to place too much faith in any Mexican protestations of friendly feeling while the southern republic remains in an unsettled state. The expedition was undertaken with that fact clearly in the minds of the military authorities. It was a mistake, at the very beginning, not to order a large part of the National Guard to the border, so that General Funston might have all the well-trained troops available for use in Mexico. He and all the other experienced military commanders know the uncertainty of Mexican character, and the feeble hold that Carranza has upon many of the soldiers who are now ostensibly his adherents. They know, too, the extraordinary mobility of the Mexican troops, who can run like rabbits, climb mountains with the agility of goats and in their marches are never burdened by a commissariat.

The decision of the President not to recall the expedition, but to enter into further negotiations with Carranza, is logical and will be generally commended. Whatever has happened at Parral is an exceptional incident of the campaign thus far. It is expressly stated that the armed men who attacked a supply train further north were Villistas. The mob in Parral may have been made up of Villistas, too. Perhaps Major Tompkins has discovered Villa's lair. It is just as well, considering the smallness of our expedition, that it should not proceed south of the southern border of Chihuahua. To form a guard there, to prevent the outlaw's escape northward if he should be attacked by troops of the de facto Government, may be advisable. We do not hope, however, for any active assistance from the Carranzistas. They may look on and hold their peace. That they will actually help Americans to capture Mexicans is not likely. Meanwhile, General Pershing may yet be able to report the extinction of Villa. Even if he accomplishes that desired end he must thereafter make his way out of a country which contains hostile elements. While keeping the expedition in Mexico the Government at Washington would be inexcusable if it failed to give it all the support it requires. General Funston may yet need to send 5,000 more men across the border; he should have men enough at hand to guard the border in any emergency.

THE PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE

The Pan-American Conference has adjourned with results promising much benefit to all the nations represented. It would have been no mean accomplishment if it had adjourned merely without disagreement, but it is to be credited with affirmative accomplishment. With an unspecified exception, it adopted the uniform bill of exchange approved at The Hague for leading nations in 1912, thus bringing nearer world uniformity the document which operates as the nearest practicable substitute for international currency. It is a remarkable thing that the representatives of several nations were able to agree upon a subject at least as difficult as the adoption of a uniform domestic bill of lading, a task upon which this session of the United States Congress is no nearer agreed than its several predecessors.

The conference adopted as a Pan-American unit of account a weight of gold described as "exactly one-fifth "of the value of the United States "gold dollar." That is practically descriptive of the franc. That unit will suffice as well between American nations as between America and Europe. The main thing is the adoption of the gold standard, providing for the exchange of Pan-American coins in the same manner as that exchange is provided for by the Latin-American Union of Europe.

For the purpose of a universal exchange between the two unions of nations the franc is perhaps superior to the dollar, although any gold coinage would reach the same result. It is only an accident that at the moment the dollar is at a premium throughout the world and that the franc on the day that the conference acted was at the lowest known discount. That is due to temporary causes, and the action of the conference is for the long future. That prejudice against the dollar played a minimum part, if any, appears from the fact that Secretary McAdoo was elected President before adjournment.

THE COLONEL BLASPHEMES.

From time to time it has recently been announced that the fight against Mr. Wilson is to be waged only, or almost only, on the tariff. Such an appeal would be an appeal to the belly, and not to the soul of the American nation. By all means provide the things of the body, but only on condition that we treat the body as the servant of the soul.

So Mr. Roosevelt, impetuously charging against a suspected "boom" of Senator Harding of Ohio, who blows the horn on the battlements of the citadel of protection. Mr. Roosevelt tries, vainly, to mitigate his lamentable sin against the true Republican faith. He believes heartily in protection, but never has he shown any real fervor for it. He confessed the other year in a magazine article that questions of the tariff and currency didn't interest him much. They require a knowledge of the subject, and he is a high moral intuitionist. He wants something moral or sentimental over which his boundless reservoirs of indignation can discharge themselves. But the tariff, from the Republican viewpoint, is such a question, the question of questions, vital, permanent. And now there isn't a tear in his lachrymal ducts about the competition of the pauper labor of Europe and the people's dinner pail.

The immortal protective tariff, the palladium of the nation's welfare, an "appeal to the belly"? This is laying profane hands on the ark of protection and national salvation. The belly, quotha! Why, a protective tariff is the heart and liver, the body and the soul of Republican doctrine and national prosperity. It is more than a law. It is a moral and religious principle, essential, basic, indispensable, holy. What is incalculably more important to the Colonel, it is the sinews of war, the accelerator of statesmen, the pinions of the heroic mood.

The tariff an appeal to the belly! Where is the American Protective Tariff League, where is the Home Market Club, in this dread and blasphemous hour?

OUR GERMAN MASTERS.

The United States gives shelter to German steamships. That shelter is abused by them to carry on war against the Allies, to plot the destruction of vessels of the Allies, to make this neutral and friendly soil a base of German hostilities. Two of the four Germans arrested by the New York police Wednesday on a charge of arson in putting fire bombs on ships loaded at this port with food or munitions, and of making liquid fire bombs, are important officers of the Hamburg-American Line, the nefarious activities of some of whose managers have brought them into the courts before. A third is an employé of the North German Lloyd. On Thursday four engineers of a ship of the latter line were arrested as principals in the fire bomb conspiracy. The ship, protected from destruction by the United States, was a bomb factory. Fires on thirty-three steamships have been traced to German bombs made here or elsewhere. Factories for their humane output have been running in New York and Hoboken. From these the explosives presumably have been sent to other parts of the country, for there is hardly any part of the United States where the German lawbreakers have not attempted, and often fulfilled, their criminal task.

The many-branched, unending conspiracy has been going on since the war began. What has been done to stop it? The terror of the law does not exist for these apostles of Frightfulness. From time to time we get a glimpse of this German Empire working Germanly on American soil, contemptuous of our laws and rights, plotting and practicing murder and arson, the ruin of great industrial plants, the intimidation of employés, relentlessly, and for the most part with entire immunity, pursuing its trade of hell. Often the names of German Consular and diplomatic representatives are read in documentary evidence establishing or clearly implying inspiration of and complicity in this long series of violations of neutrality. Three have been sent home, laughing in their sleeves at the nation they have gulled and dishonored. Almost every week it is an expected detail of the news that some German or Austrian Consular officer has been indicted, but nothing follows. The crimes go on. The punishment lags.

One Buchanan, a Representative in Congress from Illinois, is indicted in New York for alleged illegal pro-German activities. How is he punished? He goes to his associates in the House. The United States Attorney who has been no respecter of German and pro-German sanctity is threatened with impeachment. Finally, the prosecutor has to withdraw from the case, lest the interests of justice should be imperiled by the prejudice created against him by the faithful German patriot of Illinois. Mr. Marshall is out of the case. Yesterday a committee reported that he is guilty of contempt of the House. Punish the prosecutor! Let the defendant, if truly German, go free! The illustrious Buchanan is not tried. Why shouldn't the Germans, foreign or native born, believe that America is too much the chattel of "the German vote" to interfere with their research and demonstration work in destruction?

It is an intolerable shame that, month after month, the German conspiracy to wreck, to burn, to destroy, to kill, goes on unchecked, unpunished. There is no act the Germans will stop at. They hold that fear of the German-Americans will prevent any serious punishment, or impediment, even, of German Frightfulness in the United States. So they plod on phlegmatically at their work of making war in and against the country which gives them hospitality.

The Collector of the Port should redouble his efforts to protect shipping at this port from these emissaries of arson. It seems strange that, in spite of a vigilance which must have increased as the necessity for it became more imperious, so many bombs have been planted in vessels lading here. But the German spies are everywhere. The one deterrent, however, the one means of curbing these enemies of the United States, is speedy and severe punishment. There is a-plenty of indictment, a great hullabaloo, and then—nothing. Send a few of these insolent criminals to a Federal penitentiary for a good, long term, and the zeal of the rest will abate.

TEMPERAMENT AT VERDUN.

That the German General Staff grossly underestimated the power of defense at Verdun has been demonstrated. That the German military mind scornfully misunderstands the very nature of defensive fighting is now a tenable thesis. "In regard to trench warfare," wrote General von Beseler, the famous German military authority, "there is one principle "that must never be relaxed. The "transition to the offensive must be "constantly regarded as the sole ob-"jective of the future." That might stand as tactics. But the psychology is added. "The fatal inclination to "pile tier upon tier of defensive lines "one after the other," he continues, "can lead to nothing but a luke-"warm defense. The soldier who, "from his first line position, casts "furtive glances toward the rear and "thinks of nothing but of how he "will succeed in reaching the second "line unharmed—that soldier is al-"ready half-defeated."

The implication is that if the soldier has defensive lines behind him he will cast furtive glances backward. "The defender," the writer says, "must never look behind him; "he must stand or fall by his posi-"tion."

The French at Verdun have contradicted this theory at every point. They had tiers and tiers of defensive lines. They did not cast furtive looks behind them. They did not stand or fall by their first positions. Instead, they yielded ground to receive the impact, and at the same time maintained a defense which as a moral and tactical achievement is without parallel in warfare. The German temperament may require the intoxication of an offensive attitude. The French temperament does not.

Both the German General Staff and the German public were led astray by the initial gains, from the first terrific shock. At the capture of Fort Douaumont the military critic of the Berlin Gazette said: "The "hardest step in conquering a fort-"ress is the first break through the "outer circle of forts. In all the "French and Russian fortresses at-"tacked by us the storming of the "first outer forts has been the hard-"est part of the whole attack." That was forty-five days ago, and the Germans have yet to take their second outer fort.

The German theory of victory since then has been undergoing a gradual change. At first the fall of Verdun was the single objective, and the first break in the girdle of forts, at Douaumont, was celebrated by breaking out flags in Berlin. Today the idea of victory is in the terrain that is won, amounting to a little more than 100 square miles. "The Germans," writes a correspondent from Great Headquarters, "have forced "back the French line along a front "of forty-three miles, and at some "points to a distance of five miles." But that is very little to show for fifty-five days of terrific battle. The Germans understand only rigid resistance. The French defense was flexible. General von Beseler was very wrong about the psychology of the soldier when he happens to be French. Perhaps he knew more about the psychology of the German soldier. Can a German yield without breaking? Has he the spirit of defense, or is he effective only as the aggressor? He has yet to be tried in that way.

CITY VERSUS STATE.

The State budget, as planned and as it will be passed, makes a mockery of the Mayor's program of legislation for lightening the tax burdens of the city. What that means cannot be stated better than in the Mayor's words:

> This means that New York City will not secure a share of the stock transfer tax.
> It means that the city will not secure a share of the motor vehicle tax.
> It means that the city will not secure a share of the new excise tax this year.
> It means that the city will not be relieved from paying for the regulatory expenses of the Public Service Commission.
> It means that the city will not be relieved from paying for its own normal schools, while it pays two-thirds of all of the expenses of all the normal schools elsewhere in the State.
> It means that the city must continue to pay for the maintenance of town highways in up-State villages, while it is denied any share of the State highway system for itself.
> It means that instead of securing a substantial reduction in the tax rate of next year, over and above that due to the avoidance of a direct tax, the people of New York City will be compelled to bear for another year an undue share of the burden of the rest of the State in addition to their own burdens.

The State budget includes provisions for expenditures which are as unnecessary this year as last, when there was a deficit. There is a surplus this year, and there is almost the same total in the State budget. A taxpayers' petition from forty counties has been presented to the Senate praying for a reduction in the State budget for State reasons. That is supplemented by the prayer for relief from this city, which is both more weighty and urgent than that from the forty counties. Yet there is no sign that the State budget will be moderated for reasons of either State or city necessities. Nor will the Legislature even attempt to do justice between city and State.

The sole way to avoid results burdensome to the State and disastrous to the city, as the Mayor says, is to bring an overwhelming weight of public sentiment to bear upon the Legislature to > reduce the amount of the General Appropriation bill and the proposed special bills to a total that can be carried by the existing or new revenues and yet grant the city its equitable financial relief. This could be done if the Legislature would repeal the iniquitous State aid law, avoid appropriations for local benefit, and exercise economy at all points.

Unless this shall be done the Senate's passage of the Brown bills will stand to the credit of Senators Brown and Wagner and the Senators who supported them, but must remain a futile farce so far as the effect upon the affairs of either State or city is concerned.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Princeton's Critics Are Refuted.

By making military instruction a part of its regular curriculum, counting with other studies toward a degree, Princeton has sufficiently answered the disquieting rumors in circulation of late among the uninformed that it, as a university, was antagonistic to adequate national preparation for meeting the possibility of war. In harmonious action, too, with several other colleges, the course of instruction in this highly important subject has now been standardized, a fact which will be of material assistance to the remaining educational institutions that can confidently be expected to join the movement.

Unlike Harvard, Princeton has not as yet decided, and apparently will not for the present decide, to add military drill to theoretic teaching by means of books and lectures, but this will not prevent, and has not prevented, the Princeton students from availing themselves in large numbers of the opportunities offered at the Plattsburg and other camps further to prepare themselves for serving their country in time of need, and perhaps the difference between Princeton's method and the one adopted at Cambridge is not essential. Either will make the young collegians, not soldiers ready for the firing line, indeed, but far enough along in preparation for it to qualify them for a rapid passing from a third to a second and then to a first line of defense. At any rate, men thus trained would not go, in case of a great national emergency, "like cattle led to the shambles," to use the old but expressive phrase to which President Hibben resorted in a recent address.

And it is perhaps advantageous that the actual practice in military drill and manoeuvres should be given to the college boys elsewhere than on their own grounds and otherwise than as to a special and separate class. At Plattsburg and similar camps they will gain a desirable sense of solidarity with the rest of their countrymen—a sense which the youth in or just out of a university is rather too prone to lack. As the new course at Princeton will be "elective," not "required," the number of students taking it will be informative and significant for those who have been made more than slightly apprehensive over what has seemed to be the appearance in our colleges of that peace-at-any-price spirit which there is even more obnoxious and alarming than anywhere else.

Confession After Torture.

Two of the young thugs implicated in the Baff murder have now been convicted and in due time will meet the grim fate as thoroughly well deserved by them as it ever could be by anybody. Of their guilt there remains no doubt whatever in any reasonable mind, but in not a few such minds there does linger a feeling that there may have been some truth in the stories of these men as to how their original confessions were extorted by the police and a certain dissatisfaction with convictions based on confessions thus obtained.

For disquietude of that kind, however, there is little more than a colorable excuse. That police inquisitions have been in the past marked and disgraced by applications of torture more or less severe is true. Of course the method was abominable, and under it the innocent probably confessed as often as the guilty. But times have changed, here as elsewhere, and the present Commissioner of Police is a very different man from some of his predecessors. Under him the probability that policemen and detectives to any serious extent work the "third degree" on the prisoners they arrest is of the slightest.

It has been suggested that no confession obtained in private by the police should be accepted in court. There is theoretical support for that contention, and its adoption would probably do no great harm. It would, however, tend to increase the already too great difficulty of convicting criminals—would be of more profit to the guilty than to the innocent. Even as it is the perils of the innocent are vastly exaggerated. Real enough once, those perils have mostly disappeared, and too many of the safeguards once sorely needed by the innocent have come to be effectual only in saving the guilty from punishment.

The sworn testimony of the Baff murderers, it must be remembered, is of no weight whatever, and it is far more likely that they were rehearsing the traditions of their class than that they were recounting personal experiences.

A Strange Way of Thinking.

Two further illustrations of possibilities that seem at present wholly confined to Teutonic minds were given in yesterday's news. One of them came from abroad in the shape of a dispatch quoting a Berlin newspaper as expressing the opinion that "the correct and humane example of our submarine commanders should everywhere be followed." That was astonishing enough, but even more astonishing was it to learn from the accounts of the arraignment of the men arrested here on the charge of putting bombs in ships loading in New York Harbor that one of the prisoners regarded the whole proceeding as "outrageous." The reader of this second narrative had to look twice to convince himself that what Herr Wolpert regarded as "outrageous" was not the placing of the explosives, but the fact that our police had dared to interfere with the activities of a German officer and to arraign him on a criminal charge.

Seemingly he expected our authorities to take his own view of service—any service—rendered to his Fatherland, and he was almost as much surprised as offended that a man should be haled to court for doing what he sincerely believed to be his duty. That in the performance of that duty he broke our laws he may have known, but evidently he considered that of no consequence.

DR. FLEXNER'S NEW SCHOOL.

Would He Train the Eye and Hand and Not the Mind?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As viewed from the altitude of the Litchfield Hills in Connecticut, Dr. Flexner's "modern school" seems about as ridiculous as Mr. Churchill's "mediaeval pedants." Imagine, for instance, a school teacher in one of New York's east side schools taking her class out to study "nature." Whither shall she go? To the Bowery or to Baxter Street? The trees that grow there, the flowers that bloom there, the birds that build their nests there, the insects that fly about the electric lights there, will all give wonderful opportunities for studying "nature." Or shall the several hundred thousand school children make daily excursions to Central Park, where they may pick the flowers, tear the shrubbery to pieces, climb the trees, and overrun the lawns? Perchance Dr. Flexner would have the children report each morning at Bronx Park, where they might study "nature" to their hearts' content.

When the children have learned all they can in the Bowery, or Baxter Street, in Central Park, or Bronx Park, will they then have acquired mental power beyond the ordinary increment of the adolescent period? Will they make more intelligent citizens, business men, doctors, lawyers, or even manual laborers? If the majority of New York's fathers and mothers think so, then by all means let the children get back to "nature."

I feel presumptuous in opposing so eminent an authority as Dr. Flexner. It seems to me, however, that he overlooks that very essential part of man called the mind. If we are going to train the eye, the ear, the hands only, then let a child go to the flowers, the birds, or the workbench, but if we are going to train the mind we must turn to language and literature, to philosophy, mathematics, and science.

Since the time of Pope, at least, "the proper study of mankind is man." Some there be who still believe this true. And where can one best study "man" if not in the literature of all ages? If you say there is no "man" in mathematics, let me ask you if the athlete trains for a supreme event by playing tiddledewinks?

So great a man as Mr. Thomas A. Edison a few years ago maintained that moving pictures would become the great means of education. As well say that a football coach will round his team into championship form by showing them moving pictures of previous games. But Mr. Edison is no trained educator, and so we may readily pardon his enthusiasm for his "talking machine" with its moving picture accompaniment. But what more can we say of Dr. Flexner than that he wants to pose as an iconoclast, or as one who has a chimerical idea that he wants to thrust upon an unsuspecting public?

If you want to know what, from this distant point of view, seems to be the matter with the New York public schools, let me enumerate: (1) Too much politics; (2) Too large and too meddlesome Educational Board; (3) Too many pupils to a teacher; (4) Too many "fads and frills"; (5) Too many non-professional teachers.

All of which is the personal view of one who has been trying to train boys' minds for nearly twenty-seven years.

MEDIAEVAL PEDANT.

A VISION OF THE FLIERS.

In some far land, where spirits dwell,
  I saw a shadowy host arise;
Each shone with youth's immortal spell,
  And held youth's ardor in his eyes.

In gladness, yet in deep amaze,
  On those dim coasts I saw them stand;
Scarce had they learned the larger ways,
  Death struck them with so swift a hand!

These, who had opened dreadful doors,
  Closed hitherto to man's desire,
And trodden those ethereal floors
  Where run the feet of wind and fire—

These, who had long forgotten fear,
  And borne the quick heart of the
Now, from all earthly fetters clear,
  Looked in each other's eyes, and smiled.

MARION COUTHOUY SMITH.

MR. SHAW'S IRELAND.

Would England Protect the Island, Even if It Were Free?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Those who know something about Ireland will admit that Mr. Shaw's recent article entitled "Irish Nonsense About Ireland" was appropriate without the quotation marks, though it might as well have been "English Nonsense About Ireland," because it represents, in a large measure, if not the English view, the opinions of the English settler in Ireland, to which class Mr. Shaw by heredity belongs.

He quarrels with those who take exception to English misrule, but the fact is that many Irish object to English rule in any shape, just as this country has done in the past, and no one will deny that it was wise in the decision. Mr. Shaw thinks that no small nation can stand alone with safety and that Ireland would be gobbled up if left to herself; but he forgets that other small countries are quite willing to take the risk. Belgium, of course, is a horrible example, but then it is jammed in between several warring nations, a position which fortunately Ireland can never occupy.

What would Ireland do without England's army and navy? asks Mr. Shaw. In the present circumstance, if Ireland had the luck to be free, she has the utmost security in her geographical situation as well as in the fact that it must always be to England's self-interest to defend Ireland from invasion, whether Ireland is free or not. In such an eventuality it is hoped that England could give more efficient protection than in the case of Belgium. It must be obvious that Ireland would really be safer from invasion if its sons were ready to defend her at home instead of defending her in Gallipoli and in France. The fact is that the Irish suffer too much from the protection of England to acquiesce in its supposed benefits. They pay altogether too dearly for the privilege.

England has been Belgiumizing Ireland for the past sixty years, and one has only to remember the fact of its diminished population as irrefutable evidence. Ireland, with a population of 8,000,000 in 1841, has now a little over 4,000,000. England may not have been responsible for this phenomenon, but at least it occurred under English rule.

Mr. Shaw taunts the Irish with the imputation that they are "the champion mendicants of the world." The answer to this may be found in the Report of the Financial Relations Commission, which showed that Ireland was being horribly overtaxed. We have the word of Lord MacDonnell that the contribution, "tribute" he calls it, of Ireland to England, over and above the cost of administration, has been $1,500,000,000 in the last ninety years. The most horrible fact of the situation is that the cost of administration is preposterously extravagant, as evidenced by the fact that the Lord Lieutenant receives $150,000 per annum for his casual services of administration. No wonder Ireland is the "champion mendicant of the world." "Damn the mere Irish and you will be sure of a job" is the reason why the cost of administration is so excessive.

Mr. Shaw exceeded the limits of credibility when he stated that "Ireland is only a cabbage garden, and a barren one at that" to the least of the States. He has not been in America, so he may be excused for overlooking Arizona, but he can hardly be excused for not knowing something about the exports from Ireland.

Had Mr. Shaw remained in Ireland and been more familiar with its situation it is quite probable his too free pen would have long since landed him in jail, but so long as he continues in England and writes smug platitudes about the recalcitrant Irish he will be safe. He seems to believe that there is a pro-German spirit in Ireland and he is not altogether wrong, but any pro-Germanism is possible only because some Irish believe that German government might be better and could not possibly be worse than English government. They have killed pro-Germanism in Ireland by a crafty "whooping up" of the crimes against Catholics in Belgium, by which campaign they have been aided by the Catholic clergy, who were gullible enough to believe all they read.

Mr. Shaw's most grotesque statement is that the Irish and English are "natural allies." Unfortunately juxtaposition makes no country the natural ally of another, as the present European war clearly proves. Holland will be the next country involved because of its geographical situation, just as the location of Ireland would have kept it out of the war if it had been lucky enough to be a free country, unless, being "the champion mendicant of the world," it begged to be allowed in.

Record High Flying.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On Page 5 of your paper this morning, I note where you make the statement that Lloyd Thompson yesterday broke the world's altitude record, flying with a passenger, reaching a height of 13,950 feet. You are evidently unaware that the afternoon before Steve MacGordon, Curtiss Flying School instructor at the school in the vicinity of Newport News, officially reached a height with a passenger of 14,800 feet. The writer happened to have the privilege of being a spectator, and from a layman's point of view should say that this record-breaking flight was made in a most commendable and clean-cut manner, as he returned with his biplane to the exact spot from which he started, under full control, and within an hour and a half of the time he left the ground. In other words, he started, according to my unofficial time, at 2:55 P. M., and landed again at the same spot at 4:25 P. M.

Bread for Starving Albania.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A nation is dying of hunger. It is a small, weak nation, and its call for help is unheard among the stronger appeals of its powerful neighbors in their sudden recent sufferings. For three years the country of Albania has been the victim of sword and famine. Now the people are without food. Ten thousand human beings are starving daily.

The women are emaciated; their bones seem about to protrude through the skin. Will you give bread to one famished woman and save for her a child as dear to her as yours is to you?

Give 100 cents to buy flour for Albania. If you have given to other countries until you feel that you can do no more, give 10 cents. A bit of bread from each of the well fed to one of these will feed all.

The Bomb Plotters.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

How can we read so calmly and talk so coolly of these treacherous bomb plotters? Do we realize at all adequately what this means? It means that creatures calling themselves men do not scruple to conspire against the social order while living in safety under its protection. It means that these enemies of peace take advantage of neutrality to plan in secret for the destruction of private property and for the slaughter of helpless human beings. Can heartlessness and hideous disregard of every high obligation go further than this? Is there any legal penalty, prospective or possible, commensurate with such desperate depravity?

THE NATIONAL GUARD AT THE CAPITOL.

General Wingate Denies That There Is a Lobby and Attacks the Plan for a New Volunteer Force.

By GENERAL GEORGE W. WINGATE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I trust that I may be permitted to register a protest against the use of the words "lobby" and "lobbyist," which are now being so freely applied to the officers and members of the National Guard in respect to their action in communicating to Congress their opinions as to what military legislation is best fitted to insure the protection of the country. These expressions are opprobrious words, implying secret and sinister activities, and are used in connection with statements which emphasize that what the Guard has been doing is something which is sneaking and wrongful.

I have been familiar with the Guard for over fifty years. I think that I know it thoroughly, and also know the character of the men who belong to it. I cannot but believe that the great majority of those who criticise it as they do do not stop to consider the facts of the situation.

The Guard today is by Federal law made a part of the army, and constitutes the second line of national defense. It has been made this almost entirely through its own demands continuously exerted through a series of years, for the purpose of enabling it to become an efficient military organization which would be ready at all times to respond to a call from the President. Its officers and members not only give their time gratuitously, but are required to annually spend a large sum for necessary expenses. The officers in particular provide their own uniforms and other equipment. The cavalry and field artillery purchase their own horses.

There is undoubtedly a difference in efficiency between the National Guard of different States. In some of the smaller and agricultural States which have little occasion for the services of a Guard, very small appropriations are made for it, and it consequently is not in as good condition as the country requires. But in most of the larger States the average National Guard regiment is fully as good as was the case with the average volunteer regiment in the civil war. In fact, it is better in that its officers and men understand sanitation and know how to shoot, both of which were unknown in the '60s. The Guard is organized, uniformed, and equipped, and the armories in which it is housed alone represent an expenditure of many millions. It numbers 120,000, of which at least 90,000 are fairly efficient. It has made wonderful progress since the Spanish War, and is continuing to do so.

The proposition presented to Congress is practically to throw this whole organization aside, and to install a new volunteer organization which is to be composed of detached companies formed in the different States, which will be without regimental organization and officers except such as may be temporarily detailed from the regular army, (which, by the way, has not got them to spare.) These companies are to drill thirty days in each year, and then, apparently, retire for eleven months into innocuous desuetude, without home or place to drill, permanent organization, without meeting their officers, and, therefore, necessarily without cohesion or esprit de corps. In fact, the resemblance between such a force and the much decried militia of 1812 is quite marked.

Yet because the National Guard has presumed to state to its representatives in Congress that it objects to this, and to submit its ideas on a subject upon which it has more practical experience than any one else, its officers and members are called "lobbyists," working dishonorably and in secret, to accomplish their own selfish ends.

This statement is preposterous. The experience of the officers of the Guard, who, without thought of personal benefit, have labored for many years to build it up and who have in so doing learned what can and cannot be done to procure enlistments in time of peace, is not only that the proposed scheme is impracticable, but that advocated, as it is, by the regular army, it will result in building up an organization which, although failing itself, will have a most harmful effect upon the Guard.

As far as secrecy is concerned, it would be safe to say that the National Guard of this and other States have for many months been openly expressing their views in respect to this subject in their State and national conventions, and have publicly argued their cause before the committees of Congress.

As to their being actuated by selfish purposes, I do not hesitate to assert that the names and records, as citizens and business men, of those representatives of the National Guard Association who have been in Washington to express its sentiments on this subject are fully equal to those of the representatives of the different organizations who are advocating the substitution of the Continental Army for the National Guard.

What is wrong in the action of either? Congress represents the people of the United States. In all matters in which any considerable class of the people are represented leagues for and on behalf of them have always been formed to present the views of their members to their Congressional representatives. To enable them to do this, such leagues are necessarily supplied by those whom they represent with funds and usually with forces of trained employes skilled in distributing information and influencing public and Congressional opinion.

All that the National Guard has done in this matter is much less than the campaign that has been made by its opponents. It has been represented in the open by men whose character is above reproach, and has relied on their efforts to convince the good judgment and common sense of Congress that the reasons for the views it entertains are substantial and merit consideration.

In reply to the worn-out statements as to the failure of the militia in the war of 1812, it is sufficient to say that the National Guard of today is as different from the militia of that day as a full-grown man is from a child in arms. Perhaps in this connection it might be well to call attention to the fact that, although the National Guard of 1861 was greatly inferior to the Guard of the present day in everything which makes a soldier, yet it was the Guard of 1861 that saved the capital at Washington, enabled the North to hold its own until a volunteer army could be organized, furnished the great majority of the officers of that army, and in 1863 held back the Confederate invaders from crossing the Susquehanna at Harrisburg until the Army of the Potomac could get to Gettysburg, and thereby saved Philadelphia, and probably New York, and that at the present day, beyond the Coast Artillery who man our forts, it is the only uniformed and disciplined organization that the country can turn to for national defense, outside the handful of regulars who are over or along the Mexican border.

GEORGE W. WINGATE.

THE TEACHERS' STAND.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One evening last week I read in your paper some of the reasons why the teachers are not in favor of the Lockwood-Ellenbogen Pension bill. I have heard many teachers give these reasons:

First—None of us is familiar with the contents of the bill, as we have never had an opportunity to read it.

Second—When we attended meetings and wished to express our dissent to the statements made by the speaker, we were refused the opportunity to do so.

Third—It was explained to us that it was necessary to deduct almost twice as much from the salary of the woman teacher as from that of the man teacher, which we consider rank injustice and refuse to submit to.

Fourth—The gross injustice of permitting Principals and high-salaried people, who have never paid more than 1 per cent. of their salaries into the fund, to retire within the year on pensions ranging from $1,750 a year up, while the grade teachers who receive a salary of $1,500 and have already paid in 1 per cent. of their salaries for ten years must pay into the fund 8 per cent. of their salaries for twenty-five years more before they can retire on $750 a year.

In justice to the teachers, no bill should be passed by the Legislature until every teacher be given an opportunity to read the bill and decide, without being influenced, whether or not that bill is for the good of the teachers.

Public Employes' Insurance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It may be of interest for public employes to know that the bill to amend the workmen's compensation law and make its provisions applicable to them has been amended to read as follows, the words after "gain" being new matter:

> "Employment" includes employment only in a trade, business, or occupation carried on by the employer for pecuniary gain, except where the employer and his employes have, by their joint election, elected to become subject to the provisions of this chapter as provided in Section 2.

As proposed in the second section, any employer, including the State and a municipal corporation or other political subdivision thereof, not carrying on one of the hazardous employments enumerated in the section, or, who, carrying on one of such employments, has in his employ an employe not included within the term "employe" as defined by Section 3, and the employes of any such employer may, by their joint election, elect to become subject to the provisions of the chapter. The employer must post notices and file a statement of his election to be under the law, and any employe in the service of any such employer is to be deemed to have accepted the provisions of the compensation law unless he elects, by notice to his employer, not to be subject to the law.

A Letter from The Times.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I think it is a most pleasing system you have of acknowledging a communication not solicited. It is a great thing to receive one of your letters with The New York Times printed on the corner of the envelope. It impresses the colored boys of the elevator service and the other residents in your apartment house with your importance. You are in close touch with a powerful, influential newspaper, and, indeed, you may be a member of the press yourself as far as they know. I thank you and I wish you to know my sentiments on the subject.

THE ORIGIN OF 'BOCHE.'

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Professor Lancaster in his recent letter calls attention to another explanation (Suran's) of the origin of Boche, namely, that it is derived from Alboche. The weakness of this theory seems to me to consist in the fact that Boche existed as a common noun meaning "mauvais sujet" before it was applied to the Germans. I am aware that Suran put aside this word as of no influence. It is, however, improbable that, inasmuch as the word Boche already existed with its peculiar meaning, Alboche could have been derived from Allemand, with no thought of the word Boche. This is the idea expressed in my first letter to The Times (see also Sainean's recent book, "L'Argot des Tranchees.") It is quite possible that the use of Boche as a proper noun arose after the confusion of Boche and Allemand had produced Alboche; this has been neither proved nor disproved. I have no theory of my own in this matter and merely wish to have light shed on the origin of a curious word.

DOUGLAS L. BUFFUM.
Princeton, N. J., April 10, 1916.

Before 1870.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In connection with the derivations for Boche and Alboche, some early uses of the words may be interesting. In the Figaro for Dec. 7, 1914, Mme. D—— writes:

> As far as I can remember, that is to say, eight years, about, before the war of 1870, I recall that at Metz, which was always unhospitable to the Germans, they were called "Alboches" through execration for their language and "Tete de boches" on account of their stupidity.

In an article signed Remi, in the Figaro for Dec. 10, 1914, the following passage occurs:

> My colleague, M. Renaudet, writes me that in 1868, at the lycee of Tours, when he was a pupil, the English professor called impetuously "tetes d'Alboches" the dullards who were the most rebellious to his teaching.

This agrees with Mr. Lancaster's statement that Alboche is older than Boche, and antedates Zola's use of it in "La Debacle."

More recent uses of the word are numerous. MacNab, "Poemes Mobiles," (Paris, 1889,) "On nous pousse des colles sur le latin, le grec, l'alboche, les matmuches, &c." In "Le Coeur de Francois Remy," by Edmond Glesener, a Belgian novelist, is a description of a wrestling match with the following bits of conversation from the crowd. "L'Allemand a touche. Non, non! Si. On l'a vu! Non, non! La foule se fache et crie: A la porte l'Alboche!" Thus we see that even before the war the term Alboche was known in Belgium as well as in France. Perhaps I should not have revealed this, as it will only serve as an added argument for the Germans in maintaining that Belgium had lost its rights of neutrality and was secretly leagued with France.

MILTON GARVER.
New Haven, April 10, 1916.

"Bochie."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Seeing on your editorial page letters from readers about the origin of the word "boche" reminds me of an article I once read in a French paper. This article spoke of a find Dr. George Herve had made recently, in looking through old documents and "textes": In the eighth century there existed in Germany a division called "Bochie" or "Bochonie." The part of Germany this applied to was situated between the four States of the Bavarians, the Franconians, the Thuringians, and the Hessians. Its inhabitants were the "Bochons." Between this name and the word "boche" there is but a step.

MACKAYE EXPLAINS MASQUE TO CHORUS

600 CATCH THE SPIRIT

Rehearsals to Begin at Once of Great Throngs for Celebration in Stadium Next Month.

Five or six hundred of those who are going to take part in the Shakespeare Celebration at the City College Stadium went last night to the Stuyvesant High School, First Avenue and Fifteenth Street, to find out what it was all about. They had been recruited already as Egyptians, Greeks, Germans, or English, but they had not been told how their parts were to fit into the general celebration or what was the idea behind the movement.

So Percy MacKaye and the rest of those responsible for the festival explained everything to them last night in much the same way as a play is read over by the author to the cast.

"I wish we were all sitting around a table together," said Mr. MacKaye as he looked over the High School Auditorium, but before the evening was over something of the spirit of such a play-reading came out.

As Richard Ordynski explained for himself and Joseph Urban how the Stadium was to be arranged for the celebration; as Arthur Farwell, the musical director, played over some of the music he has written, and as Mrs. Grace Jenkins Anderson put on half a dozen of the old English dances which will form part of the interludes, the audience caught the civic spirit which Miss Mary Porter Beegle told them it was the hope of the committee to bring out.

Mr. MacKaye described the general plot of "Caliban by the Yellow Sands," as his masque is called. Caliban he takes where Shakespeare left him in "The Tempest." He is half a brute, but he is, after all, a suffering, groping piece of humanity. With all kinds of backslidings he tries to attain the level of Prospero, and the Masque and Interludes will show his progress.

The Progress of Caliban.

"In the world today," said Mr. MacKaye, growing a little serious, "we need the art of co-operation. If it were not for co-operation we should not stand where we do. But where is the art of co-operation better taught than in the art of the theatre? You go to the theatre to have good fun, and I hope you will have a jolly time before you get through with this celebration."

The Prologue, the three acts, and the Epilogue of the Masque, explained Mr. MacKaye, will each of them have something to do with the progress of Caliban, and Prospero will summon Ariel to show in the Interludes the theatre at different periods such as the Egyptian, the Greek, and the Roman; the Germanic, French, and Spanish, and the English.

As Mr. Ordinsky showed a plan of the stadium with its seats for 18,000 spectators, with its great circle where the Interludes will be performed and the double stage—an inner one for episodes from Shakespeare's own plays, and the outer one for the Masque—he urged on the crowd before him that each player even in the throngs of the Interludes had his special part to perform.

"In the Greek scene," he said, "Pericles and Aspasia are watching a play by Sophocles. Outside the roar of the crowd is heard rising gradually till we can hear cries of 'Pericles.' A messenger comes running in for Pericles, and the shouts grow more insistent. It will all depend on the individuals in the crowd how they make way for the messenger and gaze at the dispatch he carries how that scene goes off."

The boys and girls in the audience were growing thoroughly interested. They laughed as Garnet Holme, the Director of the Interludes, warned them of his power.

"Be courteous to me," he said. "On me depends all your future career. I can make you ladies or peasants, sweeps or milkmaids."

The Music and Dances.

They applauded vigorously the snatches of Mr. Farwell's music. He told them what he meant by it. In a lyric, he said two notes were supposed to be "bow-wow," the honest watchdog's bark; as an air from the scene of the "Field of the Cloth of Gold" was given, he explained how he aimed at a simple melody with the rich harmonies suited to modern ears, and he told them how he had contrasted musically the characters of Prospero and Setebos, the primitive god.

A girl appeared garbed in a gown of checker pattern of white and black, with draperies of scarlet flowing from her tiara-crowned head. She was a lady of the Court of the Emperor Caligula, and Mr. MacKaye pointed out that in designing it Robert Edmond Jones had had to bear in mind the scale on which the interludes were to be staged and the needs of great distances.

A laugh went up at the smock of a country Hodge from the English interlude, but it was realized as another performer came on in a dull yellow coat with long golden streamers flowing behind how gorgeous will be the Field of the Cloth of Gold, when 130 men and women picture it.

Louis Koemmenich, the musical director, bespoke full attendances at the rehearsals of the choruses which are to take place weekly at the High School of Commerce, and then Mrs. Anderson and Miss Beiderhase, with a picked few, showed what dances will be performed. They were old English dances, with such quaint names as "Getting Peasecods," "The Black Nag," and "If All the World Were Paper." But best of all was "Bo-Peep," with the maidens gazing coyly over their shoulders as their lovers crept up behind, and it carried the house off its feet.

One or two Morris dances were led by Miss Mary Van Alst Smith. They were curiously fantastic, and when the thirty-two male dancers are recruited will have a very quaint effect.

DADY LOSES HIS FIGHT.

D. Harry Ralston Beats His Candidate for District Leader.

The Republican Committeemen for the First Assembly District of Kings County, selected at the recent primaries, met last night to elect the executive member. Henry P. Erwin, who had the support of Michael J. Dady; Alexander M. White, and D. Harry Ralston were the candidates.

The first six ballots resulted in a deadlock, and a recess of ten minutes was taken. When the committeemen got together again White asked that those who had voted for him, transfer their support to Ralston. On the seventh ballot Ralston was elected, getting 32 votes, against 27 for Erwin and 1 for White.

Paquita Madriguera Plays.

Paquita Madriguera, a young Spanish girl, who was a pupil and protegée of the late Enrique Granados, gave a piano recital yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. She played Busoni's arrangement of a Prelude and Fugue by Bach; Beethoven's Sonata, Op. 81; a group of compositions of her own; and numbers by Mendelssohn, Granados, Chopin, and Liszt. Miss Madriguera is put forward as an "infant prodigy," more or less, by those in charge of her destinies, and this is, perhaps, not altogether fortunate, for there was a certain individuality and worth about her playing which lift her out of the class of youngsters who have precociously acquired a good technique and are generally not to be taken at all seriously otherwise.

HAT SHOP FOR WAR RELIEF.

Prominent Women to Sell Latest Models for French Orphans.

Prominent women are to open a hat shop for two days, beginning next Tuesday, and closing Wednesday night, in aid of the war orphans of France. The money taken in is to be turned over to the New York Committee of the Orphelinat des Armes. Mrs. Frank K. Pendleton will have general charge of the shop and will be assisted as saleswomen by Mrs. Stephen H. Olin, Mrs. Goodhue Livingston, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.; Mrs. James W. Markoe, Mrs. Theodore Havemeyer, Mrs. Howard Cushing, Mrs. Willard Straight, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. William Greenough, Mrs. Austen Cray, Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, and the Misses Edith Wetmore, Janetta Alexander, and Sarah Schuyler Butler.

The shop will open at 10 A. M. on Tuesday at 725 Fifth Avenue. The hats offered will be the latest models and creations of leading milliners and many of them came direct from Paris. Miss Luisita A. Leland is the Chairman, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Vice Chairman, and Mrs. Douglas Robinson is the Treasurer of the New York committee who will receive the funds.

INDIA LIFE AT COLUMBIA.

Ratan Devi in an Entertainment at Philosophy Hall Tonight.

The Columbia University Chapter of the Corda Fretres Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs will give an entertainment in Philosophy Hall tonight at which the music, literature, and life of India will be discussed. Ratan Devi will give a program of Indian music, and Dr. Ananda Coomaraswamy will talk on the subject of the music of India. Basanta Koomar Roy, an intimate friend of Rabindranath Tagore, and who has written a book, recently published, on the life of Tagore, will give some intimate glimpses of the poet. Dr. Suchet Singh, a member of one of the Royal families of Punjab, will be another speaker.

There are twelve students from India at Columbia, two of them young women. Some of these will have a place on the program. Twenty-five nations are represented in the membership of the club.

Hosts at Theatre Party and Dance.

J. Theus Munds and Maury H. B. Paul gave a theatre party last evening, followed by a supper and dancing in the small ballroom at Sherry's. Mrs. Eleanor V. Paul and Mrs. Robert Grigg Reese chaperoned the party, which included the Misses Constance Peabody, Marion Tiffany, Florence Gilbert, Caryl Hackstaff, Maud Kahn; Katharine Dahlgren, Muriel Oakes, Ina Kissel, Mildred and Elise Rice, Helen Geer, Madeleine Dahlgren, Mary I. Francke, Elizabeth Kirlin, Olivia Sturtevant Erdman. Edith Williams, and Esther H. Jean Bochman of Philadelphia; also Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall, Dr. Robert G. Reese, Dunbar Adams, Rush Estee, W. T. Jerome, Jr., Charles Potter, Harry Renkorf, Hennen Le Gendre, Geoffrey Taylor, Sidney Dillon Ripley, John Murray Forbes, Jr., Charles McA. Pyle and L. A. Coffin, Jr.

Talks to Children of Fairies.

The Assembly Room of the Women's University Club was filled yesterday afternoon to hear Dugald Stewart Walker talk about "Fauns, Fairies, and other Pleasant Creatures," a talk illustrated with word pictures as well as paintings, for the benefit of the Music School Settlement for Colored People. He made a hit with the children, with gifts of trifles, including a little presentation speech about each trifle and its recipient. Among those interested in the entertainment were Mrs. Howard Mansfield, Mrs. Lindley H. Chapin, Mrs. R. Osgood Mason, Mrs. F. Kingsbury Curtis, Mrs. Ripley R. Hitchcock, and Mrs. Douglas Robinson.

Benefit for City Federation Hotel.

The City Federation of Women's Clubs gave a card party yesterday afternoon at the Hotel McAlpin for the benefit of the building fund of the City Federation Hotel for Working Girls. All the federated clubs are interested in raising funds for a larger building, so as to accommodate more girls, as the present quarters have proved inadequate. Small wagearners have been enabled to have comfortable rooms with good food and homelike surroundings at the hotel at 462 West Twenty-second Street, and the price of board remains the same as when the house was opened, $3.50 and $4 per week.

Miss Janet Richards Lectures.

Miss Janet Richards gave a lecture on "The Vital Question of the Hour" at the Plaza Hotel yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Vivisection Investigation League and under the patronage of Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, Mrs. David Lydig, Mrs. Herbert M. Harriman, Frank K. Sturgis, F. Augustus Schermerhorn, Charles F. Hoffman, and Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles.

Mrs. G. A. Thompson Is Hostess.

Mrs. Griswold A. Thompson (Miss May Van Alen) gave a luncheon yesterday at the Ritz-Carlton. Her guests included Mrs. W. V. B. Hoffman, Mrs. Burke Roche, Mrs. Cyril P. Dugmore, Mrs. Preston P. Satterwhite, Mrs. J. J. Wysong, Mrs. John Aspegren, Mrs. Alexander Brown, Mrs. Edward N. Breitung, and Mrs. Arthur G. Glasgow.

Today's Receptions.

Several receptions will take place this afternoon. Mr., and Mrs. Joel Nott Allen are to give a reception at their new home, 550 Park Avenue, to which they recently removed from the Sherwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Tartoue will also give a reception at 6 East Forty-sixth Street, from 4 until 7 o'clock.

Miss De Long to Wed C. I. Kellogg.

At a bridge party at her home yesterday the announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Sara De Long, daughter of Julius De Long of 1,100 Albemarle Road, Brooklyn, to Carll Irving Kellogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Kellogg of Washington. No plans have been made for the wedding.

Arrivals from Liverpool.

John H. Acheson, Sir Charles Allom, T. Balmer, W. C. Bartlett, Miss L. M. Baynham, Mrs. R. Beck, Miss Sybil A. W. Bourne, E. R. Bowen, H. A. Burnett, H. D. Burrell, Dr. A. Campbell, C. P. Chainey, Irwin Chase, David Cook, Harold R. Cox, Miss C. P. Cox, Miss Edith Davie, Frank C. Dodd, Mrs. M. Durant, George Fisher, Miss M. O. Flack, R. Flavelle, G. E. Foley, Mme. C. Fortin, James French, Miss Frances Godby, J. W. Greene, Miss Hilary Gurney, R. F. Hammond, R. M. Hawley, Mrs. M. E. Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton-Johnson, Ernest Hollings, Mrs. M. F. Hope, Miss Jane Houston, A. R. Hunt, E. H. Huxley, S. Innes, Miss Mary King, Mrs. S. Lightowler, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Linden, Miss Helen Mack, Walter Mather, George C. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moorhouse, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Mosley, R. North, George E. Oxley, Thomas Paul, Horace G. Reed, Miss B. M. Pym, F. Phillips, the Rev. J. M. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Rutherford, Miss Kathleen Rutherford, L. O. Rutherford, Miss May Seymour, Miss L. Spence, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Warwick, Walter J. Webb, A. R. Wheeler, and R. Wilkinson.

Tourists for Panama and Cuba.

Robert J. Boyd, F. H. Phillips, A. S. Adair, F. T. Mathison, J. Ralph Bailey, Mrs. E. V. Trott, J. F. Packard, W. J. Ferris, E. H. Wands, C. W. Clark, Edward W. Walton, C. M. Dayton, Miss Gladwin, Mrs. F. Gallup, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bataille, Walter Martin, Lieutenant J. W. Lyon, Miss Mary McNamara, L. Ross, and D. Copeland.

HAVANA, (Havana.)—H. C. Bunn, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Cozzens, Miss Louise Cozzens, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Stevens, Mrs. J. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Dewey, Jose Garcia, and Juan Carbo.

WOMEN SOLDIERS VOTE FOR TROUSERS

Appeals for "Age of New Woman" and Asks Recruits to Get Rid of Dresses.

More than 200 members of the American Woman's League for Self-Defense when they finished their weekly drill in the Ninth Regiment Armory last night and took a vote on the style of uniform they intend to wear as loyal and serviceable soldiers came out in favor of trousers.

Before the final vote could be counted there was a long and arduous discussion in which woman's fighting spirit demonstrated itself beyond a shadow of a doubt. On the question of dress their fighting blood was up, and remained up until after 11 o'clock. It seemed every one present had a separate and distinct idea of what she ought to wear and who the tailor ought to be.

Mrs. General J. Hungerford Millbank, who took a leading part in the discussion, even insisted that she did not care what kind of a uniform the other person wore, so long as she was allowed to wear what suited her own individual taste. In substance, she tried to convince her associates that their uniforms need not necessarily be uniform. She concluded with an objection to breeches, because such an apparel without a skirt, might be unpleasant to the contemplating gaze of "husbands and sweethearts."

By bringing the question of modesty into the issue, however, she merely stirred up the resentment of the "new womanhood" movement as personified by Miss Anna Higgins, who not only advocated breeches and leggings, with the supplement of a long coat, but defied any sane and really intelligent person to prove such a costume immodest.

"This is the age of the new woman," shouted Miss Higgins. "Get rid of your dresses. Dresses have been the curse and the burden of women. Dresses belong to the woman of the last generation. But this is a movement for a new generation and a new woman. Come forward and show that you have the courage to be a new woman.

"Think no longer of husbands and sweethearts. Think about ditches and barb fences. Think of the work you will have to do when your husbands and sweethearts go to the front. You will have to remain behind to guard your home against marauders and when they come you will have to pepper them down. It will be a man's work and you can't do a man's work in dresses. Don't be ashamed of your arms and legs. Get acquainted with them. You are far more immodest in evening clothes than you would be in breeches."

Miss Higgins, who wore a riding habit, cast off her coat and gave a practical exhibition of what a woman could do in breeches. Before many moments she convinced all the women present that she lost nothing in modesty, but gained much in grace and rapidity by wearing breeches instead of a dress. Following her demonstration a vote was taken, and the breeches won by an overwhelming majority. Among the women who spoke in favor of breeches was Miss Ida Vera Simonton, the African explorer.

REINALD WERRENRATH SINGS

Reinald Werrenrath, a young American baritone who is a product of this country's teaching, and who has made successive appearances here in which the growth of his artistic stature was to be observed, gave a song recital in Aeolian Hall last night in which he reached a new level and made it plain that he is now to be taken as a singer of the first rank.

His program consisted of a group of Italian airs, for the most part well known; a group of songs in German by Schumann, Grieg, and Wolf; songs in French by Aubert and Faure, with "Vision Fugitive" from Massenet's "Herodiade," and a concluding group in English, which consisted of songs by F. Morris Class and Stanley R. Avery, with three old Irish airs arranged by William Arms Fisher.

In this program Mr. Werrenrath's work was notable both for his beautiful singing and for the attributes which go to make up a finished style in song singing. The fine quality of tone, the notably good legato of his style, the breadth and continence of his phrasing, all marked off his singing of the Italian music from the ordinary. In later songs he displayed a vivid but never unrestrained sense of the dramatic, great delicacy of nuance and admirable vitality and variety of effects. It was singing such as is heard only once in a good while, even in such a busy season as the one that is now rapidly drawing to a close.

LUKEWARM TO PENSION BILL

Teachers Seem to Have Decided to Wait Another Year.

The Federation of Teachers' Association issued a statement yesterday which seemed to indicate that it might withdraw from its campaign for the Teachers' Pension bill. It says that members of the City Pension Commission are seriously considering whether the time is ripe for establishing a scientifically sound retirement fund for teachers, and whether all legislation looking to the reorganization of the teachers' bankrupt pension fund should not go over until 1917.

It is said that the opposition on the part of a number of the teachers has proved more persistent than the framers of the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill anticipated. Now that the Civil Service Reform Association has declared against the bill the advocates of the measure are inclined to think that there must be a year's campaign of education before the merits of the compromise pension bill are appreciated.

LIEUT. HENRY IS KILLED.

Son of Former Miss Lewisohn of New York Died at Loos.

LONDON, April 14.—Lieutenant Cyril Henry, son of Sir Charles Henry, was killed in the battle of Loos.

Boy Breaks $1,000 Window.

Henry Neu, 16 years old, was arrested last night on the charge of throwing a stone through a thousand-dollar stained-glass window in the Temple Ansche Chesed at Seventh Avenue and 114th Street. The arrest was made by Rudolph Nass, the caretaker, who was inside when the stone crashed through the window and ran out and saw Neu running away. In Night Court Magistrate Simms said that breaking such a window was a felony and remanded the boy to be charged with malicious mischief.

BACKS MITCHEL'S PROTEST.

Tax Reduction Committee Urges Legislative Economy.

A nonpartisan committee, backing up the city administration's protest against legislation unfriendly to the city, yesterday issued a statement urging the Legislature to reduce the appropriations called for by the General Appropriation bill just introduced. The committee declared that the present program of the Legislature, as reflected in this bill, threatened to defeat all attempts to obtain relief for the taxpayers of New York City.

Those who issued the statement were Alfred E. Marling, Chairman of the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests; Isaac N. Seligman, William Hamlin Childs, E. H. Outerbridge, George Gordon Battle, Cyrus C. Miller, Peter J. Brady of the Allied Printing Trades Council; Frank Bailey, Vice President Title Guarantee & Trust Company; William Fellowes Morgan, Jesse Isidor Straus, Adolph Lewisohn, Herbert F. Gunnison, Jacob C. Klinck, Edward C. Blum of Abraham & Straus; Laurence McGuire, President of the New York Board of Real Estate Brokers; C. G. M. Thomas, President of the Queens Chamber of Commerce, and other citizens constituting the Tax Reduction Committee of the City of New York.

The statement said in part:

"Extravagance at Albany threatens to defeat all attempts at tax reduction in this city. The Appropriation bill just introduced in the Legislature is so large that, if it is passed in its present form, it means the end of New York City's hopes for lower taxes.

"Every citizen of New York City, whatever his political affiliations, owes it to himself and to his fellow-citizens to protest at once to the leaders in the Legislature and ask them to modify the present appropriation plan. If the bill now under discussion goes through it will stamp the present Legislature as one that neither economizes itself nor permits New York City to economize."

MAYOR'S NAME HISSED.

Staten Island Bankers Lead Protest Against Disposal Plant.

Mayor Mitchel's name was hissed by several hundred Staten Islanders at a mass meeting held in the German Club Rooms in Stapleton last night to protest against the establishing of a garbage destruction plant on Staten Island. When Edward C. Bridgeman, President of the Staten Island Savings Bank, declared that Mayor Mitchel was a knave and Controller Prendergast his partner in knavery the crowd cheered.

The meeting was advertised by dodgers, which were distributed by prominent Staten Island bankers, including Charles A. Bruns, President of the Stapleton National Bank; L. C. Hall, cashier of the Staten Island Savings Bank; Anning S. Prall, Director of the Port Richmond National Bank; William K. Welch, President of the Richmond County Trust Company and Director of the Staten Island Savings Bank, and Louis Dreyfuss, chemical engineer and Director of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce.

They met all the trains and ferries from 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon until 7 last night to hand out the dodgers.

William Wirt Mills presided at the meeting. Mr. Bridgeman, who was the first speaker, said: "I have heard it said of the Mayor that he was either a fool or a knave. I have looked up the dictionary definitions of these two terms and I have concluded that the Mayor is not a fool. A fool has no brains."

It was denied at the meeting that the United States Disposal Company on Barren Island was responsible for the opposition to placing the plant on Staten Island.

NEW HAVEN LIFTS EMBARGO.

But Many Restrictions on Traffic Are Still in Effect.

The freight embargo on the New Haven Railroad was lifted last night except as far as export freight was concerned. In a few instances it remains in effect for special reasons. Thus, Naugatuck, Waterbury, Torrington, Bristol, New Britain, and Hartford have not cleared up their yards fully enough to permit the unimpeded transportation of goods to them, and restrictions have still to be kept in force against cotton, consigned to Fall River and Watuppa, and a few individual firms which have permitted their freight to accumulate beyond their ability to unload. The embargo on bituminous and anthracite coal, lumber, and cement was also lifted last night, only sufficiently to cover one-third of the average daily receipts from connecting lines during April last year.

The weather, according to Boyd Berry of the Traffic Bureau of the Merchants' Association, has had a good deal to do with the modification of the embargo. It has permitted the trucking in the streets to be carried on very much more expeditiously than a month ago and the accumulations of freight at the piers have been substantially reduced. It has also increased the efficiency of the lighterage service on the rivers around Manhattan. A great deal of the freight trouble had been caused by the inadequacy of the lighterage equipment of the railroads. Now that it can be used more efficiently that inadequacy is of course reduced.

MARRIED BY CONTRACT.

Judge, Assured Bride Knows Her Mind, Performs the Ceremony.

Robert Leopold Wolf, 21 years old, and Miss Anne Page, 23 years old, of Brookline, Mass., were married by contract on Saturday last by Judge La Fetra of the City Court. Mr. Wolf is a graduate of Harvard University. He is the son of L. J. Wolf of Cleveland, O. His bride was a student at Bryn Mawr, and later graduated from Radcliffe College. She is the daughter of George Page.

The parents of the bride attended the ceremony, but before proceeding with it Judge La Fetra telephoned the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension and an uncle of the bride, to learn whether the young woman had correctly described herself. Mr. Grant said she was all right, a girl who knew her mind, and quite capable of taking care of herself.

The contract was filed with County Clerk Schneider yesterday. It read:

"The contract parties promise to faithfully perform to the community all the duties and obligations of marriage necessary to the community's welfare."

ARMY CAPTAIN DISMISSED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Captain James E. Fulton, Coast Artillery Corps, U. S. A., who was recently tried by a court-martial at the Panama Canal Zone, on the charge of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, in violation of the Sixty-first Article of war," with four specifications alleging the violation of a pledge given March 10, 1915, to abstain from the use of alcoholic liquor, was found guilty by the court and sentenced to be dismissed. The sentence has been approved by the President, and Captain Fulton ceases to be an officer of the army tomorrow.

Captain Fulton was born in Virginia. He was promoted to a First Lieutenancy in the Artillery Corps, Jan. 24, 1902. He was promoted to a First Lieutenant in 1907, and four years later was made a Captain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 14.—At today's session of the Red Cross sale at Christie's, Lady Wernher bid $3,250 for a Toft ware dish, which she later put up again for auction and rebought for $3,000. Thus one article enriched the fund by $6,250. The National Collection is also a gainer, for Lady Wernher presented the dish to the British Museum.

THEATRE ELEVATOR DROPS FOUR STORIES

Roof Actors Trudge Many Flights, and Will Rogers Reaches Stage All Out of Breath.

The stage elevator that carries the actors from the stage at the New Amsterdam Theatre to the dressing rooms on the floors above fell from the third floor to the basement when crowded with passengers after the performance of "King Henry VIII," shortly before last midnight. There were twelve passengers, including Harry McLaughlin, the operator, in the car, and none received a scratch. That was due to the fact that the elevator was equipped with air cushions, which broke the force of the fall when the car reached the basement.

While no one was injured, the accident was not without casualties. Margery Cassidy, a member of Ziegfeld's "Midnight Frolic" Company, was standing at the elevator door on the first floor. Miss Cassidy had just rung the bell and was waiting for the car to descend, when there was a deafening clatter up the shaft, and the car, full of people, shot by her on its way to the bottom of the shaft. Miss Cassidy promptly fainted, but she was able to go on in the midnight revue when the time came.

The New Amsterdam dressing rooms are used by the players appearing in Sir Herbert Tree's production of "King Henry VIII" and by the members of the Ziegfeld company as well. The passengers in the car were three young women of the former company and eight boys, all on their way out of the theatre from the upper dressing rooms. The boys are supernumeraries in the coronation scene that brings the Shakespearean production to a close.

Two stalwart policemen whom the accident brought to the scene threw off their coats and dashed toward the basement, fully expecting to have to use axes to release the injured, only to be met by the gang of youngsters coming up the steps grinning over the thrill of their exciting ride.

The parting of the main weight cable was responsible for the accident. The noise of the broken strands as they hit the sides of the shaft brought the players running from their dressing rooms, and until it was learned that no one was hurt there was great excitement back stage. An ambulance was called before it was learned that it was not needed.

The dressing rooms are widely separated from the auditorium, and no one in front of the curtain knew anything had happened. Late arrivals among the actors of the Ziegfeld show had to climb the countless flights to the roof. This so exhausted Will Rogers that he didn't have time to think up more than a dozen new gags in the five minutes that remained before he went on.

Police Find Stolen Jewelry in Duboff's Apartment.

Detectives Downing, Dowd, and Asip of the Sixth Branch Bureau of Brooklyn last night visited the jewelry shop of Abraham Duboff at 156 Chrystie Street, Manhattan, and for the second time in two weeks found there loot which Harry Lefkowitz, a convicted burglar, had said he sold to Duboff. The first trip of the police resulted in the recovery of $15,000 worth of silverware and jewelry and the arrest of Duboff on a charge of receiving stolen goods. He is now out on $5,000 bail.

Last night the detectives said that they found $20,000 worth of valuables concealed under carpets and in beds in Duboff's apartment at the rear of his shop. Among the things the detectives found were eighty-one bracelets, sixty-six gold watches, seventy-five diamond rings, and eighty gold lockets, many of them engraved with names.

Lefkowitz yesterday afternoon toured Flatbush in a Police Department automobile and pointed out more than twenty dwellings which he had robbed.

POLK WILL NOT RESIGN.

State Department Counselor Says Report Is Not True.

Special to The New York Times.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 14.—Frank L. Polk, counselor of the State Department, arrived here today with Mrs. Polk and will remain until Monday. He spent most of the day playing golf with John H. McCullough of New York, and on coming in this afternoon was interviewed concerning a rumor of his intended resignation as a result of the Mexican situation.

He said that there was no truth in the report, and that he has had absolutely no differences with Secretary of State Lansing. His trip to Hot Springs is one that was planned a fortnight ago.

CHECKS GET BOY INTO COURT

Says They Were Given to Him to Mail and He Forgot.

Because he had two checks, totaling almost $1,000, not payable to his order, Timothy Enright, 14 years old, of 344 West Seventeenth Street, was arrested last night by Post Office Inspector Vick and Policeman Feaster and taken to the Children's Society charged with juvenile delinquency.

Enright was employed by M. Kliner, a butcher at 1,074 Park Avenue, and among papers dropped in the butcher's shop yesterday by the boy Kliner found a check payable to Mrs. Jesse Cornelia B. Hoyt for $743, and another for $250 made out to Ethel Zabriskie, both of whom live at 969 Park Avenue. Under cross-examination the boy said that the two checks in envelopes had been given him by the doorman at 969 Park Avenue to mail, and that he had forgotten to do so.

HARVEY D. HINMAN VERY ILL.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., April 14.—As the result of the bitter fight made prior to the primaries by the supporters of State Excise Commissioner Green and Senator Hill against the Republican organization, led by ex-Senator Harvey D. Hinman, the latter is in a critical condition tonight from an attack of pneumonia contracted the day prior to the primaries, when he made a flying trip through the northern part of this county. Mr. Hinman won in the primaries, and when the Republican County Committee met for organization this afternoon the Hinman adherents elected all their officers and sub-committees by a vote of 4,035 to 2,714.

At the Hinman home tonight it was said Mr. Hinman's condition was about the same. His heart action was good, but one lung is considerably affected. A consultation of local physicians resulted in summoning Dr. Thompson, a New York specialist, who is at Mr. Hinman's bedside.

MICHAEL J. KENNEDY DEAD.

Ex-Park Commissioner for Brooklyn and Queens Was 57 Years Old.

Michael J. Kennedy, former Park Commissioner for Brooklyn and Queens, died yesterday at his home, 261 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, in his fifty-eighth year. He was born in Ireland, and came here with his parents when three years old. He was in the firm of Kennedy & O'Connell, dock builders.

In 1902 he was one of the organizers of the Brooklyn Democracy and took an active part in the election of Seth Low as Mayor. He was then appointed a member of the Board of Education, from which he resigned to become Park Commissioner in 1904.

W. R. Kett Dead; Weighed 573 Lbs.

William R. Kett, an auctioneer, who, owing to his weighing 573 pounds, was said to have been the heaviest man in Jersey City, died yesterday at his home, 198 Bay Street, in his forty-fourth year. His great size caused him to use a strongly reinforced automobile and he lived in rooms that were especially constructed to support his weight. Mr. Kett is survived by his mother, two brothers and a sister.

Architect Dies in Hotel Lobby.

William H. Smith, a retired architect of 216 West Seventy-eighth Street, dropped dead last night in the lobby of the Hotel Imperial, Broadway and Thirty-second Street. He was 70 years old and had been in the habit of dropping into the hotel to read the evening papers. Dr. Adair of New York Hospital said that his death was due to natural causes.

WHITNEY AND SANDS AND GOULD AND HUHN REACH FINAL IN NATIONAL COURT TENNIS DOUBLES

BEAT BOSTON PAIR AT COURT TENNIS

STURDY UPHILL PLAY WINS

Gould and Huhn Defeat Cutting and Waterbury Easily, and Will Meet New Yorkers in Final.

One form reversal developed yesterday in the playing of the semi-final round of the national court tennis championship in doubles at the Racquet and Tennis Club. Payne Whitney and Charles E. Sands defeated Joshua Crane and George R. Fearing in a thrilling five-set match and upset pre-tournament anticipations. Crane and Fearing were the ones to contest the final round a year ago against Gould and Huhn, the victors, and it was thought that the two teams would meet again in the present tournament.

Whitney and Sands did not have easy going on the road to victory, but they finally won an uphill struggle at 1—6, 2—6, 6—2, 6—4, 7—5. Gould and Huhn came through in the other semi-final match, defeating C. S. Cutting and L. Waterbury in straight sets at 6—3, 6—2, 6—1.

At the outset the Whitney-Sands, Crane-Fearing match appeared for all the world to have pronounced Boston leanings. Crane was playing a powerful game, and was ably aided by Fearing, who made some nice placement shots and many strong forehand drives. The men from the Hub worked well together, and their play kept Whitney and Sands on the defensive much of the time. Aggressiveness was apparent in all of their work during the first two sets, and they won them both so handily that it seemed as if the match was as good as over at the close of the second. The placing of Crane was of the highest order, and there was little reason to believe that Fearing would be unable to stand the strain of carrying through the third set with the same speed that had characterized his earlier work.

A fact which was quite lost sight of was that Whitney and Sands, though they were not winning, were still playing excellent and steady tennis, the success which attended the spectacular efforts of their opponents obscuring the work of the New Yorkers. Whitney was alert, going after everything in sight, and Sands, though he was not so active, was placing well and earning a number of points on accurate shots to the grille and the dedans. The latter vantage point was frequently sought out with success by Whitney also.

When Whitney and Sands did begin to blaze their way to the front in the third set it was still not generally believed that the effort was purely one of merit. There loomed up the mental query whether the Bostonians, with the match apparently in hand, had not decided that it would be only fair courtesy to allow their opponents to win one set. Fearing especially played as if indifferent to the result of this one set, and Crane was the culprit in committing many errors, some being drives out of the court, but more just plain nets of easy strokes. Each Boston player had gone off form. Fearing, as after events proved, was the first to succumb to the speed of the game, and Crane was influenced largely by the poor play of his partner. Whitney and Sands took the set at 6—2, and won three of the four deuce games.

When Crane and Fearing failed to start on a road to rapid victory in the fourth set it became evident that Whitney and Sands had exhausted the resources of their opponents to the fullest extent, and that, could they maintain their steadiness, the victory was theirs. Fearing showed unmistakable signs of fatigue. He leaned against the side of the court when the play was to Crane and showed a lack of ginger in going after the hard shots. Crane was doing the work of two men and doing some of it well, but he could not combat the co-ordination of Whitney and Sands. Whitney at times played brilliantly, and Sands was ever steady and reliable, seldom being drawn into errors.

The Bostonians managed, nevertheless, to pull ahead so that the set score was 4—2 in their favor. They were then brought to an abrupt halt and Whitney and Sands brought the set to a quick conclusion by taking four games in a row, in which their opponents could gather but six points. This made the score even on sets.

The deciding set was the longest of all, going to 7—5 before Whitney and Sands won. The two points which finally gave them the victory were on errors by Crane. The set was at one point 5—4 in favor of the Bostonians. Accurate placing by Sands and Whitney brought it to deuce, an error by Fearing helping in the result. The Bostonians failed to win two chases in the next game and both Fearing and Crane made errors, so that the vantage was with the New Yorkers. The final game was easy for the New Yorkers against the fast-tiring Bostonians.

The victory of Gould and Huhn over Cutting and Waterbury was decidedly easy. Waterbury did not have the speed nor the skill of Cutting, and the Philadelphia team closed out each set with little struggle. The second set provided two closely-played games, the second and third, one going to 8—6 on points, and the other to 9—7, but each one was won by Gould and Huhn, who at no time in the match were forced to extend themselves, except for brief moments. The diminishing power of Cutting and Waterbury is conclusively shown by the score of the games. The Philadelphia team always played just enough better to win game after game. The scores:

PUBLIC LINKS READY SOON.

Van Cortlandt and Mosholu Courses to Open April 22.

Park Commissioner Whittle of the Bronx gave out the good news yesterday that the Van Cortlandt and Mosholu links will be opened for play on April 22, although the formal opening will not take place until May 1. The lower course has received a thorough grooming in the last few weeks and is now in fine shape. The tees will be decorated this year with wash boxes, a luxury that the public links golfers have not hitherto known but will much appreciate.

It is expected that the Mosholu course will be opened to the full extent on April 22. Golfers were allowed to play over the upper course last year, but only fifteen holes were completed. This season the eighteen holes will be available, although the work of improving and bunkering the course will be continued through the Spring and Summer.

The first nine holes of the Mosholu course is a much better test of golf than any other part of the public links of this city. The length of the first half-circuit is 3,122 yards, which compares favorably with any of the private club courses in the country. The fairway is narrow and the golfer must keep straight, but when the greens become hard and true the good player will be rewarded for his skill.

The second half of the course is much shorter than the first, nearly a thousand yards less, but this is not due to the making of easy drive and pitch holes, but rather to the superabundance of one shot mashie and iron holes. The par for the second nine holes is 30, as compared to 36 for the others. It is probable that most of the good players will prefer the upper to the lower links this year. The card for the new course is as follows:

Hole	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

LINKS CLUB PLANS FILED.

New and Exclusive Golfers' Organization to Have Fine Home.

Plans were filed yesterday in the Building Bureau for the erection on a 40-foot plot in Sixty-second Street, between Madison and Park Avenues, of a home for the novel and exclusive Links Club. As the name implies, its members will be drawn entirely from the ranks of the enthusiasts of the ancient Scotch game, but there will be only 200 members. Some of the best known as well as wealthiest golfers of New York and the immediate vicinity are among them, including Henry C. Frick, James A. Stillman, W. de Lancey Kountze, Charles H. Sabin, Frank L. Crocker, H. de Forest Weeks, H. R. Whigham, a former amateur champion; R. H. Williams, William H. Sands, C. W. Hammill, and Charles B. Macdonald, another ex-champion. Mr. Macdonald organized the club and is its President.

The object of the club will be to provide a city home for the golfing members, where they may enjoy a good dinner after a day's sport on their nearby club links, and where they may leave their golfing togs on returning to the city and dress for dinner. Beside these conveniences, facilities for exercise during the winter months will be provided for the benefit of those who are not playing on Southern courses. On the roof will be laid out a well-equipped putting green, where the members can practice the gentle and difficult art of running down the ball.

INWOOD GOLF PLANS.

Season Starts May 7, and Play on Holidays Will Be Feature.

The season's club golf competition at the Inwood Country Club begins May 7 with an eighteen-hole medal-play handicap. Three large tournaments in addition to the club championship will be played during the season—one on Memorial Day, one on the Fourth of July, and one on Labor Day. The club championship will begin on Sept. 9, and will be continued on the three following Saturdays in September. As the Inwood course can be used almost throughout the year around, the tournament season will continue late into the Fall. The schedule calls for tournaments on Election Day, Thanksgiving Day, and Christmas.

The women in the club have a schedule of their own, beginning with a medal-play handicap on June 16 and closing Sept. 8 with a kickers' handicap. Their club championship will be held from Aug. 28 to Sept. 1.

HARTWELL TO PLAY BEALL.

Pinehurst Mid-April Golf Final to be Contested Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 14.—The competition in the mid-April golf tournament today brought the four divisions to the finals. In the first division tomorrow, C. A. Hartwell, Country Club of Brookline, will meet E. C. Beall of Uniontown, who won the qualifying round. Hartwell beat Dr. M. W. Marry in the semi-final today, 4 and 3. He took the lead at the start and kept the advantage throughout. He was 4 up at the turn and won on the fifteenth green. The summary:

First Sixteen.—Semi-Final Round—E. C. Beall, Uniontown, beat J. T. Hunter, North Adams, 3 and 2; C. A. Hartwell, Brookline, beat Dr. M. W. Marry, Woodland, 4 and 3.

Second Sixteen.—Spencer Waters, Apawamis, beat Jack Tunis, Bellevue, 4 and 2; B. E. Smith, Saginaw, beat W. H. Nevins, Springfield, 5 and 4.

Third Sixteen.—Dr. E. W. Bush, Southern Pines, beat A. J. A. Gibson, Rosedale, 2 and 1; I. W. Champion, Brantford, won from A. B. Mallory, Orlando, by default.

Park, Old British Golfer, Here.

Willie Park, winner of the British open golf championship in 1887 at Prestwick and at Musselburgh in 1889, arrived in this country yesterday from Liverpool on the St. Paul. Park made an extended tour of this country two decades ago, but this time it is probable that he will locate here for business purposes. He is a past master in the art of laying out golf courses and will undertake this work in this country. Park was for many years the professional at the Musselburgh links, where he won his second championship. His father, Willie Park, Sr., was even more famous as a golfer in his day, having won the first open championship ever played—the contest over the Prestwick course in 1860, and he subsequently won the title on two more occasions.

M'KECHNIE TO PLAY THIRD FOR GIANTS

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—William McKechnie, third baseman and former manager for the Newark Federals, left here today for New York, where he will report to the New York Nationals. McKechnie belongs to Harry Sinclair, former owner of the Newark Federals, but he was loaned to the St. Louis Americans for the Spring training season.

When Hans Lobert, the Giants regular third baseman, was injured in the Yale game, Manager McGraw tried Brainard at third base, but he did not come up to the requirements. The only other player available for the place was Hunter, who is so inexperienced that another player was absolutely necessary. Lobert's leg has been placed in a plaster cast, and it is doubtful whether he will ever be a useful player again.

McKechnie has had a lot of experience in the major leagues, having played with Pittsburgh and the New York Yankees. His batting with both of these clubs was only ordinary. McKechnie played second base until he joined the Newark Federal League club last year, when he went to third.

When Bill Phillips was deposed as Newark's manager, McKechnie was appointed in his place. He played in 117 games at third base and had a fielding average of .956. He had 226 assists and nineteen errors. McKechnie's batting average was .257. He had 22 two-base hits to his credit and stole 30 bases.

The Giants will play in Newark tomorrow, opening the season with Fred Tenney's Newark International League club. Kauff, Rariden and Rousch, who were Federal League favorites, will be in the Giants' line-up. The game will be played at Wiedenmayer's Park.

ERRORS DEFEAT PIRATES.

Cardinals Bunch Pair of Singles with Opponents' Misplays.

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—Costly errors by Pittsburgh's infielders were responsible for Pittsburgh's defeat at the hands of St. Louis here today by a score of 5 to 3.

With the visitors leading by one run in the seventh, Snyder reached second on Schultz's throw over first. Butler, batting for Jasper, singled, putting Snyder on third. Beck singled to right, scoring Snyder. When Hinchman threw to third to head off Beck, no one was there to back up Viox, and Butler raced in with what proved to be the winning run. The score:

REDS OVERTAKE CUBS.

CINCINNATI, April 14.—Cincinnati, playing an up-hill game until the sixth inning, won out from the Chicago Cubs in the third game of the series today by the score of 4 to 3. The visitors took kindly to Schneider's curves, and forced his withdrawal after three innings, but they could do nothing with McKenry, who relieved him, getting only one hit in the remaining six innings. Hendrix was steady for four innings, but the locals bunched their hits with his two bases on balls in their last four innings and gathered in just enough runs to win. Groh carried off both the fielding and batting honors. The score:

Faber Well Supported by His Mates at Bat in Chicago's Victory.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Faber's good pitching and hard and timely hitting by Chicago gave the locals another victory over Detroit today by a score of 7 to 2. Cunningham's moist ball possessed no terrors for the White Sox and he paved the way for some of the runs by giving passes. Felsch's triple in the sixth inning and doubles by Jackson and Schalk in the second were factors in Chicago's victory. Eddie Collins's wild throw, following Veach's single and steal, accounted for the first Detroit run, and Vitt's single and Cobb's triple netted the other. The score:

FULTON CANNOT BOX NEGROES IN PUBLIC

Athletic Commission Bars Mixed Training Bouts Proposed by Heavyweight.

The State Athletic Commission has refused to permit Fred Fulton to give public boxing exhibitions with Sam McVea or Harry Wills, the negro heavyweights, so Fulton's manager, Mike Collins, has arranged to have the Minnesota giant box the colored fighters in an uptown gymnasium. Fulton boxed a few rounds yesterday with Bill McKinnon before a few people at the Pioneer Club, but today he expects to have three sparring partners.

Fulton's work yesterday was watched by Kid McCoy. The former welterweight champion stated that Fulton boxed well and had the necessary speed, but he would have to develop a new line of defense. Fulton has evidently paid little attention to defensive boxing, and many of the old-timers who have seen him say that he would be easy for even a fairly clever fighter to hit. Fulton wants the best sparring partners possible for his coming bout with Reich, and for that reason he will work part of the time in private with the negro heavyweights.

Negotiations were practically completed yesterday for the ten-round bout between Frank Moran and Jack Dillon. The Stadium A. C. has offered a purse of $25,000 for the bout, guaranteeing Moran $17,500 and Dillon $7,500. Moran has consented to the terms and it is expected that Dillon will accept, as this is the largest guarantee that has ever been offered to him for a ten-round bout. The boxers will probably meet at the Stadium Club in the last week of the month.

MARTY CROSS DEFEATED.

Jimmy Coffee Easily Outpoints Leach's Brother in Harlem Bout.

The pugilistic stock of the Cross family of boxers has taken a decided drop since the retirement of Leach, its most prominent member. This was indicated last night at the Harlem Sporting Club, 135th Street and Madison Avenue, where Jimmy Coffey, announced as a Mohawk Indian, decisively outpointed Marty Cross, the only survivor in the ring of a family which gained considerable prominence because of the activities of four of its members, in the feature ten-round contest.

Marty failed in many ways to uphold the prestige of the family, but particularly in boxing ability and the magnetism which usually attracts capacity crowds, for a small number of spectators witnessed the contest last night. Coffey was considerably faster than his opponent, and his cleverness enabled him to beat Cross to the punch in almost every round of the ten.

The Mohawk Indian kept Cross off balance for the greater part of the distance with a snappy left-hand jab to the face, and in the clinches he worked his arms like flails delivering blows to Cross's stomach, which usually made the latter hold on. For more than half the distance Coffey landed at will without receiving a return, but in the closing rounds Cross spurted and delivered several hard blows on his opponent's stomach and face. Coffey, however, was not daunted by these blows and continued to carry the fight to his adversary until the final bell, when he had a clear advantage.

SCHOOLBOY HOST AT N. Y. U.

Hundreds of Young Students on Hand for Today's Meet.

As the preface of New York University's annual preparatory school day exercises, several hundred students from high and preparatory institutions were entertained last night by undergraduates of the Violet institution at dinner in the various fraternity houses and the university commons. There was a basket ball game between the freshman and sophomore teams in the evening, and a series of underclass cane spree contests. The high school boys, who arrived at University Heights last night, were welcomed on behalf of the undergraduates by William H. Draper, Jr., Chairman of the Invitation Committee.

The prep. school visitors were conducted about the campus and through the extension of the open house privilege, which was the rule at the Greek letter society houses, received the opportunity of witnessing various phases of college life. A large number of the boys will take part in the seventeenth annual interscholastic meet and games to be held today at Ohio Field.

FIGHT FILMS NOT SEIZED.

Reported Proposed Action of Treasury Department Not Fulfilled.

No official action has been taken here toward seizing the films of the motion pictures of the Willard-Johnson fight, which were photographed at Rouse's Point on the Canadian boundary line two weeks ago. A dispatch from Washington yesterday stated that the Treasury Department had notified Dudley Field Malone, Collector of the Port, to seize the films which are now in this city. Up to a late hour last night the order had not been received here.

To get around the Federal law prohibiting the importation of the films to this country, the original pictures were brought to the Canadian border and with a camera, placed a few inches away on this side of the border, a copy of the original pictures was made. These films, taken in New York State, were shown privately on last Sunday afternoon at the studio of the Duplex Motion Picture Corporation at 178 Fulton Street.

SEPPALA'S DOG TEAM LEADS

Last Year's Alaska Sweepstakes Winners Are Ahead.

NOME, Alaska, April 14.—On the home stretch in the All-Alaska sweepstakes, Leonard Seppala with his team of wolf dogs, winners of last year's race, was in the lead today, arriving at Council, eighty-five miles from Nome, thirty-two minutes ahead of Fay Dalzene. Fred Ayers was third, arriving at 8:01 A. M., forty-two minutes behind Dalzene. The two other contestants are supposed to be hitting the trail somewhere near Council.

HARVARD OFF IN SNOWSTORM

Baseball and Lacrosse Teams Start Southward for Games.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 14.—The baseball and lacrosse teams of Harvard University, with their substitutes, departed during a snowstorm today on their annual Spring Southern trips. Twenty-five men made up the baseball squad, for which games with the West Point, University of Virginia, Annapolis, Catholic University, Johns Hopkins and Columbia are scheduled.

The lacrosse team carried fifteen men for its four games with Swarthmore, University of Pennsylvania, Mt. Washington Club of Baltimore, and Annapolis.

HOMER BAKER WINS IN FARCICAL RACE

Loafing Pace Up to Last Lap of 1,000-Yard Special at Democratic League Games.

Homer Baker, formerly international half-mile champion, has been a long time in coming back, but he returned part of the way at least last night, when he won the Congressman Murray Hulbert Trophy in the 1,000-yard special which was listed as the feature of the initial indoor games of the Young Men's Democratic League, held in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory. Near victories have been Baker's lot for the last two months, but last night he found a race run to his order, with Sidney Leslie of the Long Island A. C. and Mike Devanney of the Millrose A. A. as his only rivals. The race was won in the extremely slow time of 2:26 4-5, figures which even a second-rater would not boast about.

Against his wishes Baker made all the pace, if such it could be called, and he made it to suit his own liking. For more than 700 yards of the distance he did nothing more than jog around the track, yet, though ample opportunity was offered, neither Leslie nor Devanney would attempt to pass the former New York A. C. representative.

A real race developed in the last lap, however, when Baker slipped away from his field and opened a four-yard gap before Leslie and Devanney really got their bearings. Some of Baker's most brilliant performances were recalled as he dashed around the track with his old-time vigor, holding almost every inch of the ground he had gained until the final fifty yards, when Leslie pulled up about two yards. There was little more than four yards separating the three contestants at the tape.

Joe Higgins of Holy Cross College and Dick Egan of the Irish-American A. C. were other entrants in the Hulbert special, but they both declined the issue. Their failure to start was responsible for the jockeying which made the event somewhat of a fizzle until the last lap.

What really was the feature race of the meet was the 65-yard special dash, in which Howard P. Drew, the negro sprinter, once more proved his mastery of Frank Stephenson of the Trinity Club, and Roy Morse, unattached, national 220-yard champion, winning in the fast time of 7 seconds. Through a mistake made by a person unknown, Maynard P. White of Brown University, formerly a Stuyvesant High School representative, did not start in the final, although he had qualified by finishing second to Drew in the second heat. Sylvester Johnston of the Knights of St. Antony was announced as the second man in the trial, although White really was entitled to the position. The Brown athlete went to his dressing room, and when apprised of the fact that he was to compete in the final donned his running suit, but arrived on the floor just in time to see Drew breaking the tape the winner. The race had been started without him because of the impatience of the spectators.

Eddie Goodwin, rated among the best amateur indoor bicycle riders in the country, received what was said to be a fracture of a rib in his left side, when he was hurled to the floor in a collision on the final lap of the two-mile bicycle race. While dashing around the slippery floor at breakneck speed in an effort to overtake the leader, Goodwin collided with Al Lake of the New York A. C., the eventual winner, and his mount slid from under him. He barely avoided the three riders who were directly in his rear, saving himself from further injury.

Willie Banfield of the Knights of St. Antony also suffered a painful injury, when he was thrown on the wooden border while forcing his way through an immense field in the 1,000-yard handicap closed to members of the Young Men's Democratic League, in which he was back marker. A hasty examination indicated that Banfield had suffered a dislocation of the left hip, but closer scrutiny showed that his side had been severely bruised, and the large toe of his left foot had been broken. The summary:

MILITARY MOUNTS HORSE SHOW STARS

Officers of Army and National Guard Ride Their Pets at Brooklyn Exhibition.

Military events, in which officers of the Regular Army and National Guard took part, were the features of the twenty-fourth annual horse show of the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club last night. The attendance was the largest of the entire exhibition. Horsemen and horsewomen who have taken part in exhibitions at Madison Square Garden and other important shows, drove and rode.

The award of the blue ribbon to Lieutenant James S. Larkin of the First Field Artillery for the best officer's charger and military mount, pleased the spectators hugely. He rode Tam-o'Shanter, a gelding standing 16 hands 2 inches. The red went to the entry made by Troop F, First Cavalry of New York.

A. B., shown by John J. Farrell, made the best showing in the class for the model military mounts. The fact that two artillery officers and one officer of cavalry were the judges perhaps accounts in part for the winning of A. B., which is more of an artillery horse than a cavalry mount.

The program opened with a class for harness horses, to be driven to an appropriate wagon, in which J. Campbell Thompson's Nestledown Asthore was entered, but did not show. The blue went to A. W. Atkinson's Supreme Polonius, a veteran of the show ring, the red going to F. M. Warburg's Woodlands Emperor.

Mr. Atkinson scored again in the event for heavyweight saddle horses able to carry 200 pounds, Sandy McDonald, an aged horse, taking the honors. Another of the Atkinson entries won in the class for combination harness and saddle horses, suitable to be ridden or driven. The winner was MacGregor, which was driven by Miss M. Hubbs of Brooklyn.

Miss Isabella Wanamaker of Philadelphia, driving her own pair, Eve and Suave, took the blue in the class for pairs of harness horses to be shown to a lady's phaeton and driven by a lady. Mrs. Bushnell of Springfield, O., drove her husband's team. Gypsy Girl and Gypsy Maid landed the red ribbon.

The Middle West scored again in an event for harness horses over fourteen hands two inches, when the Governor added another blue to his long list.

The awards follow:

Harness Horses, Over 15.1 and Not Exceeding 15.3.—Won by A. W. Atkinson's ch. g., Supreme Polonius; F. M. Warburg's blk. g., Woodlands Emperor, second; John L. Bushnell's br. g., The Prince, third; F. M. Warburg's Woodlands Empress, fourth.

Combination Harness and Saddle Horses.—Won by George A. Anderson's ch. g. MacGregor, Miss M. Hubbs riding; Owenoke Farm's br. g., Tennessee, second; Mrs. Josephine Reynold's ch. g., Supreme, third; A. W. Atkinson's ch. g., Sparkling Moselle, fourth.

Saddle Horses, docked or undocked, over 14.2, up to carrying 200 pounds.—Won by A. W. Atkinson's ch. g. Sandy McDonald; Mrs. Charles M. Allaire's blk. g. Crusader, second; H. B. Hess's gr. g. Tango, third; Owenoke Farm's b. g. Tennessee, fourth.

Model Military Mounts, to be shown in hand by enlisted man in uniform.—Won by John J. Farrell's b. g. A. C.; Lieutenant J. S. Larkin's ch. g. Tam-o'-Shanter, second; Vira Cornell's ch. g. Rockcress, third; Troop F's, First Cavalry, N. G. N. Y., ch. m. Lady Isabella, fourth.

Pairs of Jumpers—For best performance over jumps of four feet—Won by Charles D. Lanier's b. m. Sister, and Miss Ivy Maddison's ch. g. His Grace the Duke; Miss Kathleen M. Kiloy's ch. m. Juanita, and Henry Deegan's ch. g. Acrobat, second; Robert E. Tod's b. g. Aviator, and b. g. Mainspring, third; Miss Vira Cornell's ch. g. Rockcress, and Owenoke Farm's b. g. Montrose, fourth.

Military Jumping Class—Won by Squadron C. Farm's ch. m. Courvette; Troop F., First Cavalry's Judge Brown, second; W. R. Coe's b. g. Paddy, third; Capt. A. H. Platt's b. g. Chance, fourth.

CAVALRY OUT OF POLO.

Fifth's Team Will Be Unable to Compete in Washington Tourney.

The fifth United States Cavalry polo team, which was entered for the Army Polo Association tournament, starting today at Washington, D. C., has had to withdraw, as the regiment has been ordered to Mexico. In its place there will be an All-Army four, which will be captained by Colonel Charles G. Treat, the army delegate to the polo association.

Other teams to enter the contest will be: Pine Tree Polo Club of Aiken, S. C.; Westmoreland Polo Club of Greensburg, Penn.; Deal Beach Polo Club of New Jersey, and a team made up of New York players, with F. S. von Stade, as Captain. A number of unattached players will participate in the tournament, and it has been decided to make up a number of matches, after these men arrive.

The event is in charge of Captain H. N. Cootes of the Thirteenth Cavalry. Accommodation has been made on the Washington Horse Show grounds for 150 mounts, many of which are already in the stables. The two tournament fields are in excellent condition for the event, which will be the first polo fixture of any importance held at the capital in six years.

Anglers' Tournament in Park.

A fly-casting tournament of the Anglers' Club of New York will be held in the big lake in Central Park, opposite Eighth Avenue and Seventy-second Street entrance, today, starting at 2 o'clock. The Tournament Committee, of which J. S. Pettit is Chairman, states that the events will be useful under actual fishing conditions and the contestants will be allowed to use their favorite stream or the club's tackle. The list of events consists of dry fly casting for accuracy, bull's-eye fly accuracy, and distance fly handicap.

Fordham Athletic News.

Fordham University will hold its annual Spring alumni reunion this afternoon, when two of its athletic teams will be seen in action. The Maroon baseball team will play the Holy Cross nine on the Fordham diamond. It will mark the opening of the Catholic college championship series. As McQuade, who twirled against the Boston Braves will work today, Fordham is hoping for a victory over its ancient rival.

At the same time the Fordham tennis team will open its season at the new courts against the City College racquet wielders.

Following the challenge of the Cascadilla crew management to the rowing schools of New York, a move was started to have Fordram "Prep" meet the Ithacans in the preliminary to the Cornell-Princeton race on May 27.

Best Scores in Pistol Shooting.

Competition in this city in connection with the national revolver championships was continued last night at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory. The best scores made were: Captain R. H. Sayre, 447, in the pistol championship; D. J. Gould, Jr., 443, in the revolver championship; Jacob Berson of the Canal Zone, 234, and C. L. Cammann, Jr., 242, in the pistol handicap. Tonight the police team of this city, composed of five men, will shoot at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, while the police representatives of the other cities will each shoot in their home armories in various parts of the country where the competition is being held. Last year the New York police team took third place in this competition.

FIFTY IN NEWARK STAKES.

Nominations for Junior League Racing in July Meet.

Fifty entries have been received for the two-year-old and three-year-old sweepstake races which are to be among the features of the Junior League of Amateur Driving Clubs meeting at Newark in July. The meeting will be the biggest horse race event on the program in connection with the 250th anniversary celebration. Twenty-nine colts have been named for the two-year-old race, and twenty-one for the three-year-old event.

Many high class colts have been named, and some exceptionally good racing is expected. Members affiliated with other clubs in the Junior League outside of the Road Horse Association have made the most entries. In the two-year-old race eight horses from New Jersey have been named. Eugene Schwarz and Sidney S. Schwarz will race their stable under the name of the Pastime Stables of Newark. They have entered the chestnut filly Azetta in this race. T. S. Miller and T. S. Miller, Jr., have nominated their colt Ed Jolla, while Andrew Albright, Jr., has entered the bay filly Melody. Jacob Roth of South Orange has entered two colts, and Moko Axworthy will be the starter for the R. O. Huson stable.

The entries of some speedy colts have been received for the three-year-old event. Among them is Revelry, a black gelding, owned by Horace and Ernest I. White of Syracuse. John Nicoll, the Newark horseman, has named his roan gelding Helmar, and some of the horsemen believe Helmar will be one of the real contenders for the prize. Kathleen Azoff and Poinsetta's Brothers will be the representatives of the Pastime stables.

$42,000 FOR STAKE RACES.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 14.—Purses and stakes aggregating $42,000 are offered horsemen by the New York State Fair Commission at the meeting of the Grand Circuit in Syracuse next September. The stake events are as follows:

2:08 Trot—The Empire State; purse, $10,000.
2:11 Pace—The Karnivals; $5,000.
2:24 Trot—The Kah-Noo-No; $2,000.
2:07 Pace—The Chamber of Commerce; $2,000.
2:20 Trot—The Governor's; $2,000.
2:17 Pace—The Syracuse; $2,000.
2:15 Trot—The Devereaux; $2,000.

All these events will be under the three-heat plan. The program will include seven colt races for two and three year olds, and in these events the purses aggregate $15,000.

The American Horse Breeders' Futurity for three-year-old trotters is valued at $6,000. The program of class races has not yet been arranged.

MONTCLAIR HORSE SHOW.

Saturday, June 10, Selected as Date for Annual Exhibition.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., April 14.—Announcement was made today by the Montclair Horse Show Association that its annual exhibition would be held this year on Saturday, June 10, which is earlier than heretofore. In past years the show was usually held the first week in October. In 1915, out of respect to the memory of the late J. M. Greenfield, the show was not held. Vincent S. Mulford has been chosen President of the association; the Vice Presidents are Union Noble Bethell, Andrew Morison, and I. Newton Rudgers.

New Roller Skating Record.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Roland Cioni of Pittsburgh is today the holder of the world's roller skating record for five miles. At the championship meeting held here last night he skated the distance in 13 minutes and 25 seconds, six seconds faster than the previous mark.

Eastern Clubs Trade Players.

LYNN, Mass., April 14.—A trade of players between the Lynn and Worcester Clubs of the Eastern League, by which William Carroll, a catcher, goes to Lynn and Patrick Maloney, an outfielder, to Worcester, was completed here today.

WRESTLER PASHAL LOSES ON A FOUL

The competition was so lively last night in the second round of the Metropolitan A. A. U. wrestling championships, which are being held at the Greek-American Athletic Club, in West Fifty-third Street, that one of the grapplers, P. Pashal of the Greek-American Club, got excited and deliberately poked his elbow in his opponent's face and lost the bout on a foul. Pashal was wrestling against H. Klein of the Hungarian-American A. C., and the bout was rough from the start. Pashal was disqualified after about two minutes of wrestling and poking.

J. Hiltuman of the Kaleva A. C., one of the favorites in the 145-pound class, lost his match by default. Hiltuman was runner-up in the 135-pound class in the Olympic Games at Stockholm. Few of the bouts last night were won by straight falls. Many of them went to the limit of ten minutes and were awarded on points. The decisions of the referee were in most instances received with favor.

One of the best bouts brought together C. McIntyl, unattached, and F. Giraszy of the Hungarian-American A. C. The two went at it so hard at the beginning that they tore the ropes around the mat from one of the corner posts. During the last few minutes of the match McIntyl had his opponent in the clutches of a half nelson and almost had him pinned to the mat. Giraszy managed to stay the limit, although he lost the match on points. L. Nelson of the Norwegian A. C. made short work of A. Camineris of the Greek-American Club and threw him in 2:45 with a body hold. The bouts in the 135-pound class were unusually fast. C. Carlson of the New York A. C. won from M. Shapiro of the Boys' Club in 4:35 with a body lock. The semi-finals and finals of the championships will be held tonight. The summary:

115-Pound Class.—A. Pascarella, N. Y. A. C., threw D. Ekrman, Boys Club, in 5:30; S. Goldstein, Boys Club, defeated A. Dialetis, Greek-American, on referee's decision; N. Strobbach, Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., won from S. Deutsch by default; N. Sievers, Norwegian-American A. C., defeated H. Juenge, Turn Verein, referee's decision.

145-Pound Class.—P. Pashal, Greek-American A. C., won from H. Klein, Hungarian-American A. C., on a foul; G. Romanoff, Twenty-third Street Branch Y. M. C. A., won from O. Johnson, Harlem Branch Y. M. C. A., by default; M. Kohos, Greek-American A. C., won from J. Hiltunen, Kalera A. C., by default; C. McIntyl, unattached, won from F. Giraszy, Hungarian-American A. C., referee's decision; G. Trietler, Hungarian-American A. C., won from J. Buckley, East Side Y. M. C. A., referee's decision; L. Nelson, Norwegian-American A. C., defeated A. Camineris, Greek-American A. C., in 2:45; Rudolph Carlson, Swedish-American A. C., won from E. Bohm, Kalora A. C., by default; P. Jatteman, Finnish-American A. C., defeated Lambert Neff, N. Y. C. A., in 2:42.

125-Pound Class.—C. Lijehult, Bronx Church House, won from J. George, Greek-American A. C., on referee's decision; C. Saudellis, Greek-American A. C., defeated R. Krovatz, Boys Club, on referee's decision; P. Hersch, Boys' Club, won from Ben Bernstein, Hungarian-American A. C., referee's decision; S. Cuck, Hungarian-American A. C., threw C. Mulinos, Greek-American A. C., in 2:40.

Yale and Princeton Squash.

Only one match was played in the Yale Club squash tennis tournament yesterday. In the Class C event C. E. Merrill defeated L. Connick at 15—0, 15—0.

In the Princeton Club squash tournament two matches were played yesterday. J. Taylor defeated K. G. Stern, 15—11, 9—15, 15—3, and F. R. Holland defeated R. Piel, 15—5, 15—11, in the second round of the event.

READY FOR YALE OARSMEN.

Quaker Crews Put on Final Touches for Saturday's Races.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—Pennsylvania's crews are now putting on the finishing touches for their races with Yale, now only one week away. Manager Thayer announced today that the Yale crew would arrive in Philadelphia next Tuesday night, which will give them three days to get used to the Schuylkill course before they go to the starting line on Saturday afternoon.

Coach Wright is a busy man these days. He sends his crews over the racing distance daily and watches for flaws in the eights as well as in the physical condition of each individual oarsman.

At the beginning of the week Wright decided that the junior eight was trained into condition, and therefore stopped their rowing in the morning. Several of the men in the boat, however, said they did not feel as well without the short paddle before breakfast, and, at their request, Coach Wright again started the crew on a schedule of two rows a day.

Every morning the 'varsity, junior 'varsity, and freshmen eights take a short spin and then have breakfast at the training house on Franklin Field. The afternoon workout is light and the men are not so tired after either row as they would be if they crowded all the work into the afternoon.

CYCLE TRACK IN BALL PARK.

Federal League Grounds in Brooklyn to be Home of Outlaws.

The syndicate headed by Harry Pollok has been granted a franchise by the Federation of American Cyclists for a track in Brooklyn, to be located at Washington Park, the old home of the Brooklyn National League team and last year the home of the Brooklyn Federal League club. This was one of the most important announcements made at the meeting of the professional riders' union.

The franchise was granted after the governing body had examined the lease on the property and approved the document. It was said after the meeting that all of the riders, including those who were on the verge of jumping to the Velodrome side, would remain loyal to the outlaw cause as it was apparently certain that at least one track will be built.

An agreement entered into six weeks ago between the Pollok syndicate and the Federation of American Cyclists called for the breaking of ground for tracks in Brooklyn and the Bronx April 15, but ground will not be broken today. Instead President Harold Dibblee of the F. A. C., Alf Goullet of the riders' union, and a carpenter and an architect, will meet today to draw the plans for the Brooklyn track. The actual work on the structure will not start until the plans have been completed. As a matter of fact, it is not necessary to break ground for a track at Washington Park, for the ground is smooth and level. One of the first steps will be to decide whether to build a five or a six lap track.

While it was not announced officially, a member of the riders' union stated that an immediate effort will be made to have the Boston track, in which the Cycle Racing Association owns a half interest, placed on the unfair list by Boston labor unions. The opening of the season at Boston has been scheduled for next Wednesday.

TIGER CREW GREEN, BUT SHOWS POWER

PRINCETON, N. J., April 14.—Next Thursday afternoon at about 4:30 o'clock placid Lake Carnegie will stage the opening spectacle of the 1916 season for crew races. At that time the eights of Harvard and Princeton will line up for a test of speed over the mile and seven-eighths course. Incidentally, it will be the first time that a Harvard crew has ever taken part in a race over the Princeton course. The second race of the season will follow two days later, when Yale and Pennsylvania match speed at Philadelphia.

Interest in the outcome of the Harvard-Princeton race is intense here in spite of the fact that it is scheduled to come on the second day of the Spring recess. There is no false confidence in Princeton over the outcome of the event. Harvard gets due credit for more veterans, while the lateness of the outdoor season has handicapped both eights. But the Tiger adherents feel that there is strength in their boat and something more than an outside chance for victory.

The finishing touches in preparation for the race will be received here by both crews this week. Harvard's representatives will arrive here Sunday, making their quarters at the Osborne Field House, where Princeton teams have their training tables, and will take morning and afternoon workouts on the lake. Much practice is needed to accustom the visitors to the conditions imposed by the shallow water of Lake Carnegie. It is probable that Doctor Smith will have the Tiger eights out to do double duty, also.

With six veterans on their eight, Harvard will have the edge on Princeton so far as experience goes. The latter have only two men on the eight this year who rowed last year, Captain Cochran, who is now at stroke, and Lee at No. 4. In addition, however, Gadebusch, who rowed at Ithaca in 1914, but was prevented from taking part in races last year because of illness, will be in the boat. The rest of the men are inexperienced, and one man has been developed entirely within the last two years.

Cochran, who took the stroke position when outdoor practice began, is the lightest man in the boat, weighing 158 pounds. He has pluck, a splendid stroke and strength entirely out of proportion to his size. Lee's showing will doubtless be of a high standard, and Gadebusch at No. 6 should prove an asset.

Paull at No. 7, although green, is rowing as well as any of his mates. Savage has the bow position almost cinched, in spite of the fact that this is his first appearance on the Varsity, and Ingersoll at No. 5 is another man whose inexperience is almost belied by his showing this year. Otis at No. 3 succeeds the giant Heffron and it is predicted that he will make good.

Open West Side Tennis Courts.

The dirt courts of the West Side Tennis Club, at Ninety-third Street and Amsterdam Avenue, in this city, and at Forest Hills, L. I., will be formally opened to the use of the members today. Dr. T. B. Barringer, Jr., Captain of the club, is of the opinion that the courts are in better condition than ever before this early in the season.

News of the Amateur Athletic World

After a successful tour of Norway and Denmark, during which they boxed in four of the principal Scandinavian cities, William Spengler, John Maloney, and John Karpinski, American amateur boxers, have returned aboard the liner Frederik VIII. Maloney, representing St. Rita's Catholic Club, Philadelphia, and Karpinski, the Cleveland Athletic Club, participated in four tournaments, and won all their bouts. Spengler met defeat twice in five tournaments.

The amateur boxing situation in New Jersey has started to straighten itself out so far as the A. A. U. is concerned, and nothing remains now for a successful start of the sport but the completion of police regulations. The Newark authorities have already adopted rules controlling the game, but the Jersey City police have failed as yet to decide how they will act. Under the Dugan law the authorities of the various New Jersey municipalities are empowered to make their own rules directing the sport, but all must agree that no bouts can be held without Amateur Athletic Union sanction.

Frederick W. Rubien, President of the Metropolitan Association, believes that any clubs in New Jersey making money out of amateur boxing should help amateur track and field sports in the State. He took up this matter yesterday with John O'Brien of the Warren A. C., the first club in Jersey City to secure a sanction, and O'Brien promised to promote a road race on Memorial Day.

At the last meeting of the High Schools Games Committee of the Public Schools Athletic League the question of whether schoolboys should be permitted to represent both their schools and their clubs was once more laid on the table. The attention of the committee was called to a rule adopted several years ago permitting each school to make its own rule governing this point. An addition to the eligibility code was presented stating that "a boy entering a New York City evening high or evening trade school shall be eligible to compete after twenty days." The proposed new rule will be presented at the next meeting for adoption. The high schools track and field championships, coupled with the novice relays, were set for May 27 and will be held at the Brooklyn Public Schools Athletic League field.

Local clubs have indicated that they do not want the Metropolitan A. A. U. cross-country championship contested in the Spring. During the past Winter, when a date was set for the 1915 championships, there was a long discussion regarding the merits of deciding the hill and dale contests in the Spring, and it was generally believed that such would be the case starting this year. The New York Athletic Club has been strong for this move, but the inactivity of the other clubs interested has been reflected in the junior and senior metropolitan championship committees, and nothing has been done in the matter. According to President Frederick Rubien it is improbable that championships will be arranged at this late date.

Peter Hol of the Norwegian Turn and Athletic Club, recent winner of the Metropolitan A. A. U. title for all-around gymnastics, will compete in the national tournament at Newark next month. Hol has applied for membership in the polar exploration party, which will be led by Roald Amundsen. Hol is a native of Christiania, Norway, and is an expert ski runner, holding the King's Cup in Norway for his prowess in this line.

Joseph Wheatley of the New York A. C., Duke Kahanamoku of Honolulu, and Perry McGillivray of the Illinois A. C. yesterday left here for Detroit, where they will compete tonight in a special 220-yard swimming race arranged by the Detroit Athletic Club. Herbert Vollmer, winner of the 220-yard national championship on Monday night, was unable to make the trip because of his studies. It is improbable that Vollmer will go to St. Louis next week for the 500-yard national championship to be contested at the Missouri Athletic Club, but he has arranged to compete in the 50-yard titular event in Chicago within two weeks.

The committee in charge of the New York State Amateur boxing championships, to be held at the City A. C. on next Tuesday and Thursday evenings, extended the date for the closing of entries until tonight. There has been a point trophy put up for competition, and the Trinity Club, Union Settlement A. C., Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A., New West Side A. C. and East Side House have entered their full teams.

Walter Storey of the New York Athletic Club, who, though one of the best junior short distance runners in the district, has never won a title, has taken to hurdling and is preparing to compete in the quarter-mile junior championship. He has been training under Bernie Wefers on the Columbia University track.

The Paulist Athletic Club has received a sanction to hold a novice road race of about three miles on Sunday afternoon, May 7, starting at the club house, 10 West Sixtieth Street. Entry blanks will be issued in a few days.

Regardless of weather conditions, the ten-mile bicycle road run of the Unione Sportiva Italiana will be contested tomorrow at Floral Park, starting at 10 o'clock. It was postponed last Sunday on account of snow. The race will start from the Oriental Hotel, and the course will be along Jericho Turnpike and Emerson Avenue. Fifty prizes have been offered.

Entry blanks were issued yesterday by John Bredemus, athletic director of Horace Mann School, for the first annual elementary track and field games, open to grammar schools of Westchester County, which will be held on Horace Mann field, West 246th Street and Broadway, on May 6. Ten events are listed, and a silk banner will be awarded to the school scoring the highest number of points.

The District Championship Committee of the Metropolitan A. A. U. has awarded to the Monument Athletic Club the privilege of holding a fifteen-mile walk, scratch event, to be known as the New York and New Jersey State Championship at Celtic Park, Sunday afternoon, May 7.

The leading speed skaters of the metropolitan district will contest tonight at the St. Nicholas Rink for the President's Cup, offered for a mile race by Cornelius Fellowes, President of the International Skating Union of America. The trophy must be won three times before becoming the personal property of any competitor.

There are five other races on the program, including a quarter-mile contest for women. On Tuesday night an attractive program of events will be offered at the employes' benefit. The rink will close on Wednesday night with a fancy dress and masquerade carnival.

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati has sent a silver trophy for the inter-hotel relay race at tonight's athletic meet of the Samaclar A. A. in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory. Teams from the Café Savarin, the McAlpin, and the Claridge Hotels will compete for the trophy, which will be in competition at future meets among the hotel men of the city until one team wins the cup three times and becomes the owner of it.

Eleven events will be contested in the annual inter-class track meet at Columbia University on Tuesday, April 25. Manager Walter P. Pfeiffer announced yesterday that there would be no handicaps and members of the 'Varsity track team may enter any of the competitions. The events will be 100 and 200 yard dashes, the quarter, half, mile, and two mile runs, high and broad jumps, pole vault, shot-put, and discus throw. Other meets on the Columbia outdoor track schedule are April 28 and 29, Penn relays at Philadelphia; May 6, dual meet with Brown University on South Field; May 13, dual meet with United States Naval Academy at Annapolis; May 26 and 27, intercollegiates at Cambridge, Mass.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

A rebound in prices after a further considerable decline during the morning hours of yesterday's session reflected the net result of conflicting viewpoints and forces, most of which centred around our international relations, and principally around our relations with Germany. The Mexican situation, at least, assumed no graver aspect than it presented the day before, and it was upon the prospect of a break with Germany that stocks were again sold freely at the outset of the day's trading.

The chief pressure against the market was encountered during the first hour, and thereafter for a considerable time there was no material change in the general level. As the day wore on without bringing news of any positive action by the United States, and particularly after the adjournment of the meeting of the Cabinet, stocks were repurchased in sufficient quantity to bring about a fairly vigorous upturn. This went far enough to result in net gains for the day in a majority of stocks.

A good deal of the buying which brought about this result consisted apparently of short covering by traders who had thought that the day's Cabinet meeting might bring announcement of some immediate action. When no such announcement came the likelihood of a delay before a break with Germay, if a break was to come, lessened the pressure upon the market and induced a retracing of steps of traders who had counted on a rapid fall in prices. Another consideration which played a part in this change of front on the part of traders was the belief prevalent in Stock Exchange circles that large financial interests had been taking stocks on the decline. There was less activity yesterday than on the day before, suggesting among other things that the liquidation of commission house accounts had gone far enough on Thursday and in the early trading yesterday to lessen materially the pressure from that source.

Yesterday's events did not serve to change the views of those who have believed that a break with Germany is unavoidable, but rather added to the number who took that view. On the other hand, a large part of the Street still adhered to the idea that diplomatic relations with Germany will not be severed. The existence of this division of opinion suggested to a good many traders that the market had not yet fully discounted a rupture with Germany. This view introduced another element of uncertainty in the forces controlling the market. Very many hold the view that breaking off with Germany would not cause more than a temporary unsettlement of the stock market, but this opinion had only a minor bearing on the shaping of stock market sentiment yesterday, for what was being thought of most was the immediate outlook. There traders were at the mercy of events which they could not clearly foresee. Under these conditions the brisk upturn after the previous sharp decline reflected the conflict of opinion rather than any new set of facts upon which to base a revised judgment of the market outlook.

LONDON MARKET IS STEADY.

Brisk Demand for War Stocks, Home Rails, and Colonial Bonds.

LONDON, April 14.—Money was in brisk demand and discount rates were steady today. Exchequer bonds and Treasury bills were well absorbed.

The stock market was steady, with the demand principally for war stocks, home rails, and colonial bonds. Dealings in other sections were quiet, with weakness in Argentine rails and strength in shipping shares and special mines. The general tone improved near the close on news of the British advance in Mesopotamia. American securities were affected by the political situation and closed dull and easy.

French exchange was a feature, the rate going over twenty-nine francs.

The Stock Exchange will be closed April 21, 22, and 24, Easter holidays.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Too Much Business.

Outside of the loss and annoyance to shippers and consignees entailed in railroad congestion, there is a real factor in the situation affecting the carriers. With most of the roads reporting largely increased earnings, it seems to the public that they are making about all the money that rates allow them. As a matter of fact, railroad men say, the excessive freight shipments are not spreading the profit around as evenly as lesser traffic would. A small trunk line in the South was mentioned yesterday as suffering severely because several hundred of its cars were being delayed on other roads, at terminal points and on sidings, whose places could not be filled from the equipment of connecting lines because this equipment, too, was busy.

The Mexican Uncertainty.

The risk in speculative ventures in stocks representing Mexican property has been clearly exemplified this week in the movements of Mexican Petroleum and United States Smelting shares. The latter should not properly be considered solely in the light of Mexican developments, perhaps, but the Street considered that the upturn from Monday to Wednesday was based largely on bullish rumors about the company's mineral deposits below the border. After being pushed up to well above 77 on Tuesday the stock broke down until 70½ was recorded yesterday. Mexican Petroleum on Tuesday sold above 111, and yesterday sales were reported below 100. Traders are hoping for big things in connection with these companies after quiet again falls upon Mexico, but object lessons appear now and then, showing that in the meantime purchases need to be well protected.

New Haven's Strength.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, according to bankers, does not have to apologize for the terms of the new financing which it has effected. There had been some conjecture as to whether the New Haven would have to pay 5 per cent. on its needed funds, the rate which prevailed for its short-term notes in the last two years. But the New Haven got a rate of 4½ per cent. and the bankers, as well as the railroad, seem to be satisfied with the rate. The public also appears to be satisfied, for the new notes, on a when issued basis, were bid for yesterday at above par. The lowering of the interest rate is a reflection not only of the improved condition of the bond market, but particularly of the improved credit of the New Haven road as dominated by Chairman Elliott.

What One Banker Thinks.

The question of a break with Germany was much discussed yesterday. One international banker, when asked for his opinion as to the consequences of a break, said that he did not regard them as serious. There would be a little flurry, he thought, but nothing more. The country, he said, was in a most excellent position to withstand the shock of a break of diplomatic relations. He was not worried either over the action of the security market in the last few days.

Bankers Trust—Astor Trust.

Because of the community of interest between the Bankers Trust Company and the Astor Trust Company Wall Street expects them to merge at some time, making the Astor the uptown branch of the Bankers. Shares of both companies have enjoyed a substantial rise in the last few weeks. Bankers Trust stock now sells at 465-475, an advance of 30 points in a month, while Astor shares are quoted at 450 bid, a rise of 50. It is thought that a merger would result in some economies of management, and the matter has been considered in that light from time to time, but it was learned yesterday that the question has never been put before the Executive Committee of either institution. As the principal stock holdings in both companies are in practically the same hands it will be comparatively easy to bring about a merger if it is decided that there are sufficient advantages in the scheme to make it worth while.

For New Foreign Banks.

In anticipation of the enactment of legislation permitting national banks to own stock in banks operating in foreign countries some of the leading New York institutions have been informally discussing a proposal to open an institution in South America, to be followed with the return of peace by the establishment of similar banks in Europe. There are some advantages in proceeding in this way, rather than in opening branch banks as is now permitted by the Federal Reserve act, for there are relatively few national banks large enough to provide business for their own foreign branches. The joint stock banks, on the other hand, could serve small banks in the interior on the same terms accorded the larger institutions, giving them all the advantages of foreign connections for customers engaged in the export trade.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Krech Reorganization Committee for the Western Pacific Railway has extended the time for making deposits of the railway's first mortgage bonds, under the reorganization plan and for filing agreements to the plan, until May 15.

Directors of the Atlas Powder Company announced yesterday that a part of the $9,500,000 new stock, to be authorized by shareholders at a special meeting on April 18, will be issued to provide larger working capital and to cover the company's increased investments in supplies and construction work.

Former regular soldiers and National Guard members are drilling a battalion of Consolidated Stock Exchange members and employes to take part in the Citizens' Preparedness Parade on May 13.

Herbert A. Mansfield and John U. Kirk have formed a copartnership to be known as Mansfield & Kirk. Both members of the firm have been specialists in bank and trust company stocks.

Orders for steel rails for 1917 delivery have just been placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The total amount is 205,000 tons, of which 125,000 tons are for the lines east of Pittsburgh and 80,000 tons for the lines west.

J. F. Hetherington, for twelve years associated with N. W. Halsey & Co., Chicago, and A. W. Bullard, for more than twenty-one years with E. H. Rollins & Sons in Boston, have incorporated as Bullard, Hetherington & Co., to deal in investment bonds.

Time for depositing the first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds of the Western Pacific Railway, and for the filing of agreements of subscription for the new bonds, has been extended to May 15.

The United States Mortgage and Trust Company is another institution which will give employes a month's vacation with pay to attend the Plattsburg camp.

The reorganization plan for the Minneapolis & St. Louis drawn up by the Sabin Committee has been declared operative. Time for depositing the preferred and common stock has been extended to May 15.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has authorized $4,500,000 first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent. bonds of the Cincinnati, Gas & Electric Company. A syndicate has been formed with A. B. Leach & Co. as managers, and a public offering of the bonds will be made at 99½.

The Steamship Vigilancia, 5,500 tons, has been sold to Gaston, Williams & Wigmore, Inc., to be used exclusively in the tobacco carrying trade to France. The company is shipping a heavy tonnage of wire nails to Vladivostok and 300 tons of steel rods and bars to Bordeaux.

The Central Foundry Company had gross earnings of $511,584 in 1915, and a net income of $40,409. In the preceding year there was a deficit of $164,000.

NEW HAVEN SELLS NOTES.

$25,000,000 at 4½% to be Used to Meet Others Due May 1.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has sold $25,000,000 one-year 4½ per cent. notes due May 1, 1917, to a group of bankers consisting of J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National Bank, Lee, Higginson & Co., and Kidder, Peabody & Co. These new notes, together with $2,000,000 in cash which the New Haven will provide from its treasury, will meet the $27,000,000 notes due May 1.

Holders of the $27,000,000 notes will have the first opportunity to subscribe to the new notes. The price to these holders has not yet been announced. In the event that all the notes are not subscribed for, the unsold balance will be publicly offered at par. Bids above par were reported yesterday in the open market.

The collateral for the new issue is identical with that for the issue to be retired. The old notes bore 5 per cent. interest, however, and the new notes bear only 4½ per cent. This means a saving to the New Haven of $125,000 on $25,000,000. The lower rate indicates an appreciation of the improved credit of the New Haven. The fact that the notes will be issued on a one-year basis, moreover, indicates that the New Haven's hopes for permanent financing through an issue of preferred stock may be realized in another year.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The closing tone was strong on the Consolidated Exchange. Earlier in the day there had been feverishness, with prices unsettled, the threatening character of both the Mexican situation and the submarine issue with Germany making for nervousness.

RAY COPPER HAS BEST YEAR

Net Profit for 1915 $4,589,143, or $2.92 a Share.

The Ray Consolidated Copper Company reports that 1915 was the best year in its history, total receipts amounting to $10,498,962, against $7,597,724 in the preceding twelve months. The net profit was $4,589,143, compared with $2,395,623, and the equivalent of $2.92 a share of stock. In 1914 the net income was equal to $1.64 a share.

The year's output was 60,338,936 pounds of copper, an increase of 8,334,000 pounds over the preceding year, produced at a cost of 9.478 cents a pound. The mine output in the last quarter, the best of the year, was 8,633 tons of ore a day, and the amount of copper turned out in this period was 17,195,533 pounds.

"In the latter part of the first quarter," says D. C. Jackling, Managing Director, in the annual statement, "the demand for copper improved and the output was gradually increased for the second quarter. During the third quarter labor disturbances seriously interfered with operations, and the fourth quarter was therefore the only one in which the mine output was approximately normal. At the close of the year the company's output was sold further ahead than ever before."

ASKS $697,000 FOR BANKERS

B. R. T. Subsidiary Wants P. S. Board to Allow Bond Sale Commission.

The New York Municipal Railway asked the Public Service Commission yesterday for permission to issue $697,000 of capital stock to reimburse the company for outlay in obtaining a loan of $60,000,000 for subway purposes from the Central Trust Company, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Kidder, Peabody & Co.

Timothy S. Williams, the President, stated before the Commission, that the arrangements for borrowing the $60,000,000 were submitted in 1912 to the Commission and approved.

Oliver C. Semple, assistant counsel to the Commission, said he had been through the records for 1912 and had found no formal approval of $697,000 for commissions.

Briefs are to be submitted on the legality of making bank commissions and lawyers' fees a charge against the capital stock of the company.

Banker Edward Townsend Retires.

After fifty years in the service of the Importers and Traders National Bank, Edward Townsend announced his retirement as President at a meeting of the Directors yesterday, expressing a desire to get out of active work while still young. Mr. Townsend is nearly 70 years of age. He was made Chairman of the board, a new position created for him, and H. H. Powell, cashier, was made President. E. P. Townsend, son of the retiring President, was made cashier, to succeed Mr. Powell. The board signalized Mr. Townsend's fiftieth anniversary by presenting him a watch and bouquets of American Beauty roses.

COTTON IS STEADIED BY MILLS' SHOWING

NET GAINS AT THE CLOSE

Record Consumption of the Staple Acts to Offset Effect of the Foreign Situation.

Undoubtedly the bullish showing of the Census Report on Supply and Distribution, giving record figures for American mill consumption of cotton during March, was responsible for the steady undertone of the market in the face of the serious aspects of the controversies with Germany and Mexico. Around the opening, prices were a shade lower than Thursday's closing, but the undertone was steady and prices moved up moderately before the end of the second hour. The close showed a net gain of 2 to 6 points, with near months showing the effect of scattered liquidation.

According to the Census Bureau the amount of cotton consumed by American mills during March was 613,625 bales, a new high record, which compares with 540,000 bales in February, and 524,000 bales in March of last year. The total consumption for the eight months up to April 1 was 4,228,990 bales, against 3,578,054 bales for the same period last year. The consumption of linters was placed at 80,905 bales for the month, against 33,234 in March of last year. The total consumption of linters this year was 635,000, against 224,000 last year. Stocks of cotton in possession of American mills were placed at 1,900,000, against 1,741,000 last year. The stock of cotton in public warehouses and compresses was placed at 3,410,000 bales, against 3,374,000 last year.

Among the items of gossip in reference to the new crop was a rumor to the effect that the National Ginners' Association would issue a report soon showing an increase of about 9 per cent. in the acreage of the new crops as compared with last year. There was no particular change in Southern spot markets, although New Orleans sent one or two messages laying stress on the continued good demand. Sales at New Orleans amounted to 3,900, while Memphis reported 3,000 bales.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange the amount of cotton brought into sight for the week was 128,714 bales, against 254,662 last year. The total for the season was 10,933,556, against 13,895,078 bales. Spinners' takings of American cotton for the week amounted to 236,833 bales, against 394,324 bales last year.

Southern spot markets, as officially reported, were unchanged, with Augusta 6 points decline, and Mobile 7 points decline. The local market for spot cotton was quiet and unchanged, with middling at 11.95c. Futures closed steady.

GREAT BUSINESS ACTIVITY.

Commenting on the condition of trade and the business of the banks, Dun's Review says:

> Business in various lines has already outgrown productive facilities and in many cases it is difficult, if not impracticable, to obtain urgently needed supplies with which to fill consumers' requirements. In an effort to meet the exigencies of the situation manufacturers utilize all available equipment and strive to augment working forces; yet they are handicapped by the shortage of men and of materials, as well as by strikes that temporarily check operations at numerous points. The transportation problem also continues a hindrance, though deliveries are now effected somewhat more promptly and the re-establishment of a surplus in idle freight cars indicates that headway is being made in bettering traffic conditions.
> Clearings through the banks indicate the prevalence of unprecedented business activity in all parts of the country, the total this week at the principal cities in the United States amounting to $4,034,430,053, an increase of 33.5 per cent. as compared with $3,021,801,927 of the same week last year, and of 46.5 per cent., as contrasted with the $2,754,448,705 reported for the corresponding week in 1914.

Bradstreet's says:

> While retail trade is a victim of irregular weather, the approach of Easter stimulates demand for articles deemed to be fixed requirements of that season. Moreover, wages continue to advance, voluntary increases being made to avert strikes, savings deposits keep on increasing, railway traffic is heavy, the car supply is somewhat better, dividends prosper, and manufactures that prior to the war were virtually monopolized by central European countries are being developed here on a large scale.

STUDIED EUROPE'S BANKS.

Gov. Strong of Federal Reserve Back with New Ideas.

Benjamin Strong, Jr., Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, was at his office yesterday after an absence of ten weeks, most of which time he spent in London and on the Riviera. Mr. Strong sailed on the Rotterdam with J. P. Morgan, but he said yesterday that that was only a coincidence, and that he went abroad mainly for recreation. It was his first holiday in two years.

Mr. Strong said that while in Paris and London he spent considerable time investigating bank methods in matters of interest in connection with the development of the Federal Reserve Banks, particularly the handling of checks and domestic exchange and, generally, the handling of bills.

Through the courtesy of bankers of those cities Mr. Strong obtained information from a number of the important banks, studied their methods and acquainted himself particularly with the operations of the London Clearing House. He said he had made a special study of methods in England and France of handling country checks, the result of which he expected to present at the meeting of the Governors of the Reserve Banks, to be held in Washington next week.

Mr. Strong denied that his trip was in any way connected with negotiations for loans or the repurchase of American securities.

N. L. AMSTER WINS APPEAL.

Obtains Right to Examine Former Rock Island Directors.

By the terms of a decision handed down yesterday by the Appellate Division, N. L. Amster of Boston, Director of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, will have the right to examine the Rock Island Directors of the old Reid Moore régime, who are defendants in the Amster suit for restitution. The suit involves claims of $7,500,000. It is the purpose of Mr. Amster, through his attorneys, Samuel Untermyer and Stroock & Stroock, to begin the examinations as soon as possible.

The lower court held that Mr. Amster was not entitled to examine the defendant Directors before trial. This was reversed by the Appellate Division. The defendants then sought leave to take their case to the Court of Appeals, and this plea was denied in yesterday's decision of the Appellate Division.

It is expected that all of the eight Directors who were made parties to the Amster suit will be examined. Jacob M. Dickinson, as receiver of the Rock Island System, has been made a party in the Amster proceedings against the ex-Directors.

Pulleyn Heads Emigrant Bank.

John J. Pulleyn, for fourteen years controller of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, has been chosen President to succeed the late Thomas M. Mulry. Mr. Pulleyn was formerly with the New York Life Insurance Company, of which he is still a Trustee. He is also a member of the Advisory Board of the Washington branch of the Corn Exchange Bank, and is active in many charities. He was a member of the committee for the revision of the banking laws in 1914, and is recognized as an authority on savings bank legislation.

LIMA LOCOMOTIVE CORPORATION

To the Stockholders:

All the preferred stock and a very large majority of the common stock of Lima Locomotive Corporation having been deposited, the Readjustment Committee has this day declared operative the Plan and Agreement of Readjustment dated March 15th, 1916. In order to afford the remaining holders of common stock who have not deposited an opportunity to participate in the benefits of the Plan, the time for receiving deposits and for receiving subscriptions for preferred stock of the New Company under the Plan is hereby extended until the close of business on MONDAY, MAY 1st, 1916. All depositors who have hitherto subscribed for such preferred stock and have made the first payment thereon are hereby required to pay the balance of their subscriptions, namely, $85 per share, to the Depositary on or before said date. All stockholders who deposit their shares and subscribe in respect thereof during the time hereby extended are required to pay the full amount of the subscriptions for new preferred stock, namely, $90 per share, at the time of depositing. All payments will be noted by the Depositary upon the Certificates of Deposit, and all deposits and payments must be made before the close of business on the said first day of May, 1916.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Notice is hereby given that a special meeting of the Stockholders of The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company has been called by the Board of Directors of said Company, to be held at the principal office of the Company in the City of Richmond, Virginia, on Saturday, the 22nd day of April, 1916, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the following purposes:

(a) to consent to, approve and authorize an increase of the authorized common capital stock of the Company by the addition thereto of stock in the par amount of $55,000,000, to be divided into 550,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, so as to make the total authorized par amount of such common capital stock $155,000,000, consisting of 1,550,000 shares of the par value of $100 each;

(b) to authorize the creation of an issue of convertible bonds of the Company, to be known as its Five Per Cent. Convertible Thirty-Year Secured Gold Bonds, to be limited to a principal amount of not exceeding $40,180,000 at any one time outstanding, such bonds to be issued, from time to time, either as coupon bonds of the denominations of five hundred dollars and one thousand dollars, or as registered bonds of the denominations of five hundred dollars and one thousand dollars and of any multiple or multiples of one thousand dollars that the Board of Directors of the Company, by resolution, may from time to time prescribe, such bonds to be payable, both principal and interest, in gold coin of the United States of America of or equal to the present standard of weight and fineness, and to bear such date or dates, to be convertible at the option of the holder into common stock of the Company at such prices (which may be less than par) and upon such terms, and to be secured by the pledge of First Lien and Improvement Twenty-Year Five Per Cent. Mortgage Bonds of the Company to such amount, as said Board may determine and as may be provided in any trust indenture approved by said Board under which such convertible bonds may be issued; such bonds and such indenture to contain such provisions as to security, conversion, redemption, maturity and otherwise as said Board may determine and such indenture to contain appropriate provision to the end that the Company may, in its discretion, extend the maturity of any of its First Lien and Improvement Twenty-Year Mortgage Bonds to a date not later than April 1, 1946;

(c) to approve the form and terms of such bonds and of such indenture; to authorize the issue and disposition of such bonds; to authorize so much of such additional stock, as may be required, to be reserved and set aside and used solely for the conversion of such bonds, and to authorize the residue of said $55,000,000 additional of said common stock to be issued from time to time as said Board may, in the exercise of its lawful discretion, determine;

(d) to ratify and confirm such action theretofore taken or authorized by said Board, in anticipation of such action of the Stockholders, as may be submitted to the meeting; and

(e) to transact such other business as may properly be brought before the meeting.

The stock transfer books of the Company will be closed for said meeting on Monday, the 3rd day of April, 1916, at 3 o'clock P. M., and will be reopened on Monday, the 24th day of April, 1916, at 10 o'clock A. M.

$425,518 AMOUNT INVOLVED

Attorney General Said to be Safeguard That Purposes of Charter Are Carried Out.

Whether a corporation chartered "to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world" could be used as a subterfuge to evade the transfer tax law, and under which private business might be transacted, was the point at issue in the argument of counsel held yesterday morning before Surrogate John P. Cohalan, to determine whether bequests of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller to the Rockefeller Foundation, the Bureau of Social Hygiene, and other Rockefeller institutions were to be exempt from the transfer tax.

Mrs. Rockefeller left about $1,500,000. Her residuary estate amounted to about $900,000, of which $425,518.10 has been turned over to the Rockefeller Foundation.

George W. Murray of Murray, Prentice & Howland, and William R. Conklin of Conklin & Reid appeared as representatives of the Rockefeller Foundation and as counsel for the executors of Mrs. Rockefeller's will. Starr J. Murphy of John D. Rockefeller's personal staff was also present. Schuyler C. Carlton represented the State Controller. The action was brought by Lafayette B. Gleason, special attorney for the State, who on Feb. 21 asked for an appeal from the appraisal of Joseph W. Spencer, who decided that the bequests in question were exempt from payment of the tax.

The brief filed by Mr. Carlton argued that the purposes of the Rockefeller Foundation "are extremely vague, and covered every branch of activity which human ingenuity can think of for the purpose of promoting what to the minds of its officers shall seem the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

"Research could be carried out," the brief says, "as to whether the Legislature were properly doing its duty; whether the breeding of silver foxes in Canada were proper; whether the culture of tea should not be improved; whether the manufacture of a substitute for coffee would not improve the health of the world; whether the miners of Colorado could not be helped by an improved miners' light or by rest rooms; whether a cheaper form of gasoline or a substitute for it could be found. The work of the German Government in the production of cheaper dyes has been found for the advantage of mankind. The investigation for a cheaper form of light by Mr. Edison has greatly benefited the world, and, as is well known, the advance of education since the improvement of lighting for reading or research work at night has advanced civilization, and the welfare of mankind in every direction.

Has Acted as Trust Company.

Following out the same line, the activities of the City Club or the Citizens Union or any political method in the discretion of the trustees might be engaged in as another corporation did, or its Directors did, as found in a well-known insurance case. In addition, under its powers as it has construed them it has engaged in the business of a trust company, and has been substituted under certain trusts of which the Equitable Trust Company of New York was formerly trustee."

This allusion referred to the thirty Colorado Industrial Company 5 per cent. bonds which Mrs. Rockefeller in November, 1913, gave to the Rockefeller Foundation, their income to go to the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church of Cleveland, Ohio, as long as it was wise to so use the income in the judgment of the Foundation. If the Foundation discontinued paying the income to the church, Mrs. Rockefeller was to be notified, and if she did not give directions for redistributing the income of the bonds within three months, the Foundation was to redistribute the income at its own discretion.

Mr. Carlton asked that the gifts to the Foundation be subject to the tax, as the Foundation could not be considered a strictly charitable institution. He explained that the report of the Foundation for 1913 showed that its income was $1,400,000, and that only $240,000 was spent, the remainder being invested. This, he explained, a charitable institution could not do under the law, inasmuch as it must spend all of its income.

Mr. Murray replied that in 1914 the Foundation had given $1,000,000 to the Belgian Relief Fund. He added: "The charter determines whether or not a corporation is charitable; other evidence of its character should be excluded."

Says Foundation Is Charity.

In maintaining that the Rockefeller Foundation and the other seven corporations mentioned in the sixteenth section of Mrs. Rockefeller's will were charitable institutions, he argued that "if the testator intended a gift to charity the courts should not only sustain the validity of the gift, but should endeavor to save the gift from taxation; the presumption is in favor of exemption."

In stating that Mrs. Rockefeller left most of her estate to charity, Mr. Murray asserted "she meant to, at any rate," adding, "she tried to," and to support this contention he showed that of the money left by Mrs. Rockefeller more than half had already been distributed for charitable purposes, as follows:

To the Women's Baptist Home Mission Society	$100,000
To the Women's Baptist Foreign Mission Society	300,000
To the Bureau of Social Hygiene	75,000
To the Rockefeller Foundation, the balance of the residuary estate	425,518

As to the possibility that the funds of the Foundation might be used for other purposes than those intended by the charter, Mr. Murray explained that there was still another safeguard in the Attorney General, whose duty it is to see that the purposes of the charter are carried out. The real question before the court, he said, was whether the Rockefeller Foundation was a charity. That it was a charity, he argued, was proved by numerous definitions given in different cases which he cited.

Surrogate Cohalan reserved decision.

MORE MUNITION MEN STRIKE

National Conduit and Cable Co. Now Has 1,700 Workers Idle.

Special to The New York Times.

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, N. Y., April 14.—The strike which began yesterday at the Hastings plant of the National Conduit and Cable Company, when 700 men in the munitions shops went out for a 20 per cent. increase of wages, spread today to the rod and sheet mills, when 600 more men quit. In all, 1,700 workers are affected, as 400 employes whose labor depends upon the output of the rod and sheet mills were made idle.

Sheriff Weisandanger addressed a meeting of 500 strikers this afternoon and cautioned them against disorder. Leaders of the strikers said tonight that if the demands were not granted a walkout of the 3,500 workers in the plant would be ordered.

THE GERMAN CASE AGAINST GERMANY.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT.

Difficulties of the Ribbon and Carbon Paper Makers.

After an all-day discussion held at the Hotel Astor the Ribbon and Carbon Paper Manufacturers' Association, at its regular April meeting yesterday, failed to find any solution for the scarcity of materials, or for alleviation of present soaring prices. A. L. Foster of the Manifold Supplies Company, Brooklyn, President of the association, presided at the meeting, which was largely attended by the leading factors in the trade. All sections of the country were represented, it being estimated that 90 per cent. of the total membership was present.

J. W. Davis of the Neidich Process, Burlington, N. J., reported that castor oil had risen 150 per cent. over normal prices, with no certainty of deliveries. The dyestuff situation was growing more serious daily, while other materials were harder to get each week.

E. A. Brecher, Secretary-Treasurer of the association, said:

"We have received no German dyes of the kind used in our trade since March, 1915. No American dyes that apply to our industries, with one exception, are to be had. To make matters worse speculators are holding some supplies, but at prices ranging from 3,000 to 5,000 per cent. above normal. In dyes, as in other materials needed, we are trying to help out each other whenever possible, but this doesn't amount to much. Paper going into the manufacture of carbon papers is scarce, with soaring prices due to the shutting off of cotton rag imports from abroad. Of foreign papers, not more than 10 per cent. are now coming in. As a matter of fact, domestic papers are up anywhere from 50 to 200 per cent."

Mr. Brecher went on to say that cotton rags selling before the war at 4½ cents per pound now brought 9 cents, an advance of 100 per cent., and that no item entering into the manufacture of the association's members' products had advanced less than 40 per cent., while some items had risen as much as several thousand per cent. since the last meeting held in January. Paper materials, he said, had gone up anywhere from 30 to 5,000 per cent. The Secretary-Treasurer said that nobody at the meeting saw any relief in sight. The next meeting will be held in October unless conditions require calling a special meeting.

JADE INCENSE BURNER, $975.

The first afternoon's sale of the collection of fine old Chinese porcelains, jades, &c., of the late Edward Wasserman of this city was held at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon, the returns for the first 239 numbers being $15,052. E. I. Farmer paid the highest price of the afternoon for No. 70 of the catalogue, a caldron-shaped white jade incense burner with dragon head handles, dome cover and low feet, $975.

Of other more important pieces W. E. Lauer paid $240 for No. 64, a translucent white jade wine pot; Rowland Moore gave $430 for No. 67, an unusual white jade pitcher in ancient bronze form; a beaker vase of grayish white translucent jade, 9¼ inches high, No. 69, went to Edward Getz for $410; No. 71, a grayish white jade vase, 10 inches high, with the branches of a blossoming plum tree in the jade encircling it, went to A. O. Levy for $300, and No. 72, a 9½-inch white jade vase with cover, went to the same buyer for $310.

A pair of Ch'ien-lung Peking enamel vases, hexagonal, 15½ inches high, No. 79, went to G. Town for $420; Francis R. Welsh paid $580 for No. 80, a pair of Japanese carved ivory tusk vases, 14½ inches high; No. 75, a statuette of Buddha, in natural stone, with veins of lapis-lazuli, outer surface colored to represent lapis-lazuli, went to Lorenz, agent, for $280. No. 137, a blue and white snuff bottle, went to A. G. Henderson for $160, and Rowland Moore paid $165 for No. 175, a cylindrical snuff bottle, K'ang-hsi period, glazed in light leaf green and decorated in black with conventional borders around neck, shoulder, and base.

The sale will be concluded this afternoon, when single color and other porcelains will be sold.

SIEGEL CO. IS CHARTERED.

Lease of Broadway Store Expected to be Signed Today.

A stock company formed by the friends of Henry Siegel was incorporated at Albany yesterday under the name of the Emporium Cloak and Suit Company.

It is to be capitalized at $200,000 of preferred stock and 1,000 shares of common stock with no value. The identity of those associated with Siegel in the enterprise was not disclosed. It is understood that negotiations for a lease of a part of the ground floor of the Johnson Building at Broadway and Thirty-fifth Street have been completed, and that the final papers will be signed today. Siegel will manage the new concern, and his attorneys, Stanchfield and Levy, said that he expected to issue a statement through them today.

DOUBLE OUR SALES TO SOUTH AMERICA

City Bank's Figures Show Daily Exports Now Have a Value of $1,500,000.

$97,396,826 IN 7 MONTHS

Trade between the United States and South America is breaking all previous records, as it now averages $1,500,000 a day, and far exceeds that in any previous year. According to figures made public yesterday by the Foreign Trade Department of the National City Bank of New York, this trade in the seven months ending with January averaged $1,414,000 a day, and in the single month of January $1,702,000 a day.

The bank's report showed that the increase was in both exports and imports. The total value of merchandise exported to South America in the seven months referred to was $97,396,826, compared with $53,083,940 in the same months of 1910, and $44,282,366 in the corresponding months of 1906, having thus more than doubled in the ten-year period. Imports from South America were $207,179,653 against $83,010,000 in 1906, having also more than doubled in the period in question. In the single month of January, 1916, the exports to South America were more than double those of the corresponding month of 1915, and for the seven months ending with January were also more than double those of the corresponding months of 1915, which was a period of exceptionally low imports by the South American countries.

The report, commenting on the extraordinary gains in trade, said:

This large increase in our exports to South America, which are now larger than in the corresponding period in any earlier year, occurs in practically all classes of manufactures, for manufactures form about 90 per cent. of our exports to that continent. Cotton cloth, for example, shows a total of 43,000,000 yards, against 15,000,000 yards in the corresponding months of 1915, and 23,000,000 yards in the same months of 1914. This increase in the movements of cotton cloths occurs in the exports to practically all of the South American countries and the total, it will be noted, is nearly three times as great as in 1915 and double that of 1914.

Large gains are shown in the report covering shipments from here of coal, agricultural implements, binder twine, wrought iron pipes, iron sheets and plates, tinplate, barbed wire, boots and shoes, illuminating and lubricating oils, printing paper, and lumber. Imports from South America also showed large increases, especially in coffee, cacao, rubber and nitrates, while meats and corn showed a decline.

BRITISH RATES ARE LOWER.

Reductions Already Reflect the Action of the Government.

LONDON, March 30, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Government action in the matter of reducing freight rates is apparent in most directions of the marаket, and fears are entertained by those who are reaping a harvest in sections hitherto untouched by Government measures that their turn will soon come for a scaling downward in quotations.

The most notable reduction is in the River Plate market, where, instead of 176 shillings a ton being paid to bring maize to Europe, only 115 shillings is said to be obtainable. North American markets also are easier.

These lower rates apply only to British steamers, as the authorities have no control over neutral tonnage, but some move is contemplated in order to bring neutrals into line by restricting insurance and bunkering facilities. The requisitioning of German steamers by Portugal has already relieved the scarcity of tonnage somewhat, and several of these boats are on voyage for the Allies with much-needed pit-props.

Certain sections of the shipping world are optimistic regarding the Dardanelles being free for Russian shipments before the end of the year, and discuss the possibility of laden steamers leaving Black Sea ports for the Mediterranean and United Kingdom in August. No cargoes of grain have as yet been sold for shipment from that direction, but it is considered significant that some of the biggest merchants on the Baltic are offering stocks of American, Australian and Argentine cereals rather freely. There are now locked up in the Black Sea vessels with tonnage aggregating 200,000.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Fabrics, Books, and Tools Among the Things Considered.

McKesson & Robbins were upheld by the Board of General Appraisers yesterday in the contention that cotton wash cloths were properly dutiable at 25 per cent. under the specific provision in the tariff for such goods. The Appraiser reported the merchandise to be cotton terry cloth with the result that the Collector returned it for duty at 40 per cent. as "cotton pile fabrics." This action was reversed.

The board denied a claim by the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Company, St. Louis, for a reduction on the assessed duty taken on linen fabrics. The Collector classified the goods as manufactures of flax and exacted duty at 35 per cent., whereas the importers asked entry at 30 per cent. as plain woven fabrics. Judge Cooper reached the conclusion the merchandise was not plain woven within the meaning of the law, and affirmed the Collector.

A dispute between Mrs. Nicholas J. Walsh and the Collector at Cleveland was settled in favor of the protestant. The goods consisted of gowns made in chief value of wool. There was, however, considerable trimming on the apparel, this leading the Collector to exact 60 per cent. as appliqued wearing apparel. Judge Hay said the articles were not appliqued as that word was understood in the tariff, and gave entry at 35 per cent. as wool wearing apparel.

It was decided that fifty-two volumes of Thackeray's works imported by the Grolier Society of New York were properly free of duty under the provision for "books which shall have been printed more than twenty years at the date of importation." The Collector was reversed in taking 15 per cent. as "books not specially provided for."

Alfred Suter and Amerman & Patterson imported machines composed in chief value of metal and used in cleaning the reeds of a loom machine by means of bristle brushes. Duty was levied at 20 per cent. as manufactures in chief value of metal not specially provided for. The claim was for duty at 15 per cent. as "machine tools." The machines were driven by other than hand power, and were equipped with two circular bristle brushes which, revolving at the rate of 1,200 revolutions per minute and moving up and down over the surface of the brass reeds, cleans and polishes them. Judge Fischer, overruling the contention, said "Paragraph 165 defines a machine tool to mean 'any machine operated by other than hand power which employs a tool for working on metal.' A brush may be an implement, but it is hardly a tool in the sense that term is used in the tariff act."

$5,000,000 FOR ROCK ISLAND

Amster Says He Has Received That, and $25,000,000 Is in Sight.

N. L. Amster, Chairman of the Stockholders Protective Committee of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, and Chairman of the Executive Committee under the receivership, issued a statement in Boston last night in which he said that in less than a week from the time his plan had been mailed to stockholders he had already received approximately $5,000,000 in subscriptions, with as much more in sight.

"It is now quite evident," said Mr. Amster, "that if stockholders are given sixty or ninety days they will furnish the company with $25,000,000, which will take it out of receivership and put it on its feet without the club that Wall Street interests claim is necessary to be used on stockholders in the way of foreclosure sales and threats. Of course, the last day when the $500,000 debenture interest must be paid in order to prevent the $20,000,000 maturing in 1932 from becoming due and payable at once, expires tomorrow, Saturday, and if paid will give stockholders plenty of time to carry through their entire plan."

Wool Prices Hardening.

NEW YORK CENTRAL INCOME $167,912,233

SURPLUS JUMPS $18,353,226

Freight Revenue Increases $14,195,000, but Passenger Traffic Has $303,000 Loss.

The first annual report of the New York Central Railroad Company since the consolidation of the New York Central & Hudson River, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, and nine smaller roads was issued yesterday for the year ended Dec. 31 last. The consolidated company earned a surplus available for dividends of $27,711,473, or 11 per cent, on the $249,711,473 of stock, as against 3.7 per cent. in 1914. The increase in the surplus over the previous year was $18,353,226.

Railway revenues were $167,912,233, as against $152,351,589, and the gross income, including revenues from other sources showed an increase of $21,144,000. The freight revenue for the year increased $14,195,000, but passenger traffic did not recover from the depression, and showed a loss of $303,000. However, trains moving mail, express, and milk earned $1,035,000 more than in 1914. Operating expenses, despite the greatly increased business, decreased $3,954,000.

Better operating results were shown in several departments. The average haul increased 12 miles, trainloads averaged 101 tons more, and carloads 1 ton larger. Passenger train miles were reduced 2,792,461. The ratio of operating expenses to gross revenue was only 65.1 per cent. last year, as compared with 74.4 per cent. in 1914.

President A. H. Smith says that the extra crew laws of the various States require an annual expenditure for the employment of extra men in train crews of about $700,000. The officers consider this expenditure unnecessary, using funds which might otherwise be used to good advantage in improving transportation facilities and service.

Negotiations have been conducted for the lease and construction of five new buildings over the Grand Central Terminal area. Work on the incoming station and upper level is deferred, owing to business conditions. The new subway station is expected to be completed by the end of the year 1916 and assurances have been received from the New York City authorities that the contracts will be awarded for building the bridge over Forty-second Street, so that it will be completed at the time the subway is put into operation.

DRY GOODS PRICES FIRM.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 14.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade say:

"Wholesale distribution of dry goods for the week is much in excess of the corresponding period of past years. Road sales continue to exceed those of a year ago for both immediate and Fall deliveries.

"More customers have been in the market during the week. Collections are ahead of the same period last year. Prices are firm."

WHEAT.

The wheat market was very feverish yesterday and prices were subject to quick changes both ways. At the outset there was a moderate reaction owing to scattered selling on heaviness abroad and nervousness on the part of longs, but it was thought that Thursday's selling movement had relieved the market of an overburdensome long interest, and leading commission houses took a more aggressive stand on the buying side. This demand sent prices up over 2 cents a bushel, but during the afternoon there was a very quick reaction, and while final prices were about 1⅛c above the lowest they were ⅛c net lower to ⅝c higher and considerably below the high of the morning. On the local cash market No. 1 durum was quoted at $1.33½; No. 2 hard, $1.30½; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.39½; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.40, free on board, New York.

CORN.

The corn market was moderately active and showed a steady undertone, closing with net gains of ¼@⅜c. There was some disposition to anticipate bearish developments in connection with the May position at Chicago, but offers during the day were readily taken and the absorbing power was a surprise to the bears. Liverpool was firm and some authorities here are inclined to anticipate a better export demand. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at 86½@86⅝c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was feverish and price changes were confined within a narrow range, closing net unchanged to ⅜c higher. The local cash market was quiet; standard quoted at 51@51¾c; No. 3 white, 50@50½c; No. 4 white, 49@49½c; fancy clipped white, 52½@53½c; ordinary clipped white, 49½@51c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was moderately active, and prices were firmer owing to an advance in the price of live hogs, and on reports of a better cash demand, especially for lard. Packers were said to be good buyers in the West, and while there was considerable profit taking on the part of longs, offers were well absorbed. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 17,000; estimated for Saturday, 13,000; Kansas City received 3,000 and Omaha 9,800.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was firm early in the day on covering prompted by the strength in lard, but subsequently prices eased off under liquidation, and at the close were 1@12 points net lower. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market was narrow and price changes were easily influenced by a comparatively small volume of business. Early in the day the undertone was easy and prices declined 2 to 5 points, influenced to some extent by nervousness over the political situation and under scattered selling by trade interests. Toward the close, however, early sellers took the buying side and final quotations were at the best of the day, although 1 to 3 points net lower. The local spot market was inactive and unchanged, with Rio 7s quoted at 9⅝c and Santos 4s at 10½c.

SUGAR.

The market for sugar futures was moderately active and prices were firm, closing net unchanged to 6 points higher. Some of the active positions sold at new high records for the season, and sentiment in the market was distinctly bullish owing to the strength in the spot position and reports that Europe was buying more raw sugar in Cuba. Longs, however, were disposed to take profits on the advance, and this served to hold values within a narrow range, especially as buyers were not disposed to advance the market to above a parity with the spot position. The local market for raw sugar was quieter today, and in the absence of new business spot prices remained nominally unchanged at 6.02c for centrifugal, 5.25c for molasses, and 5c for Cubas, cost and freight. The undertone was strong and offerings were light, with holders generally asking 5$\frac{1}{16}$@5⅛c for Cubas, cost and freight. Late Thursday there were sales of 25,000 bags of Cubas to a local refiner at 5⅛c, cost and freight, equal to 6.08c for centrifugal.

There was a moderate inquiry from domestic distributers for granulated sugar, and prices were firm and unchanged at 7.15@7.25c for fine granulated. Exporters were again in the market for supplies, and further moderate quantities were sold at 6.10c, free on board, New York.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,119 packages. A great deal of the delayed stock came in late Thursday afternoon and yesterday morning, and, with buyers holding off to a large extent, prices declined ½@¾c. At the lower rates a moderate amount of business is being done, mostly in a regular way. The feeling, however, is unsettled at the present writing. EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 27,396 cases. The market continues generally quiet on the average offerings, although there is still a fair demand for unusually good size clean eggs for the approaching holiday trade; prices for such are held fairly steady, but the market is easy on average offerings. Nearby white eggs are rather quiet, and most receivers report some tendency toward accumulation. Buyers at top figures are more critical, and a larger part of the supply has to be shaded anywhere from ½@2c, according to size and color. Duck eggs, of fancy quality, are in good demand, and firm; mixed lots and undergrades move out slowly. ⁂

To Parade for Preparedness.

The woolen and worsted trade is another branch to be added to the list of industries that are organizing their members for the Preparedness Parade to be held on May 13. In a letter that will reach the different selling offices today the woolen men will be urged to join in the movement for adequate defense by enlisting in the detachment that will represent the industry in the parade next month. The Silk Association of America has appointed various committees to take charge of the work in that branch. The silk men estimate that 5,000 of them will march.

Rope Unsafe to Use.

Referring to the experience of Commissioners of the District of Columbia with poor rope, recently published in THE TIMES, a manufacturer states that there should be a law to prevent the sale of rope that jeopardizes the lives of men using it. A rope was delivered to this manufacturer the outside of which was very carefully spun, but the inner strands, to use his words, were "simply unmentionable as to quality of the fibres used." The piece of rope referred to (it was a 1⅝-inch size) broke, and it was only by the merest chance that three men escaped with their lives. The manufacturer in question has been advised that the maker of this rope is now selling his spinnings to movers of safes.

Complaint of Unfair Practices.

In the opinion of dress goods selling agents the local buyers have little reason to complain of unfair dealing on the part of the mills. In the past the garment manufacturers in this market have paid little respect to the contracts they have made with sellers, and their complaints now receive little consideration. It is different with the Cleveland manufacturers, and dress goods sellers lend a respectful ear to what the manufacturers in that city have to say. The Cleveland manufacturers have a reputation for standing by the orders and living up to the terms of their contracts. The mill representatives are anxious, therefore, to correct the impression in that market that unfair practices have been carried on by the mills.

Manufacturers of women's McKays and welts are now caught up with their shipments and are welcoming "at once" orders, on which they are promising delivery in three or four weeks. Turn shoes are still hard to get, both on account of the scarcity of wooden heels and the heavy business that has been placed on this class of goods. Makers of men's shoes are also busy, prices having been advanced somewhat, with indications of still further advances in the near future. While it is still too early to tell with any degree of certainty what percentage of women's footwear to be sold this Summer will be high cuts, present indications presage that high shoes will again be favored. While the demand for solid-color kid shoes has not yet been satisfied, natty combination colored-top shoes are already in the market and selling well.

Burlaps Are Very Quiet.

Business in the burlap trade this week has been conspicuous chiefly because of its absence. What little there has been has been done on lightweight goods. So limited has business been generally that prices are easier and very largely nominal on all weights, running about as follows on spot and near-by 40-inch goods: 7½-ounce, 7.65c; 8-ounce, 7.75c; 10-ounce, 10¼c, and 10½-ounce, 10½c. One thing that has been hampering business to considerable extent is the holding up of foreign mail, receipts of which are few and far between from all accounts. While the British Government has accepted the Textile Alliance plan for importing Dundee burlaps, it is said here that no shipping licenses have been granted for some time. The strike of the jute workers in Dundee is still on, though reports indicate that some of the men have gone back.

Gray Goods Inquiry Improves.

While there was no great change in the actual yardage disposed of, there was a little better inquiry for gray goods in this market yesterday. Buyers were asking about 27-inch 64-60s, while nearby deliveries of 39-inch 56-44s and 38½-inch 60-48s were also under question. The prices bid for the goods were not mentioned. A better inquiry for sheetings was also told of, principally from the Western bag makers, who were after 40-inch goods in weights ranging from 3.50s to 4.25s. The latter goods seem most in demand, and they are firmly held at 5⅞c. Other sheeting business for the day included May-June sales of 5.50s at 4¾ cents. Prices on printcloths continued very firm at these levels:

They Don't Like the Method.

Complaint is general among exporters of cotton goods in this market concerning the way the import embargo recently declared by Great Britain on several kinds of merchandise has been carried out. It is said here that no effort was made by the British authorities to notify shippers that an embargo was planned, and the latter complain that all their information has come through the press and the steamship companies. Had other means been adopted, or had the shippers been given a chance to argue their side of the case, it is believed that a great deal of the present trouble and uncertainty could have been avoided. Even now there is no great amount of clear-cut information available about the embargo and its possibilities. Apropos of the embargo, it was said yesterday that a certain concern has had cotton goods lying in storage here since October that are consigned to Egypt. There is apparently no safe way of getting them through, since the route via Greece has become uncertain.

The Embargo Is Serious.

Business in the export end of the local cotton goods trade is being affected more adversely by the embargo recently put on imports of such goods into Great Britain than was generally supposed at first would be the case. No licenses have been granted of late for shipment of goods from this port, and as a result the merchandise is piling up here very rapidly. Some of the goods are said to be consigned, indirectly, to the British Government itself. In addition to the piling up of stocks here, there has been a noticeable diminution in the orders placed on several kinds of cottons for British destination in the last week, in which the decline in the call for duck and other heavy cottons has been a feature. On the other hand, there has been some improvement in the demand for lightweight sheetings from Eastern markets and from the antipodes, while with Latin America, the West Indies, the Philippines, and neutral European countries a nice business has been done on bleached and colored cottons.

Colored Cottons in Demand.

Ginghams, both staple and fancy, continue to hold a good part of the attention of buyers of colored cotton goods in this market, the former especially so. The higher prices that have been put on them in the last few weeks have evidently brought buyers to realize more quickly than anything else that they have got to act quickly or be left out. The buying of fine ginghams for the shirt trade is also noticeable. Prints are seasonably active where they can be found in desirable quantities and shades, but buyers are said in some instances not to be overpleased with the assortments available. In madras, plaids and other goods of lighter weight that come under the head of colored fabrics the situation is about the same. Business is not booming on tickings, denims, &c., buyers of denims especially being said to be wary of cloths that are not sold under a guarantee as to color. In spite of this the mills for the most part are so well covered that they can book no orders for delivery within the next four or five months.

Conditioning Company Officers.

Emil J. Stehli was elected President of the United States Conditioning and Testing Company at a meeting of the Board of Directors held yesterday at 340 Hudson Street. Richard Von Briesen was made Vice President, while Ramsay Peugnet was elected Secretary and Treasurer, and George A. Post was elected Assistant Secretary and Assistant Treasurer. At the annual meeting of the stockholders, which preceded the Board meeting, Francis T. Maxwell, W. A. Folwell, A. N. Patterson, Carl Schoen, and Richard Von Briesen were elected Directors for three years. It was announced at the meeting that plans are nearing completion for the establishment of a new conditioning house in Philadelphia. It was also announced that the company now has twenty-eight ovens in operation and has authorized the purchase of six more. The testing capacity of the thirty-four ovens will be 5,000,000 pounds of silk annually. In 1880, at the time of organization, only two ovens were operated.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

NEW YORK REALTY OWNERS, (corporation.)—Judge Learned Hand has granted a motion for Job E. Hedges and Francis A. Winslow, receivers of the New York Realty Owners, (corporation,) 299 Madison Avenue, to sell an apartment house at 219 W. 80th St. and a tract of land at Yonkers, known as the Vineyard Hill lots, at public auction. The Judge also authorized the receivers to issue receivers' certificates for $100,000 to protect the property of the company from tax and foreclosure sales. There are arrears of taxes and assessments on the company's property amounting to $184,000 and arrears of mortgage interest of $12,000. The entire property is appraised at $3,300,000, is assessed for $810,000 and mortgages and taxes are $650,000.

BILL TO TRAIN BOYS PASSES THE SENATE

THOMPSON AND MILLS CLASH

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—Preparedness became the theme of a heated discussion in the Senate today after a stirring message from Governor Whitman on the subject had been read. The Governor in his message urged that provision be made, through legislative enactment, for a reasonable degree of military training for all youths above the age of 15 years.

Shortly after the Governor's message had been received the Senate passed the so-called Military Training bill, introduced by Senator George A. Slater of Westchester. This measure provides for physical training of boys over 8 years of age in elementary schools, and for military training of boys between the ages of 15 and 19 years in colleges and secondary schools. The bill also creates a military commission composed of one member appointed by the Governor, one member appointed by the Board of Regents, and the Major General of the National Guard ex officio to exercise supervision over the physical and military training courses in schools and colleges. An appropriation of $100,000 is made in the bill.

The bill was on the third reading calendar but had not been reached when the Governor's message arrived. Senator Slater asked that the bill be taken up out of its regular order. The two-thirds vote necessary to carry this motion was readily obtained. The bill was then put on final passage. It was passed by a vote of 41 to 1. There were nine absentees.

In the debate which preceded the passage of the bill the only voice raised against its enactment was that of Senator George F. Thompson of Niagara County. Senator Thompson said that this country was in no danger of war and that war talk was criminal, inasmuch as it brought on war. He was called to order sharply by Senators Ogden L. Mills of New York and Henry M. Sage of Albany, when he characterized the punitive expedition to capture Villa as a crusade "to turn twenty cents into a dollar in Mexico."

Whitman Urges Training.

Here is Governor Whitman's message:

To the Legislature:

> The war in Europe and the grave possibilities it has created for the United States has called attention forcibly to the inadequacy of the military and naval forces of the country. Not only is a suitable increase in the navy and the regular army necessary, but some plan or system should be devised and adopted which will insure an adequate reserve of men with the training necessary to be available to be soldiers at the outbreak of a war or to become so shortly thereafter.
> Under our system the main reliance must be upon a citizenry with sufficient training to make their patriotism and courage effective. Although the raising of armies is within the province of the Federal Government it undoubtedly is the duty of each State to provide its citizens with the advantages of physical and elementary military training and to impart to its youths the principles of discipline and the spirit which yields to the commands of duly constituted authorities. This is imperative in order that the State may be able at all times to furnish to the nation its quota of the material necessary to form an army.
> Our State from its position at the seaboard and from the extent of its territory and population, its commerce and industry, is vitally affected by the problem of national security. In no more effective and practical manner can it contribute toward such security and insure its contribution of trained citizens than by providing physical exercise for, and imparting the principles of discipline and subordination to authority to every youth as part of his education, and every reasonable degree of military training for all youths above the age of 15 years.
> The advantage not only from a military standpoint but in its effect upon the physical and moral well-being of our citizenry generally would be incalculable.
> I, therefore, recommend and commend to your earnest consideration the enactment of a measure providing for universal physical exercise and the rudiments of military training.
> CHARLES S. WHITMAN.

"There is a bill, introduced by me in third reading calendar which would carry out the Governor's timely recommendation," said Senator Slater when the message had been read. "I ask that this bill be taken up and passed out of it's regular order."

A good many Senators who had bills on the calendar which ordinarily would have been reached before the Slater bill, objected, but when the motion was put it went through by a vote of 24 to 11.

Thompson Deplores War Talk.

When the bill was put on final passage Senator Thompson got the floor.

"There is no war in this country and there is no need for all this talk and such action as this, as far as this country is concerned," Senator Thompson said. "It will be fifty years before there is any chance of war against this country on the part of any one of the countries now engaged in the European conflict.

"I do not want my twelve-year-old boy to go to a military academy and carry side-arms. I talked recently with an English officer who had just come from the French trenches. He had a bullet hole in his neck and he had been promoted for bravery. I asked him what the war was about and he said he did not know. I do not want my boy armed to go to a war that we don't know anything about. Some day it may be necessary to have him armed, but not while there is danger only of getting into a conflict of which we are absolutely ignorant.

"It is a wrong time to talk about war and all these things, for some one will push us into the conflict. It is the talk about war which brings war.

"This is the sentiment of the great majority of the people where I live. Just take a ride over into Canada and see the homes there that have been robbed of the flower of the country. It is not popular to talk against war, but I think it ought to be said, especially when we are trying to make twenty cents into a dollar in Mexico by a military expedition. That was a question of money and money alone. I think that human life should be the consideration."

Senator Ogden L. Mills had just been excused for the rest of the day on account of serious illness in his family. He is the sponsor of a concurrent resolution calling on Congress to make ample provision for military preparedness. When he heard the tenor of Senator Thompson's talk he decided to remain until the Slater bill had been disposed of. He was recognized when Senator Thompson finished.

"I had not intended to say a word," said Senator Mills, "but every time I hear as unpatriotic and as dangerous a speech as has just been made in the Senate I propose to answer it. Senator Thompson does not belong in this State; he belongs in Lincoln, Neb., with a certain distinguished statesman who has been going through the United States rattling off the same kind of nonsense.

"'Go up to Canada and see the devastated fields.' Senator Thompson should go to Belgium and see the devastated fields and the results of unpreparedness.

"The Senator says: 'Let us not get ready because we are in danger. That might invite war. Do not let us get ready because we are in danger. If we get ready and if we resent insult we may have to fight and we may get a bullet through our neck.'

"Well, if that is Americanism, if that is patriotism, if it has come to a point that we are not going to get ready because we may get a bullet through our neck, then God save this country!

"I do not think the gentleman represents the sentiment of his community or any considerable number of people, and I suppose it is idle to answer such a speech, but I do not think at this time, with the Henry Fords and with the Bryans in the country, that real Americans who appreciate the danger, who feel that we ought to get ready and be prepared for all contingencies, who feel that the manhood of this country demands that we assert our rights and be prepared to defend them, I do not think at this time we can afford to let go unchallenged such a speech as the Senator has made on the floor today."

Both branches of the Legislature have passed a bill appropriating $500,000 for the mobilization of the State Militia in case the National Government should need it in connection with the punitive expedition into Mexico or any other military undertaking.

Proposes Convention Referendum.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—Simon L. Adler, majority leader of the Assembly, today introduced a bill providing for submission to the electorate next Fall of the question whether there shall be a Constitutional Convention in 1918. The measure is in accord with Constitutional provision, which says that the voters every twenty years shall pass on the question of a Constitutional Convention. One of the reasons why Tammany Hall knifed the proposed Constitution last Fall was the hope that Tammany Hall might be able to control a Constitutional Convention in 1918 and make a Constitution under which the alleged discrimination against New York City in the matter of its representation in the Legislature, might be removed.

SWANN DEFINES GAMBLING.

Unlawful Only When Games of Chance Go On as a Business.

District Attorney Swann had another conference with Police Commissioner Woods yesterday on gambling, and asked for the names of property owners and real estate agents who rent premises for gaming. Hereafter, when the police report gambling in a house, the District Attorney will summon the owner and warn him, and if that is not effective the owner will be arrested.

For the information of magistrates, Mr. Swann yesterday said:

"This office holds that any social game may be played in a man's club or in his own home, provided the club is not organized for the purpose of gambling and the game is a mere incident, and is not the main object of the club.

"The card rooms of reputable social clubs are places of recreation for their members. They are within their rights provided the players play on equal terms and the club manager does not reserve a percentage over and above his winnings as a player, and provided also that the players do not make the game their occupation.

"The law against gambling houses does not apply to a bona fide club, but the courts can go beyond the mere form and get at the real nature of the association, whatever it may be."

Eight of the men arrested in Lieutenant Costigan's raid last week were arraigned before Magistrate Ten Eyck in the Tombs Court yesterday, and held in $1,000 bail each.

MINERS WOULD WORK ALONE

Say More Than One in a Chamber Reduces Earning Capacity.

The demand of the miners relating to contract work was discussed by the joint conference of the committees of the United Mine Workers of America and the anthracite mine operators in the Union League Club, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street, yesterday. The miners ask that the number of contract miners be limited to one a chamber. When more than one man worked in a room, miners said, earning capacity was greatly reduced.

Before the conference adjourned, to meet on Monday to discuss the cardinal demands of the miners, a telegram from John P. White, President of the Mine Workers, was read. Mr. White expressed satisfaction with the work of the conference, and said:

> Say to the anthracite mine workers they must remain firm in carrying into effect the non-suspension policy of the national organization. Emissaries of discord should be looked upon in their true light, that of a menace to the progress of the anthracite mine worker. The non-fulfillment of the intent and purpose of the non-suspension program would be a serious mistake.

President White will be present at the conference next week when the vital points will be discussed.

Person, Not an Accomplice, First Awaited Convictions.

Although no advances have so far been made either by Giuseppe Archiello or Frank Ferrara who were convicted of murder in the first degree for participating in the killing of Barnet Baff, District Attorney Swann learned yesterday that another person, who has not been mentioned before, has expressed a desire to come forward and tell what he knows about the Baff conspiracy. This person, was not an accomplice in any way. According to the information which reached the District Attorney's office however, he was afraid to come forward and offer any information until he was certain that Archiello and Ferrara would both be convicted.

Without knowing what information this man has to offer, District Attorney Swann hopes it may effect the identity of the "men higher up." In the meanwhile until he is sentenced Ferrara will have ample opportunity to unburden himself of everything he might know concerning the plot. Justice Shearn will sentence him to the electric chair together with Archiello, next Wednesday. This date was decided on yesterday.

TWO ACCUSED OF BRIBERY.

License Inspectors Arraigned and Held Without Bail.

William A. Russell, Chief Inspector, and John J. Rourke, an Inspector in the Brooklyn office of the Bureau of Licenses, were arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Nash in the Adams Street Court, charged with having accepted bribes as city officials. Both were held without bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The complainant against both men was William H. Boyle, an investigator in the office of Commissioner of Accounts Wallstein. He charged the men with having accepted money for reporting in favor of granting fruit-stand licenses on a basis that the stand would be 10 by 4 feet, when, as a matter of fact, they were told that the stands would be fourteen feet long.

Standard Oil Co. Raises Wages.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, announced yesterday that on April 17 an advance in pay of from 5 to 10 per cent. would be made to all refinery employes. This concern advanced wages last July and adopted the eight-hour day last September.

LOCKS SENATE IN AFTER BILL FAILS

KINGS MEN DESERT HIM

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—Behind doors, barred to prevent egress, the Senate today considered New York City legislation. The "close call" went into effect after a New York City measure of the Brown Committee series, providing for the conversion of the Department of the Bridges into a Department of Plant and Structures, had been defeated because it failed to receive the support of the required majority of all the Senators. The vote on the bill stood 24 to 19.

The shortage in affirmative votes was due to the absence of Republican Senators and the unexpected flop of three Republican Senators from Brooklyn—Gilchrist, Lawson, and Lockwood—who made common cause with the Tammany-McCooey delegation in the Senate in opposition to the bill which has been advocated by Mayor Mitchel on the ground that tis enactment would save $1,000,000 annually.

The Democratic members who fought the bill branded it as a patronage grab in the interest of Commissioner F. J. H. Kracke, whose department, if the bill is enacted, will be one of the richest in a patronage way under the New York City Administration. The three Republicans from Brooklyn who voted with the Tammany men to defeat the bill tonight, are thought to have been governed in their votes by orders from Jacob A. Livingston, the Republican boss of Kings, who is engaged in political warfare with the Kracke-Calder faction within the Republican organization in Brooklyn.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, the minority leader who led the fight on the bill, made the charge openly on the Senate floor just before the final vote was taken, that it was a patronage grab.

"There isn't a taxpayer in New York City who really wants to see this bill passed," said Senator Wagner. "The measure would take from all the city departments, with the exception of the Board of Education, the supervision, cleaning, and the repairing of their own structures. It would deprive the Borough Presidents of the patronage incidental to the supervision of borough buildings, which at present is a local function in all the five boroughs."

When the bill had been defeated Senator Brown, the majority leader, moved that the vote by which the measure had been killed, be reconsidered and that this motion be tabled until such time as he should see fit to call it up. Senator Brown expected to watch his opportunity and have the bill reconsidered when there was a fuller attendance of Republicans.

Senator Thomas H. Cullen, a McCooey Democrat from Brooklyn, moved for action on the Brown motion at once. With his motion carried, the measure would have been killed for good. Some of Senator Cullen's Democratic friends remonstrated with him that his action was far too drastic and a grave discourtesy to the Senate Leader.

"That will dispose of it for the session; I want it killed," Senator Cullen replied.

"But, Tom, it is not the right or proper thing to do," urged Senator James A. Foley, who hails from Tammany Leader Murphy's district.

Senator Cullen, however, turned a deaf ear to every plea. Then Senator Brown made his motion, a privileged one, that can be made at all times, for the dreaded "close call."

The words had scarcely left Senator Brown's mouth when Senator Cullen, who is the nestor of the Upper House and knows by experience how the "close call" tests physical endurance, withdrew his motion. Senator Brown, nevertheless, persisted, although half a dozen Senators crowded about his seat and urged him to relent.

"No, sir! No, sir!" the Senator shouted. "I want the people of this State, and particularly of New York City, to absorb the full meaning of what has been going on here today. I want every Senator to come back to Albany and attend to his work in the Senate, in order that the business of this House may be properly transacted before we adjourn. I want the people to understand that of the delegation from New York, only two Senators, Senators Mills and Cromwell, have shown themselves willing to uphold the hands of the city Administration.

"You Democrats talk home rule. You do not mean it. When you talk of home rule you mean that you want to have first call on all the jobs. You are for home rule only when partisan patronage is to be secured through it. Your cry this morning has been, 'Down with home rule, down with the Mayor.' This bill is urged by Mayor Mitchel because its passage will save $1,000,000 to the taxpayers."

Turning to Lieut. Gov. Schoeneck, who occupied the rostrum, Senator Brown, angry through and through, demanded that hes motion be put into effect.

"The Sergeant at Arms will close the doors and enforce the rules. The Clerk will call the roll to ascertain the absentees," cried the Lieutenant Governor, following the formula prescribed by the Senate rules.

There was a scramble among the spectators in the galleries and behind the railing, in the Senate chamber itself when the Lieutenant Governor warned visitors that they had better withdraw unless they were willing to remain "for a day or two."

After nearly all the spectators had left the doorkeepers shot home the bolts that bar the Senate doors when they are locked from the inside. Then the Senate Clerk called the roll and the Senators answered, resigned to the prospect of spending hours in waiting for absent members to be brought in from distant parts of the State.

The roll call revealed the following members absent: Argetsinger and Mullan of Monroe, Bennett and Doll of New York, Burlingame and Heffernan of Kings, Emerson of Warren, G. L. Thompson of Nassau and Wilson of Ontario. Doll and Heffernan were the only Democrats who did not answer.

Seven Senators were on their feet clamoring for recognition after the close call had been ordered. Senator James A. Foley got the floor. He accused the Republicans of playing partisan politics in the interest of Bridge Commissioner Kracke in the guise of doing something for the city of New York. Senator Lockwood of Kings, Republican, said he was a member of the Brown Committee but could not stand for the bill which had pust been defeated.

Senator Mills said that he agreed with Senator Brown.

"The mask is off at last," he shouted, turning on the Democrats. "These self-proclaimed champions of home rule and of the city refuse to protect the city's interest when they have reason to be afraid it is going to cost their organization a thousand jobs which might be abolished if this bill passed."

"You are losing your temper," shouted Mr. Wagner, the minority leader. "You are letting your temper run away with your conscience. You are a pretty agile hunter for patronage yourself when you are not posing as a spokesman for the reformers who always want to treat New York City as though it was fit for nothing but to be a subject for the rescue mission."

"Well, we will stay here until this bill is disposed of," said Senator Brown with severity.

Sergeant at Arms Charles R. Hotaling at once sent telephone and telegraph messages to the absentees, instructing them to return forthwith under penalty of being brought back in custody and disciplined by the Senate. Messages reached the Capitol late in the afternoon that Senators Mullan, Emerson, Bennett and G. L. Thompson would return this evening. By the time they had arrived, however, Senator Brown, after the Senators in attendance had put in one of the hardest day's work of the session, moved that proceedings under the close call be suspended, and followed this up with a motion to adjourn until tomorrow. Before the Senators dispersed, he cautioned them that failure to be in their seats when the Senate was called to order in the morning would be fraught with unpleasant consequences to themselves.

While the doors of the Senate chambers were locked the Senate passed two other Brown bills, one providing for a referendum on the question of whether salaries of county officials in New York City, except those of the judiciary and the District Attorneys, shall be subject to Board of Estimate control or be regulated by statute; the other providing for a referendum on the question of control for the Board of Estimate over the salaries of all city employes except the teaching and supervising staff in the public schools. This bill would place policemen and firemen, whose salaries and conditions of employment are regulated by statute at present, within the control of the local authorities.

The two bills were opposed by the Democrat minority and by Senators Gilchrist and Lawson among the Republicans from Brooklyn. Senator Gilchrist offered an amendment providing for concurrent action in fixing salaries by the Board of Aldermen and the Board of Estimate. This amendment was defeated.

In the end a majority of the Democratic Senators voted for the two bills. The County Referendum bill passel by a vote of 36 tot 6, the referendum on city salaries by a vote of 41 to 1. Senator Lawson of Kings was the only Senator to vote against the latter measure.

Among other measures passed by the Senate was the Ellenbogen bill placing the Sheriff's office in New York County on a salaried basis beginning Jan. 1, 1918. This bill now goes to the Governor, the first of the New York City bills, in the Brown series.

The Senate passed the Simpson bill opening the Speedway to the use of automobiles.

Before the Senate adjourned, Senator Brown said that if the report of the Reapportionment Committee was ready for the printer tomorrow the Legislature probably would take its final adjournment on next Wednesday.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

New York Athletic Club Investor Buys Five Uptown Apartment Houses—Audubon Avenue Sale—Dyckman Flats in Trade—$125,000 Bronx Deal—Brooklyn and Suburban Buying.

An apartment house deal involving five upper west side houses valued at about $1,000,000 was closed yesterday by Ralph L. Spotts, the well-known trapshooter of the New York Athletic Club, who purchased in the name of the R. L. S. Realty Company the following six-story structures from the United States Rubber Company: The Springfield Apartment, 174 to 180 Claremont Avenue, northeast corner of 125th Street, 100 by 100; the Yorktown Court, northeast corner of Fort Washington Avenue and 182d Street, 99.3 by 165; the Sunderland and Norma, 520 to 526 West 136th Street, each on plot 100 by 99.11, between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, and the building at 507 to 511 West 111th Street, 62.6 by 100.11, between the same thoroughfares.

The houses were among the properties owned by the New York Real Estate Security Company and on which the rubber company had made loans, and in the readjustment of the affairs of the realty company were taken over by the present sellers. The purchase was made through Louis Starr.

Another Audubon Avenue Sale.

Another Audubon Avenue deal was reported yesterday by Norman Denzer, who sold for the Emma L. Jacob Estate nine nots on 192d Street, between St. Nicholas and Audubon Avenues. The property is divided into two plots. One of these measures 150 by 100 and comprises the block front on the north side of the street, with the exception of the two corners. The other plot is directly opposite and measures 75 by 100, being located on the south side of 192d Street, 175 feet east of St. Nicholas Avenue. The buyer is a speculator.

On Thursday a plot 65 by 175 on the northeast corner of Audubon Avenue and 186th Street was purchased by the Manhattan Heights Improvement Company.

A West Side Resale.

The Montrose Realty Company has resold for cash 207 and 209 West Eighty-Seventh Street, which it took in exchange for the property 1,607 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, reported sold last week.

Dyckman Flats Traded.

The George A. Field Estate has purchase from Frederick Brown, operator, the two five-story apartment houses, 234 to 238 West 213th Street, on a plot 42.6 by 100. In part payment the buyer gave a sixteen-room dwelling on a two and three-quarter acre tract at Riverdale on the Hudson. J. A. Wood negotiated the trade.

$125,000 Bronx Deal.

Charles J. O'Reilly of the Thomas O'Reilly Sons Storage Warehouse Company has purchased from the Alpepiana Construction Company the seven-story fireproof storage warehouse on the southwest corner of 173d Street and the Southern Boulevard.

The structure, which covers a plot 77 by 100 feet, was held at $125,000. John F. Harrington represented the buyer in the transaction.

Bronx Sales.

O'Reilly & Dahn sold for Nathan Lowenstein to Finance Operating Company, Inc., 1,444 Boston Road, a four-story double flat on a plot 25 by 100 feet.

Hyman Berkowitz sold to an investor for the Simpson Construction Company the 50 by 100 five-story apartment house at 1,506 Southern Boulevard.

Brooklyn.

The Alco Building Company, associated with Realty Trust, sold the one-family semi-detached dwelling 2,103 Sixty-sixth Street, Mapleton Park, Brooklyn, near the Twenty-second Avenue station of the Sea Beach Subway, on a plot 24 by 100, to A. Peter for $6,000.

I. Salzberg sold for Mrs. M. Russell to S. Harris a corner plot 40 by 100 feet on the southeast corner of Forty-ninth Street and Sixteenth Avenue. The buyer gave in exchange a cottage on a plot 40 by 100 feet on the north side of Fiftieth Street, known as 1,627 Fiftieth Street. The same broker also sold for M. Kornblum to I. Phillips a two-family eighteen-room stucco cottage on a plot 40 by 100 feet, known as 1,548 Forty-seventh Street.

Meister Builders, Inc., have purchased from the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Trust Company a dwelling located at 1,270 Fifty-sixth Street, Borough Park, on a plot 40 by 100.

The William P. Rae Company sold at Sea Gate a cottage on Surf Avenue, near Beach Forty-second Street, for Mrs. Rose Williams to J. H. Duys for $17,000; house on Nautilus Avenue, near Sea Gate Avenue, for Mrs. C. B. Smith at $13,000 to a client, who will occupy, and the large boarding house on the Sea Gate ocean front and known as Sunset Lodge for J. H. Biggs to a client for $55,000.

Long Island City.

The old building of the Long Island City Savings Bank near the foot of Jackson Avenue, which has been idle since the bank moved to the Bridge Plaza, has been sold by the bank to Joseph Huber of Eighth Street, Long Island City. The property was held at about $25,000.

Long Island.

E. S. Willard & Co. and Kenneth Ives & Co. sold for Herbert W. Goddard the property consisting of forty-one acres on Sands Point, L. I., adjoining the Howard Gould and Lippincott estates.

Bramwell Davis has sold in Bayside for P. J. Tranter two lots on the easterly side of Third Street, 100 feet north of Montauk Avenue, to George A. Sheffield, and J. Wilson Dayton sold the Leo Bugg cottage on Jackson Street to A. T. Harris.

Staten Island.

Moffatt & Schwab sold for the estate of Louis Dejonge, Jr., to various purchasers who contemplate building homes, seven lots of land on the property belonging to the estate fronting on Grant and Van Duzer Streets, Tompkinsville.

Commercial Leases.

A. H. Mathews has rented the warehouse building at 60 Varick Street, corner Laight Street, for Graygold Realty Company to B. D. Kaplan Company.

Ames & Co. have leased for the J. Romaine Brown Company the store at 481 Sixth Avenue to Moe Gold; for John H. Henshaw the store at 489 Third Avenue to Matthew Gagliardi, and the three-story dwelling at 74 West Twelfth Street to Mrs. E. M. Mouraille.

Jersey City Plant Leased with Option to Purchase.

Joseph P. Day has leased to the Sanitation Corporation, a subsidiary company of T. A. Gillespie Company, the Standard Gas and Power Corporation plant on Monmouth Street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth Streets, Jersey City. The plant consists of a concrete fireproof building with several outbuildings having about 40,000 square feet of floor space on a plot 160 by 200. The property was leased for three years with an option to purchase.

Realty Notes.

A meeting of the members of the Real Estate Board of New York will be held on Monday afternoon in the board rooms, 217 Broadway, for the purpose of impressing upon the Legislature and the Governor the views of the taxpayers of New York City on many important bills before the Legislature affecting the tax and realty conditions of the city.

The Real Estate Owners' Association will meet Monday night at the Hotel Majestic.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE assessment rolls of real estate and personal property in the City of New York for the year 1916 have been delivered to the undersigned and that all taxes on said assessment rolls are due and payable, as follows:

All taxes on personal property and one-half of all taxes on real estate are due and payable on and the remaining and final one-half of taxes on real estate shall be due and payable on the FIRST DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1916.

All taxes become liens on the real estate affected thereby on the respective days when they become due and payable as hereinbefore provided, and shall remain such liens until paid.

The second half of the tax on real estate which is due on the first day of November may be paid on the first day of May, or at any time thereafter, providing the first half shall have been paid or shall be paid at the same time, and on such payments of the second half as may be made in such manner prior to November 1st, a discount shall be allowed from the date of payment to November 1st at the rate of four per centum per annum.

No discount is allowed on personal tax bills.

Taxes are payable at the office of the Receiver of Taxes in the Borough where the property is located, as follows:

Borough of Manhattan, Room 200, Municipal Building.
Borough of the Bronx, 177th St. and Arthur Ave.
Borough of Brooklyn, 236 Duffield St.
Borough of Queens, Court Sq., L. I. City.
Borough of Richmond, Borough Hall, St. George.

Forest Hills Gardens

"A Forward Movement in Suburban Development"

A forward movement implies that the improvements, such as sewers, gas, water, electricity, have all been installed along modern scientific lines. In the Gardens the streets are paved with a concrete base laid on local sand and protected by a coating of tar and grit. The sidewalks and curbs are of concrete treated with a rough finish, pleasant in color and texture. All sewers are laid in accordance with the best modern practice in work of this character, with two separate systems, one for surface and one for house drainage.

Electric light and telephone wires are carried in underground conduits through the streets. Water and gas mains are laid throughout the property, and the streets are lighted by electricity.

A forward movement in Suburban Development means permanent and scientific construction of streets and underground work.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The disturbance that was over the Great Lakes Thursday developed considerable intensity during Thursday night and moved eastward. Friday night its centre was off Cape Cod, where the barometric pressure was 29.20 inches. This disturbance has been attended by general rains over the Northern States east of the Mississippi River, snow in New England, and gales on the Atlantic Coast from the Virginia Capes to Cape Cod.

The highest velocities reported were 64 miles from the northwest at New York, 68 from the northwest at Delaware Breakwater, and 60 from the west at Norfolk. Rains are also reported from the South Plains States and the North Pacific Coast.

Considerably cooler weather has overspread the South Rocky Mountain region, the Ohio Valley, the lake region, and New England, the Middle Atlantic States, and Tennessee, while much warmer weather is reported from the Northwest.

Indications are that the weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday in practically all districts east of the Mississippi River, although unsettled weather is probable in the Lower Ohio Valley.

Temperature will be lower Saturday in the South Atlantic States, and it will rise Saturday and Sunday in the Ohio Valley and the lake region and Sunday in the Middle Atlantic State and New England.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic Coast from Norfolk, Va., to Eastport, Me. Storm of marked intensity off Cape Cod, moving eastward.

Winds for Saturday and Sunday: Along the North and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be northwest gales, diminishing; South Atlantic Coast, fresh west winds.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Saturday; Sunday, fair and warmer.

Western New York—Fair Saturday and probably Sunday, rising temperature.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	42	45	4 P. M.	58	44
12 M.	52	42	11 P. M.	50	41

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 46; for the corresponding date last year it was 48; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 48.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 43, at 8 P. M. it was 47. Maximum temperature, 52 degrees at 5:45 P. M.; minimum, 40 degrees at 6 A. M. Humidity, 93 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 72 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.63 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.42 inches.

The commission announces for April 19, at the New York Custom House, an examination for junior electrical engineer, Grades I and II, for men only, to fill vacancies as they may occur in the Interstate Commerce Commission under the act providing for the valuation of the property of common carriers. The following positions established under the above act will be filled from the register resulting from this examination: Junior electrical engineer, Grade I, $1,200 to $1,680 a year; junior electrical engineer, Grade II, $720 to $1,080 a year. In addition to the above salaries necessary expenses will be allowed when absent from headquarters in the discharge of official duties. Appointments to these positions will be principally for field service. Competitors will be examined in theory and practice of railway electrical engineering as applied to electric traction power generation and transmission, lighting and motor drive, and the mathematics used in this branch of engineering, including algebra, geometry, and trigonometry, but not including calculus; education, training, and experience. Applicants must have reached their twenty-first but not their thirty-sixth birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

EDUCATION NOTES.

Bird Day was observed in the public schools yesterday. Its purpose is to encourage teachers and pupils to make efforts to bring the native birds back closer to their homes.

"Physical Culture Night," under the auspices of "The Pamphilians," will be observed in the Wadleigh High School Auditorium at 8 P. M. on April 20.

The plan of the Board of Superintendents to invite high school students to compete in an essay and oratorical contest on "The Influence of the United States in the Adoption of a Plan for Permanent Peace," has been approved by the Board of Education.

The high school course of study has been amended by adding optional courses in music, and by allowing outside private music instruction for which credit may be given toward graduation, additional to Music I. and II., now required in the first and second years.

The Civil Service Reform Association has come out in opposition to the teachers' pension bill.

Substitute teachers in the high and elementary schools in Richmond Borough will meet at 10:30 o'clock today in the Stapleton Library.

SAVES AGED WOMAN, BUT LOSES HIS LIFE

Kenneth Collins, Passing Burning Building, Runs to Rescue Miss Ludwig.

FALLS OFF THE FIRE ESCAPE

Hurt in rescuing an aged woman, whom he saw hesitating on a fire escape while smoke and flames were pouring from the basement of an apartment house at 453-455-457 Columbus Avenue, early last night, Kenneth B. Collins of 225 West Eightieth Street, head of the firm of Collins & Aikman, upholsterers, of 135 Fifth Avenue, died in Knickerbocker Hospital a few hours later. He was injured when he plunged headlong one story to the street, borne by the weight of the drop ladder which he was trying to adjust, so as to get the woman to the street.

Mr. Collins was passing the building when he saw smoke pouring from the basement, and, looking up, observed Miss Sarah Ludwig, who lives on the third floor, hesitating on the fire escape. He called to her to stay where she was and then rushed through the house to the ladder, where she was. Mrs. Molloy, a relative of Miss Ludwig, also attempted to go down the fire escape, but she waited for firemen. Mr. Collins threw a brown bag, which he carried, to the street and sent his hat down after it. Then he carried Miss Ludwig safely to the second floor.

He found that the ladder which was to let them down to the street was too heavy, and in trying to place it he lost his balance and fell. He was carried unconscious to a drug store on the corner of Eighty-sixth Street, and an ambulance was summoned. Dr. Frascola rushed him to Knickerbocker Hospital, where it was found that he had a compound fracture of the skull and left shoulder. He died at 10:55 o'clock. At his bedside yhen he died was his bride of a few months. Collins was 30 years old. Miss Ludwig, when she saw Collins fall, became hysterical and entered a window of the second story. She was assisted to the street by a policeman.

Just what caused the fire is unknown. The basement and street floor of the Columbus Avenue side of the six-story building were gutted. The upper floors are the Elliott Apartments, the entrance to which is in Eighty-sixth Street. The fire escape, by which Collins's fatal descent was made, was on the Columbus Avenue side, over the shops, under one of which the fire started.

It was thought that it started in the express office of Louis Van, but before the firemen arrived it had spread to the adjacent stores occupied by Miller Brothers, florists; John Kimball, tobacconist; Sabilli Brothers, barber shop, and Schwartz & Co., furriers. The firemen had the blaze under control in twenty minutes. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

MAY FIGHT ELOPER'S WILL.

Grace McLaughlin's Body to be Brought Here from Havana.

The $50,000 estate of Grace McLaughlin, who eloped with George M. Stevens, a garage keeper, last January and went with him to Havana, where she died Monday, may occasion a legal battle. Miss McLaughlin is said to have divided her estate between Stevens and Mrs. Katherine Ingles, an aunt, in a will drawn on March 30.

Mrs. Ingles, with whom Miss McLaughlin made her home up to the time of her elopement, was said yesterday at her house, 4 West 129th Street, to be seriously ill. It was declared that the family had no statement to make about Miss McLaughlin's death, nor could the plans for her funeral be learned, although it had been said that a representative of the family was on his way to Havana to bring back the body.

Although Stevens had not obtained a final divorce decree from his wife and would not have been free to marry Miss McLaughlin until April 17, it was reported yesterday that a religious marriage, although it was not legally binding, was performed by a priest under a special dispensation the day before Miss McLaughlin died. Stevens, according to cable reports from Havana, would not discuss that phase of the matter, and referred his interrogators to his lawyer, C. W. Gormley of 61 Broadway. Mr. Gormley was out of town yesterday and at his office it was asserted that no information was to be given out.

WIDENS COMPENSATION ACT.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—A bill extending the scope of the Workmen's Compensation act was passed by the Assembly today. It adds many classes of workers to those now under the law, including all State and municipal employes engaged in hazardous employment. A motion made in the Senate for immediate concurrence was opposed.

An important feature of the measure is that it places the State insurance fund under the jurisdiction of the State Department of Insurance.

The measure provides that employers whose workmen are not included in any of the specified classes under the law may place their employes under the protection of the law voluntarily.

Among the new classes of workers to come under the law are those engaged in the repair of railroads, road building, curb and sidewalk construction, street cleaning, snow removal, barrel manufacture, well drilling, workers in machine shops, elevator operators, and window cleaners. The bill provides an award not to exceed $3,500 for an injury resulting in facial disfigurement, regardless of whether the injured person is incapacitated for work.

Refuse to Discipline Magistrate.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon denied a motion by Dr. William H. Hale, Superintendent of Public Baths, to discipline City Magistrate John J. Walsh for permitting Public Works Commissioner E. W. Voorhies to sit on the bench with him during a hearing in an assault case involving an employe of the Commissioner's office. Dr. Hale made the charge of assault, which was dismissed by the Magistrate. The Appellate Division was unable to see that the Magistrate had committed any wrong in allowing the Commissioner to sit with him on the bench.

COAL MINERS WIN.

Bituminous Operators Grant Increases Under New Agreement.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—Granting increases in wages which, it is estimated, will total $3,500,000 a year, the check off clause for both miners and laborers, and other concessions, the bituminous coal operators of the Central Pennsylvania district here late tonight signed a new agreement with the officials of District No. 2 of the United Mine Workers of America. The new scale takes the place of the agreement which expired March 31, and under which the men have since been working. It was reached after conferences lasting nearly a month of committees representing both sides.

Fifty thousand miners are affected by the new scale, which is said to call for the highest wages ever paid in this district.

DR. HOYT'S BOND FORFEITED

Physician Held in $2,500 on Drug Charge Fails to Appear.

When Dr. Daniel J. Hoyt of 113 West 126th Street failed to appear in Washington Heights Court yesterday his bail bond of $2,500 was forfeited by Magistrate Cobb. Dr. Hoyt was arrested April 7, charged with violating the health ordinances in giving opium without first making a preliminary examination of the applicant. Thursday he was held for trial in General Sessions and was given until yesterday to furnish a new bond.

The original bond was furnished by Mrs. Elizabeth E. Titler, of the same address, who gave the building she occupied there as security. Dr. Hoyt's counsel said his client had gone downtown to try to get a substitute bond from a surety company and that he felt certain he could and would explain his absence today.
